TRUCE UP TO REDS, DULLES TELLS BIG 3; WRITTEN PLEDGE BY RHEE REPORTED

EMPTY LIFE RAFT FOUND OFF PLANE DOWN IN PACIFIC WITH 58 ABOARD

Flare Sighted Later — 8 Children Among Passengers on Airliner Bound for Hawaii From Wake.

HONOLULU, July 13 (AP)—The Navy directed a massive search today for survivors of a four-engine airliner which plunged into the Pacific ocean with 58 aboard.

A green flare was sighted by a search ship just before midnight Sunday in the general area 350 miles east of Wake island where the Transocean Air Lines DC-6B was last reported.

More than 10 planes converged on the spot, but the searchers, hampered by pitch darkness and rain squalls, reported no further sightings.

Oil on Water.

An empty raft and seat cushions were found earlier on oily waters in the same area.

The flare was the second sighted in the area of the missing airliner, one having been reported seen by a Flying Tiger cargo line plane early Sunday.

The plane, bound from Guam to Oakland, Calif., carried eight children under 10 years old among its 50 passengers and eight crewmen. It disappeared Saturday night on the Wake to Honolulu hop.

It was the first commercial trans-Pacific plane crash in that section of the Pacific since World War II.

4 Rafts Unaccounted For.

Comdr. T. O. Murray, Hawaiian Sea Frontier operations officer and search co-ordinator, said there is a "good chance there is life around there."

"We will continue the search with that in mind as long as necessary," he said. "There was plenty of room on four other life rafts carried by the plane and still unaccounted for."

The pilot, Capt. William Word of Oakland, Calif., a veteran trans-Pacific flyer, reported in by radio Saturday night with no mention of trouble. There were no further messages.

Some of those aboard were civilian workers, their wives and families, en route from Guam to the United States for summer vacations.

Missourian Aboard.

Among the passengers was Norman Shipman of Morehouse, Mo., who was on the way home from Guam to attend the funeral of a brother.

The pilot, William L. Word, was a native of Willard, Mo.

One passenger was an employe of the airline, Charles Gallop of San Leandro, Calif. He was accompanied by his wife and two small children.

Another family included a Nebraska man, Fred Hansher of Newman Grove, his wife, and children, 3 and 6.

At its height Sunday, the search included more than 20 planes and 10 ships. They crisscrossed the Pacific area in a desperate race against approaching darkness.

Distress Signals Heard.

Earlier, weak distress signals were picked up for two hours in the Wake-Honolulu lane where the plane disappeared.

Although the signals were too faint for an accurate bearing, the Navy widened its search to sweep a greater expanse.

The Barrett found other debris amid 30 to 40 gasoline oil slicks where the plane apparently plunged into the water. It was only 30 miles from the point where the plane last reported its position.

A Japanese fishing boat in those waters, however, said it had not seen any crash.

The missing plane carried a Very (flare) pistol, a case of flares, four 20-man life rafts, and one 10-man raft.

Transocean said this was the first Pacific accident in more than one billion passenger miles of world-wide operations since 1946.

WOMAN DRIVES 1,000,000 MILES WITHOUT ACCIDENT

EAST ORANGE, N.J., July 13 (AP)—Marjorie M. Sweet is a woman and a driver, but not a "woman driver."

Over the weekend, she said, she passed her 1,000,000th mile without an accident.

Miss Sweet said she learned her driving at the age of seven at the wheel of her father's one-cylinder Cadillac and still drives an average of 30,000 miles a year. Miss Sweet was the second woman in the United States to be designated a golden pioneer of the Automobile Old-Timers.

STATE DEPT. MEN IN 'SHAKE-DOWN,' M'CARTHY SAYS

Senator Asserts Officials Under Acheson Got $150,000 From a Friendly Nation.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, said today he is turning over to the FBI evidence that officials of "the State Department under Dean Acheson" collected $150,000 from a "friendly foreign nation" in a "shake-down" plot.

McCarthy made the statement after his Senate investigating subcommittee questioned an unidentified witness for an hour behind doors.

McCarthy said the "shake-down" was submitted to by the foreign nation "to get consideration that it was entitled to anyway."

He said he could not give details or name the nation or United States officials involved. McCarthy said he conferred with the State Department after hearing the witness and agreed with the department that the matter should be referred to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

McCarthy said he did not know how many people were involved in the "shake-down" but that the money apparently was paid.

He said the witness, who was not recognized by reporters and would not give his identity, "gave documents and sworn testimony" regarding the case.

McCarthy said he could not disclose the approximate date of the "shake-down" or the nature of the "consideration" involved.

He said there was no evidence of "wrongdoing" by the other nation except that it "acquiesced" in the "shake-down."

The case is not being handled by the regular staff of McCarthy's investigating subcommittee but by chief counsel Francis D. Flanagan of the parent Government Operations Committee. Flanagan recently was transferred by McCarthy from his former job as general counsel and staff director to the investigating subcommittee.

His successor in the latter post, J. B. Matthews, quit last week under fire for an article in which he accused the Protestant clergy of aiding the Communist cause.

They Will Attend Mass Meeting of Top Civilian, Military Defense Leaders.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower's new Joint Chiefs of Staff, preparing to take over in mid-August, are assembling in the capital.

Adm. Robert Carney, to be chief of naval operations, is due today. Adm. Arthur W. Radford, to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs, and Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, to be Army chief of staff, arrived by plane yesterday. Gen. Nathan F. Twining took over as Air Force chief of staff on June 30.

Radford and Ridgway had little to say about world affairs. Radford had no comment on the Korean situation, but said the big problem in Asia is "peace all over."

The two were met by Gen. Omar Bradley, retiring joint chiefs chairman.

The new joint chiefs will attend what amounts to virtually a mass meeting of all top civilian and military defense leaders from July 23 to 26. Secretary of Defense Wilson arranged the meeting, to be held in the seclusion of the Marine Corps School at Quantico, Va., to provide "an opportunity to discuss common problems with each other in a completely informal atmosphere."

Ridgway, former North Atlantic Treaty Commander in Europe, said he believed a "considerable number" of East Germans must have heard of President Eisenhower's offer of food, spurned by the Communists, but he would not speculate on possible reaction behind the Iron Curtain.

"There are questions of foreign policy," he said.

One of the big task confronting the new chiefs is a broad review of the strategic plans of the new Administration. Wilson has announced he wants this review completed by next fall in time for use in preliminary planning of the 1955 fiscal year budget, starting next July 1.

Wilson says the new chiefs will:

"Consider all aspects of defense—strategic plans, forces, missions, weapons, readiness levels and mobilization reserves."

NEW YORK SUBWAY, BUS FARES BOOSTED TO 15 CENTS

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP) — The New York City Transit Authority announced today a nickel boost in fares on subways and city-operated bus lines to 15 cents, effective July 25.

A spokesman for the authority said tokens would be used in the subways to avoid use of multiple coins in automatic turnstiles.

RED CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

NAVY PLANE CRASHES, SINKS; 4 OF 11 ABOARD RESCUED

NORFOLK, Va., July 13 (AP)—A Navy Marlin seaplane with 11 men aboard crashed and sank in the Atlantic ocean today 25 miles east of Cape Henry.

Two hours after the crash, the submarine Ray reported it had picked up four survivors from a life raft and three bodies from the water.

Sale of Confederate Currency Is Reported Booming in Dixie

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

Confederate $1, $2, $100 and even 25 and 50-cent paper bills are being bought up at all sorts of fancy prices. In some cases more United States dollars are paid than the face value of the Confederate money, according to Herman Schindler, one of the leading experts on the subject.

The buying spree has even poured over into the frankly counterfeit Confederate money market. Only Yankees, however, are buying the phony bills, Schindler said.

Schindler and other experts say they can offer no explanation for the demand for Confederate money 88 years after the Civil War.

DALTON OPENING COUNTY INQUIRY, HAS 'GREAT DEAL OF INFORMATION'

Attorney General and 5 Aids Moving In to Investigate Reports of Law Enforcement Breakdown.

Attorney General John M. Dalton, who will go to Clayton tomorrow with five assistants to begin a full-scale investigation of an apparent breakdown of law enforcement in St. Louis county, said today his staff already has obtained "a great deal of information" about law violations.

He said the leads already assembled indicated the investigation would deal with oppression in office, non-enforcement of laws, violations of civil rights and violations of gambling laws and liquor laws.

The investigation also will deal with other matters as developments dictate, Dalton said. He stated he was going to the county seat to check personal sources of information and to direct general development of the inquiry.

Seeks Help of Citizens.

"I want all interested citizens of St. Louis county to give me all the information they have which might relate to this investigation," he said. "They can communicate with me by mail at Jefferson City, personally and confidentially, and the source of the information will be treated in strict confidence."

Dalton, who made a preliminary inquiry into the county situation last week, was empowered to act officially Saturday when Gov. Phil M. Donnelly directed him to investigate and prosecute the shooting of Chief Deputy Sheriff William Smith by a fellow deputy and "all other matters which might develop from this investigation."

Accompanying Dalton to the county will be Fred Howard and Don Kennedy, assistant Attorneys General on his Jefferson City staff; Hugh P. Williamson and D. D. Guffey, assistant Attorneys General who participated in the preliminary inquiry, and former United States Marshal Otto Schoen, an investigator on the staff.

Work Assignments.

The Attorney General indicated Howard would be in charge of the investigation. Kennedy's main assignment will be to look into legal procedure, he said.

Williamson and Guffey were in the state capital today to make a progress report to Dalton. Dalton told reporters: "We have some very interesting leads already," but declined to elaborate.

The scope of the investigation, which will begin with an inquiry into the unusual shooting of Smith by Deputy Sheriff Nicholas Burke at El Avion night club June 26, was broadened by Gov. Donnelly's directive to include "any and all matters which might come to your attention regarding any alleged violation of law in St. Louis county."

The Attorney General's staff joined officials from three other state departments sent into the county by Gov. Donnelly earlier. They were the Highway Patrol, Department of Revenue and the Liquor Control office.

Dalton said he planned to talk with Prosecuting Attorney Stanley Wallach and other persons involved in the investigation.

Dispute Over Reward.

The Post-Dispatch has reported that the shooting resulted in part from ill feeling among deputies of Sheriff Arthur C. Mosley. Prosecutor Wallach attributed it to a dispute over the

ROK PRESIDENT HINTS HE EASED DEMAND TO UNIFY KOREA BY FORCE

Robertson Balked on Promising U.S. Would Resume War if Post-Truce Talks Fail, Tokyo Source Says.

SEOUL, July 13 (AP)—A well-informed source said today President Syngman Rhee has pledged in writing that South Korea will not obstruct an armistice and Rhee himself indicated his country has relaxed its demand for unification by force.

Rhee said in a statement that South Korea may change its methods but not its objective of unifying the country.

The informed source told Correspondent Robert Eunson that President Eisenhower's special envoy Walter S. Robertson won sweeping concessions from Rhee—including the written pledge that South Korea would not obstruct an armistice. The source said that Robertson did not wish to embarrass Rhee by disclosing them.

Rhee was reported to have agreed not to free any more prisoners of war. His order freeing 27,000 P.O.W.s held by the Allies last month stalemated the nearly completed truce negotiations.

War Demand Rejected.

The on thing Rhee wanted and didn't get, it was learned in Tokyo, was a United States promise if the political conference takes more than 90 days to decide on a peaceful means of unifying Korea, the United States would walk out of the conference with him and resume the war.

"Korea must be unified peacefully," a Tokyo source said. "We can't commit ourselves to something that is up to Congress to decide."

He referred to the constitutional prerogative of Congress to send the United States to war.

Although the United States did not agree to resume the war in 90 days, it is reported to have agreed to "talk things over" if a peaceful settlement of the Korean political picture is not found in that time limit.

The United States is also reported to have conceded to Rhee that Red war prisoners unwilling to go home would be taken to the buffer zone and held there while their fate is decided.

This would remove the necessity of bringing into South Korea the Indian troops that would guard the prisoners and the Communist agents who are to be allowed to interview them and try to persuade them to go home.

Sore Spots With Rhee.

Both of these points have been sore spots with Rhee and some leaders of his government have even threatened bloodshed if Indian troops enter South Korea.

Any plan to bring the unwilling prisoners into the buffer zone would have to be presented to the Communists at Panmunjom and accepted by them. Presumably, this was being taken up in the secret Panmunjom sessions currently under way.

Red North Korea's Pyongyang radio said "agreement on the Korean truce appears to be in for a delay because of lack of sincerity on the part of the American side."

(The United Press said Rhee promised to keep his hands off

PRAVDA ASSAILS EISENHOWER FOR ANSWER ON TRUCE

MOSCOW, July 13 (AP)—Pravda criticized President Eisenhower today, saying he failed to give a "precise and definite answer" last week when asked about his hopes for an armistice in Korea.

The Communist party newspaper declared the President's attitude "is not by chance," and charged that the talks between President Syngman Rhee and United States military and diplomatic representatives are directed "if not at breaking up, then at least with dragging out the conclusion of an armistice in Korea."

President Eisenhower pledged at his press conference last Wednesday to work for unification of Korea by peaceful means. When asked about the talks in Korea between his personal representative, Walter S. Robertson, and Rhee, the President replied that no man can tell exactly how things will come out.

40,000 REDS IN BIGGEST OFFENSIVE SINCE 1951

Battle Opens Near Sniper Ridge With Heavy Artillery Barrage — Hand-to-Hand Fighting Reported.

The battle opened northeast of Sniper Ridge, north of Kumhwa, with tremendous artillery barrages.

"There is hand-to-hand fighting all along our front," said a United States adviser to the South Korean divisions most heavily engaged.

Earlier the Eighth Army had announced two Chinese divisions smashed against the east-central lines, largely manned by Koreans.

Details were lacking. The Eighth Army said only that "upward of two divisions were attacking between Sniper Ridge and the Pukhan river.

Another four Communist battalions were attacking near the Pukhan river itself.

It was not known immediately whether the full front was in action. It is nearly 20 miles from Kumhwa to the upper Pukhan, scene of heavy fighting in recent weeks.

The front from Kumhwa runs due east past Sniper Ridge and then cuts sharply northeast to Kumsong where it drops southeast—making a big bulge in the Chinese lines.

Sabres hit Chinese trenches in the Kumsong area of the east-central front, and eight B-26s hurled 1000-pound bombs on Red positions near Old Baldy in west Korea.

Other light bombers concentrated on Chinese troops entrenched on battle-scarred Porkchop Hill, also in the west, which American troops yielded to the Reds Saturday night after five days of bitter fighting.

The Air Force said 100 tons of bombs were dropped on Communist trenches, supply roads and gun positions by the assault force, which included 24 Sabres, four Thunderjets and 30 B-26s.

Sabre fighter pilots Sunday scored their biggest MIG victory of July by shooting down seven of the Russian-made fighters.

On the ground, South Korean counter-attack, won back an outpost northwest of Finger Ridge and scattered a company of Red troops who had held the east-central front position since Friday.

CATTLE RANCHER SELLING DIRECTLY TO THE CONSUMER

SNYDER, Okla., July 13 (AP)—With his back to the wall because of the prolonged drouth, a desperate rancher did a desperate thing—and it worked.

Clay Weaver, a small rancher in Oklahoma's powder-dry Kiowa county, saw he could not come close to breaking even on his cattle.

"My sister and I hit on the idea of selling our cattle directly to the consumer," he said. "We knew that was the only way I'd ever get my money back on the cattle I had on hand."

Weaver and his sister pooled their resources, rented a small shop in Snyder, and began selling both wholesale and retail.

Now ex-rancher Weaver is buying cattle from ranchers in his area, trying to give them a fair return on their investment, and at the same time to sell the beef at a price the folks in the neighborhood can afford to pay.

2 AIR RAID SIRENS TESTED, FIRST INSTALLED IN CITY

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Residents of west central St. Louis got an earful of the city's new air-raid warning system today when two sirens were tested by civil defense authorities.

The sirens, first of 127 to be installed by August, produced powerful, low-pitched wails that brought children scampering out of houses and put dogs to flight. Mounted on 30-foot poles, the sirens are on Clayton avenue west of Graham street and in an alley east of McCausland avenue and south of Nashville avenue.

Brig. Gen. Francis P. Hardaway (retired), civil defense director, said effectiveness of the test will be determined by analysis of voltage readings on power connections. "From the point of view of the listener," he added, as the roar of the Clayton avenue siren subsided, "I'd say the experiment was successful. It was good and loud."

GRUENTHER SAYS NOW IS 'POOREST' TIME TO CUT AID

Allied Chief in Europe Asserts It Is Too Early to Appraise Beria Firing.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP) — Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, new supreme Allied commander for Europe, said today that this would be the "poorest" time for the United States to cut its military aid to North Atlantic Treaty powers.

Arriving from Paris, Gruenther said he believes it is too early to assess the meaning of the ouster of Lavrenty P. Beria from the Russian ruling triumvirate.

He called the situation "one more gallstone in the Soviet bladder" but said whether it is good or bad is not yet known.

Gruenther, who took over the NATO command from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway on Saturday, came here to testify before congressional appropriations committees on the Administration's foreign aid bill.

Asked whether he would recommend the full amount requested, Gruenther replied "that is right." He said the NATO countries are "beginning to reap dividends from our strength, be it ever so modest," and now would be the poorest time to relax.

He cautioned that it would be "wishful thinking" to expect any "fantastic changes" in Russian policy. He observed that "if Joseph Stalin were alive he would have put down the riots."

Gruenther said there is a dangerous tendency to relax in the face of the Soviet "sweetness and light campaign." Whether that tendency is overcome or continues depends largely on American leadership, Gruenther said.

Gruenther will testify before the House Appropriations Committee tomorrow and the Senate Appropriations Committee on Wednesday. He plans to return to Paris on Wednesday.

Wife Blamed for Rakosi's Fall; She Slapped Him in Public

By GEORGE WELLER

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1953.

ROME, July 13 — The Hungarians blame the downfall of Hungary's Communist Dictator Matyas Rakosi — recently replaced as premier by Imre Nagy —on his wife.

The Hungarians inside the Communist party decided Rakosi was expendable after a public argument between them.

The ex-premier's Russian wife is a lawyer, graduate of a Russian university, and she used direct "activist" methods on her bullet-headed husband, humbling and embarrassing him.

When she disliked something Rakosi said to her in a public meeting after he entered office, Madam Rakosi hit him in the face before hundreds of party onlookers.

On another occasion she found his conduct at a dinner offensive. "You can't push me around the way you do Dobi," she cried.

Istvan Dobi is the bibulous president of the Red republic. Rakosi's practice was to tell Dobi how to dress and even how often to shave.

Mme. Rakosi, to demonstrate how anti-Dobi she was, threw a glass of champagne in the air.

Hungarian Communists believe that the Soviet secret police had assigned Mme. Rakosi to watch the policies of the government and report on them to Moscow.

BRITAIN, FRANCE TOLD U.S. STILL IS AGAINST U.N. SEAT FOR PEIPING

Secretary Says Washington Opposes Relaxation of Red China Embargo Even if Armistice Is Signed.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told the Big Three foreign ministers meeting today that a Korean truce is now up to the Communists.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said Dulles discussed the statement issued by Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson and South Korean President Syngman Rhee on South Korean participation in an armistice and "elaborated somewhat."

"The Secretary reviewed briefly the course of the Korean armistice negotiations and emphasized that an armistice is now possible if the Communists want one," he said.

White said French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and Acting British Foreign Secretary Lord Salisbury expressed confidence in the armistice negotiations and "praised the patience, perseverance and tenacity of the U.N. negotiating team."

Stand on Red China and U.N.

Authoritative quarters said Dulles also told Britain and France that the United States would be firmly opposed to the entry of Communist China into the United Nations or any relaxation of the trade embargo against that regime, even if a Korean armistice is arranged.

Neither Bidault nor Salisbury took any exception to Dulles's points, it was said. They were said to have agreed that a Korean armistice in itself would not be the occasion for any change in Western decisions against Communist demands for increased trade with the world and for Red participation in the U.N.

There has been considerable British sentiment in the past for admission of Red China to the U.N.

French Tighten Embargo.

Bidault disclosed that just before leaving Paris for the Big Three talks which began here Friday, he had given orders tightening the French trade embargo against China by extending it to cover iron and steel.

He agreed with Dulles that any easing of the trade prohibitions would only pave the way for increased Chinese aid to the Communist forces fighting the French Union armies in Indochina.

Salisbury, perhaps slightly cool in his reception of the Dulles policy statement on the trade embargo, agreed nonetheless that now was not the time for discussion of possible eventual trade relaxation or the Communist Chinese bid for U.N. membership.

A high British source also disclosed that the Big Three foreign ministers had agreed it would be advisable to postpone any possible Big Four talks with Russia until after Sept. 6 elections in western Germany.

Autumn Talks Desired.

The source said Britain favored the delay, but that Salisbury had pressed the point that Britain believes four-power talks with the Russians should be held "this autumn."

Regardless of the portent of Lavrenty Beria's ouster, Salisbury was understood to have argued that Big Four talks are inevitable and that efforts should not be long delayed to attempt probing the "Russian mind." However, there was no definite statement that Big Three agreement on a meeting with Russia would be determined finally at this time.

This morning's meeting dwelt almost entirely on the Far Eastern situation. Besides Korea, the three foreign ministers discussed the Indochina problem.

Two subcommittees working on the German problem and western European organization filed preliminary reports and were scheduled to report further later today.

PRESIDENT URGED TO BAR ALLIES NOT IN WAR FROM PEACE PARLEY

Such a Decision Would Exclude India, Russia —Knowland, Ferguson, Others Seeking Limitation.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower is being urged by leading legislators to demand that only Allied nations which have joined in the actual fighting be given a voice in any Korean peace conference.

In advance of possible Communist acceptance of truce terms, Senator Knowland of California, the acting G.O.P. leader, is known to be pressing Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for exclusion of non-fighting United Nations' members from the political conferences that would follow an armistice.

Any such decision would limit the political discussion of Korea's fate to South Korea, the United States and 15 other nations on the Allied side.

It would exclude such countries at India, which has done none of the actual fighting, as well as Russia, which has been supplying arms to the North Korean Communists.

Ferguson's Comments.

Knowland would not comment directly on this aspect of his frequent White House conversations on Korea but Senator Ferguson (Rep.), Michigan, said in an interview he favors limiting the peace talks to Allied belligerents.

"If there is a truce, I think the people who fought the war should negotiate the peace terms," Ferguson said. "Perhaps these terms should be submitted to the United Nations General Assembly, much as a treaty is submitted to the Senate, but 60 nations can't sit down at a peace table."

The Allied side of the war has been fought under nominal United Nations direction and Senator Smith (Rep.), New Jersey, a Foreign Relations Committee member, said he doesn't know if it would be wise to exclude India and other interested Asiatic nations.

But Smith said he doesn't want the peace commission made so large that the United States and other fighting nations would be outvoted by those which contributed nothing to the war.

"This is a matter that I hope has been under discussion by the Big Three foreign ministers," Smith said. "I hope Secretary Dulles can agree with the British and French ministers on a common Allied stand on this question."

Others Fighting in Korea.

Besides the United States and South Korea, U.N. members that have sent fighting units to Korea include Australia, Belgium, Canada, Colombia, Ethiopia, France, Greece, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, South Africa and the United Kingdom.

No one on the Allied side seems to know definitely yet which nations, besides the North Koreans, would sit down on the opposite side of the table. In truce negotiations, only the North Koreans and the People's Volunteer Army — the Chinese Communists — have been represented.

If this fiction were preserved, Red China would not be an official participant in the subsequent peace talks.

But Ferguson said he does not believe anything permanent can be accomplished toward the unification of Korea without assurances from the Chinese Communists that they won't suddenly resume the fighting.

A conference in which only North and South Korea and the U.N. were represented would have the attraction to some lawmakers of providing no direct avenue for Red China's demands for admission to the U.N. and for settlement of the Formosa question.

Beginning of Troubles.

Senator Sparkman (Dem.), Alabama, a Foreign Relations Committee member, said he thinks that if the truce finally becomes effective, "our troubles will only have started."

"The truce will stop the shooting but it will solve nothing else," he said. "The Communists are certain to seize any opportunity to bring up the U.N.-Red China question and to demand that the Nationalists on Formosa be handed over to them."

President Eisenhower has said that under world conditions, with the Peiping regime being dominated by Moscow, United States representatives will oppose recognition of Red China.

Sparkman said he thinks the President will have strong bipartisan Senate support on that score.

He and other Senators indicated that they will expect a detailed report from Walter S. Robertson, assistant secretary of state, on his talks with South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

Smith said Robertson probably will be called before the Foreign Relations Committee in closed session shortly after his arrival home.

Cost of Careless Smoking.

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Careless smokers started 7174 fires that took 51 lives and caused property losses of $8,629,740 in New York City last year. The figures were in the annual report released yesterday by fire commissioner Jacob Grumet.

Dulles, Bidault and the Marquess of Salisbury, acting British Foreign Secretary, resumed their three-power discussions this morning after a weekend devoted to bilateral American-French talks on Indochina and American-British consultations on Egypt.

Red China Steps Up Aid.

Among other things, the American and French delegations to the conference discussed yesterday what an American spokesman described as a "sharp increase" in Chinese Communist aid to the Vietminh forces in Indochina the last three months.

The increase began at "just about" the time Korean truce talks were resumed, the spokesman pointed out, and Bidault asked Dulles what the American attitude would be if the Communists took advantage of a Korean armistice to launch new aggressions in Indochina.

Washington would take a grave view of any such action by the Reds, Dulles replied, reaffirming previous American warnings to this effect. Bidault expressed gratification with Dulles's statement.

Dulles Welcomes Plans.

The Secretary of State "warmly welcomed" French plans for winning the Indochinese war and granting greater independence to the Associated States which Bidault outlined yesterday afternoon, according to American officials.

Bidault made it clear that carrying out the military plans would require 20,000 additional troops and expenditure of approximately $285,000,000 more than is now available for the Indochinese conflict. He did not ask for American forces nor make any specific request for more economic aid and material from the United States, American officials said. However, he did indicate that additional American assistance will be necessary if the plan is to be fully implemented.

Reports of increased Chinese Communist aid to the Vietminh forces in Indochina are causing considerable concern here.

Conclusion of a truce in Korea should mean "an end to the direct and indirect attacks upon the security of Indochina and Malaya," President Eisenhower said in a speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors here on April 16, "for any armistice in Korea that merely released aggressive armies to attack elsewhere would be a fraud."

A joint American-French communique of March 28 on the visit here at that time of Rene Mayer, then Foreign French Premier, repeated this view:

"Obviously any armistice which might be concluded in Korea by the United Nations would be entered into in the hope that it would be a step toward peace," the communique said. "It was the view of both governments, however, that should the Communist Chinese regime take advantage of such an armistice to pursue aggressive war elsewhere in the Far East, such action would have the most serious consequences for the efforts to bring peace in the world and would conflict directly with the understanding on which any armistice in Korea would rest."

The new French plan for winning the war in Indochina has been prepared by Gen. Henri-Eugene Navarre, new French commander in the Far East, and is now being studied by the Supreme War Council in Paris. It is designed to recover the initiative in the conflict by strengthening the French and friendly native forces and going over to the offensive.

Navarre plans among other things to relieve as many men as possible from static defense duties and build up a strong strategic reserve, an authoritative source said.

The Navarre plan has been discussed with Lt. Gen. John M. O'Daniel, chief of an American military mission which has just completed a survey of the situation in Indochina and is now in Honolulu drafting a report for Washington. Philip M. Bonsal, head of the State Department office of Philippines and Southeast Asia affairs, who was a member of the O'Daniel mission, took part in yesterday's talks here.

The initial American reaction to the Navarre plan is favorable, according to an official source. Dulles greeted Bidault's explanation of the plan yesterday "with satisfaction," the source said.

Dulles also reacted favorably to new French plans for granting greater independence to the three Associated States of Indochina. These plans call for negotiation of any and all issues which the Associated States wish to take up with France. Paris hopes the negotiations will begin soon and be speedily concluded in such a way as to put relations with Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos on a "thoroughly satisfactory" basis, Bidault told Dulles yesterday.

The Foreign Minister emphasized France's determination to make whatever concessions may be necessary to give satisfaction to the three states.

STOCKHOLM, July 13 (AP)—Exiled Socialist leaders from 10 Iron Curtain countries, in a cablegram to Washington today, urged the Western foreign ministers to press for the restoration of national independence of their nations and for free elections under international supervision.

The message adopted unanimously by the conference of the Socialist Union of Central and Eastern Europe, an affiliate of the Third Socialist International which is opening its third world congress here next Wednesday. It consists of the exiled Socialist parties from Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Lithuania, Latvia, Poland, Hungary, Romania, the Ukraine and Yugoslavia.

CIRCUS PERFORMER KILLED

BLACKPOOL, England, July 13 (AP)—A circus artist fell to his death during a performance here Saturday as 2000 looked on.

Wilhelm Kanter had just been applauded for balancing on his head atop a 16-foot pole held by his partner. He began sliding down the pole, slipped and struck his partner before hitting the ground, headfirst. He was dead on arrival at the hospital.

$100,000 PROFIT TAX EXEMPTION TO BE PROPOSED

Sparkman Says He Will Offer Amendment, Also One on Base Years for Levy.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Senator Sparkman (Dem.), Alabama, said today he will give the Senate a chance to vote on increasing exemptions to $100,000 when it considers a House-approved bill to extend the excess profits tax till Jan. 1.

"I'm also thinking about a proposal to change the base years on which the tax is figured, so that new businesses will have more leeway in selecting their base," he said.

Sparkman said his proposal to increase the exemption from the present level of $25,000 to $100,000 before the excess profits levy comes into operation would cost only about $60,000,000 in revenue.

Boon to Small Business.

He said he thought it would be a boon to small businesses which are struggling to build up reserves.

President Eisenhower, who asked for extension of the tax for six months, estimated it would retain about $800,000,000 in revenue.

The Sparkman amendment may be only one of a series offered to the bill in the Senate, but Chairman Millikin (Rep.), Colorado, and Senator George (Dem), Georgia, said they hope the Senate Finance Committee will approve the House bill without changes. The House considered the proposal under a procedure which barred any amendments.

The Senate Committee probably will begin brief hearings tomorrow.

George said he favors passing the bill without any amendments.

McClellan's Ideas.

If that does not happen and it looks as though the Senate may reduce the tax, Senator McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, said he may offer some ideas of his own. Among these, he said, might be amendments to tincrease the personnel income tax examption from $600 to $700 and to allow "reasonable reductions" for day care expenses of working mothers with children.

"If this goes through as a straight extension of the excess profits tax, however, I don't plan to offer any amendments," he said.

EISENHOWER NAMES GUY FARMER NEW CHAIRMAN OF NLRB

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower today designated Guy Farmer, District of Columbia attorney, as chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

Eisenhower nominated Farmer as a member of the board a few days ago. He was confirmed by the Senate late Friday.

Charge He Was Kidnaped — Egyptian Troops Surround Public Buildings.

ISMAILIA, Egypt, July 13 (AP)—Machinegun-armed British troops cordoned off the strategic Suez Canal town of Ismailia today and announced they would search all persons entering or leaving the town until a British soldier missing since last Thursday turns up.

Armed Egyptian troops at once took up posts around all government buildings in the town, near Britain's main Suez Canal Zone base, but the headquarters of Egypt's army said they were only "routine patrols" and would "avoid any friction with the British army."

There were no immediate reports of any violence, though crowds of angry Egyptians gathered at the British roadblocks.

The British charged the missing soldier had been abducted and that they believed at least one Egyptian official had been involved. The Egyptians denied the charge.

Naguib Calls Cabinet.

President Mohamed Naguib summoned his cabinet into emergency session in Cairo. Reports were current that a state of emergency had been proclaimed in the capital and in Ismailia, but the army headquarters in Cairo denied this.

Naguib emerged from the cabinet meeting for 15 minutes to confer with United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery. The Ambassador said he had talked earlier with Robert Hankey, Britain's acting ambassador. In response to a question as to whether he would use his good offices to try to calm things, Caffery said yes, he was ready to try.

(In London, a Foreign Office spokesman told reporters the British commander at Ismailia has the full backing of the Government. The British cabinet also met in emergency session and details were sent to Washington, where Lord Salisbury, acting foreign minister, is attending a Big Three conference.)

An army spokesman said the Egyptian troops in Ismailia were "armed only for defense" and that the town was "fully under the control of the British forces."

The British announced today that in addition to the missing soldier, one of their men while walking in civilian clothes in Ismailia last night was shot twice by an Egyptian. His condition was not serious.

Another British soldier was reported killed at Ismailia Saturday night while in civilian clothes.

To the British charge that their missing soldier had been kidnaped, the Egyptians countered today with an announcement that British soldiers at a checking post near Ismailia kidnaped an Egyptian secret policeman this morning. No other details were given.

Egyptian Threat.

Broadcasting from Cairo, Egypt's Minister of National Guidance Maj. Salah Salem warned that his nation would kick the British out of the Suez and "rivers of blood will flow." He added: 'We' have set a deadline, and this deadline has not arrived yet."

"Britain will not drag us into a losing battle," he declared. "When we are ready, we shall appeal to all of you to join us in battle."

An Egyptian government communique said the British had announced that all persons going in and out of Ismailia would be searched for arms and those carrying them without a permit would be detained.

The British acted after Egypt rejected an ultimatum demanding the release of Aircraftman A. V. Rigdnen. The British said he was last seen July 9 being driven away from an Ismailia square by a "well-known local bad boy" and that the British had "good reason to believe at least one member of the Egyptian authorities was in the abduction."

As tension mounted, an Egyptian said the situation resembled "very much that of 1951-52," when Ismailia was the scene of fighting between British troops and Egyptian police.

A series of skirmishes in the town culminated in a battle on Jan. 25, 1952, in which more than 40 Egyptians, four Britons and an American nun were killed.

Egypt and Britain have negotiated periodically since 1951 — but without any real success—over Egypt's demands that the British take their 80,000 troops out of the Canal Zone. The last series of talks broke down last May 6.

Food for Hungry East Germany On Way Despite Soviet Refusal

U.S. Has Not Given Up Hope of Delivering Supplies, Say Authorities—Funnel Plan Considered.

BERLIN, July 13 (AP)—Food for hungry East Germany already is on the way and the United States "has not abandoned hopes" of delivering it, despite Moscow's scornful rejection of the $15,000,000 offer, United States authorities said here today.

These sources said alternate possible ways of aiding the 18,000,000 people under Communist rule in Germany's Soviet zone are being studied in Washington, Bonn and Berlin.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov rejected President Eisenhower's offer of the food Saturday night with a note terming it a propaganda stunt. He said the Russians were supplying their occupation zone adequately.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer termed Moscow's action "highly regrettable" and described Eisenhower's offer as a "generous and humanitarian gesture." United States High Commission spokesman said "nobody can deny that East Germany is hungry."

Some officials suggested perhaps the Americans could give the food to the West Germans, who could funnel it to the East through interzonal trade channels.

West Berlin Mayor Ernst Reuter told 15,000 persons at an outdoor rally of his Socialist party last night that his Government is determined to help their Eastern neighbors in some way. He suggested the East Berliners should be allowed to buy in West Berlin the food they are unable to obtain in their own sector.

He spoke of "already drafted plans" which he said he expected the West German Government to approve, the West Berlin newspaper Montag Morgen reported.

Reuter predicted, however, that Moscow would be forced eventually to accept the American offer of help.

"The offer will be repeated so often they can no longer say no," he said.

The first shipment of food to Germany consists of 2000 tons of flour, 1000 tons of lard, 1000 tons of beans and 500 tons of dehydrated milk, a United States high commission official said.

American authorities said if some method of sending the food to the East is found, they need not wait for arrival of food shipments by sea.

"Stocks are available right here in Berlin," they said. It could be sent across the Soviet zone border in a matter of hours.

The initial supplies, they explained, could be taken from reserves accumulated in West Berlin as insurance against any new Soviet blockade of the West sector like that which threatened to starve the city in 1948 and 1949.

Allied investigators said the East German hunger situation had not yet reached famine proportions but that nearly all the East Zone's residents were suffering from it.

Promises by Reds.

By the United Press.

Communist East Germany today promised its hungry workers more food in a move to combat resentment at Moscow's rejection of Eisenhower's offer. Although denying there was any food shortage in the Communist zone, Food Minister Kurt Wach told the East Germans more meat, fish, margarine and oil will be placed on the market shortly.

Soviet denunciation of the American offer as a "propaganda maneuver" was received with derision by East Berlin residents.

"If Russia would stop milking us by feeding its occupation army off the land and shipping reparations to Russia we would have enough food," said one East Berliner.

"It's a joke to say we don't need food," said another. "The demonstrations last month were just as much against hunger as against Communism. If we don't get more food soon there will be more trouble."

HOUSE UNIT OK'S ADMINISTRATION IMMIGRANT BILL

Measure Calls for Entry of 250,000 Next Year —Senate Group Fails to Agree.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) A House Judiciary subcommittee today approved legislation to admit 250,000 special quota immigrants to the United States in the next year.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, considering similar legislation, failed again meantime to reach agreement on sending the measure to the Senate for action.

The House group added 10,000 persons to the special quota of 240,000 which President Eisenhower had asked for. The subcommittee added 2000 Portuguese, 2000 Arabs, 3000 Chinese and 3000 Japanese to the Administration's original proposal.

The remaining 240,000 would be made up of 125,000 persons who escaped or were expelled from Iron Curtain countries, 75,000 Italians living in Trieste or Italy, 20,000 persons of Greek origin and 20,000 of Dutch origin.

The House bill will be considered by the full Judiciary Committee on Thursday. The additions to it were made on motion of Representative Walter (Dem.), Pennsylvania, who opposed the bill on the ground it would "guarantee the admission of 150,000 Communists."

Chairman Watkins (Rep.), Utah, of the Senate committee, told reporters after today's closed session that there is not now the "outright opposition" to the legislation that formerly existed in that group.

The committee will consider the matter again tomorrow.

TAFT FEELING MORE ACTIVE, EATS GOOD BREAKFAST

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio was reported today to be feeling better than at any time since he underwent an exploratory operation last Wednesday.

"He is more active and had a good breakfast," today's bulletin at New York Hospital said.

The operation, an incision in the abdominal wall, was performed to learn more precise details of a serious bone lesion of the hip, for which the Senator has been receiving treatment for some time.

TRUCKER STRIKE TALKS END IN DEADLOCK, NO NEW ONES SET

Mayor Asks Each Side to Give Their Positions in Statements Wednesday So Public May Be Informed.

Today's City Hall conference of building material dealers and striking construction truck drivers broke up after several hours with the situation still apparently tightly deadlocked, and no future meeting scheduled.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, who had arranged the City Hall meetings in an effort to settle the eight weeks' strike, said he had requested the union and the employers to justify their respective positions in statements to be presented at the Mayor's office at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

"I believe the public should be informed as to the issues, so that it can make its decision; I have no authority to arbitrate," Mayor Tucker said. He added that he had requested that the union and company statements be documented.

Transportation of building materials in the city and St. Louis county was halted May 19 by the walkout of 1200 members of Local 682, Building Material & Construction Chauffeurs, an affiliate of the AFL Teamsters' Union. The strike was against five employers' groups, two organizations of contractors and three of building material dealers, who had balked at the terms of proposed new wage contracts.

27,000 Out of Jobs.

With deliveries of building materials shut off, the $75,000,000 booming construction industry in the St. Louis area folded up and 27,000 AFL building workmen were thrown out of jobs. Losses in time, wages, interest and insurance and other fixed costs have run into huge sums. Interruption of plans to occupy new buildings has added to the loss and confusion.

The strike followed the taking over of Teamsters locals here by the International Union, under the direction of Thomas E. Flynn, long-time aid to Dave Beck, the Teamsters boss.

International Union trusteeship of Local 682 was made easier by the indictment May 15 of Peter P. Higgins Sr., president and business agent of the local, on charges of violating the federal anti-racketeering law. Rudy Palada, an official of another Teamsters unit, was moved into Local 682 as acting secretary and business representative. Palada has participated in the unsuccessful efforts to end the strike.

Some Workers Resentful.

There have been suggestions that the sudden activity of the Teamsters here, and elsewhere, was a "power play" by Beck, who has assumed a leading role in the American Federation of Labor. Other AFL building workmen, made idle at the height of the good weather construction season, were described as resentful and their leaders have sought a settlement of the Teamsters strike.

Flynn appeared before a meeting of building union business agents to emphasize that the paralyzing strike was a continuation of the struggle for better wages and working contions for AFL members. The explanation was accepted by the Building & Construction Trades Council, which offered support of the strike.

Agreements have been reached by the Teamsters with three employer's groups, but negotiations became deadlocked between the union and 35 ready-mixed concrete and sand and gravel firms. There has been no defection among these owners, who stood together in resisting what they describe as unreasonable demands.

One of the union demands is for an increase of 25 cents an hour, above the $1.95 paid previously. Employers have offered 7½ cents, and are reported sticking to that figure.

Troublesome Problem.

A troublesome demand involves the method of paying union members, who own their own trucks. The union wants them paid the same as other drivers, plus a separate sum for use of equipment, instead of on a flat contract basis. Mayor Tucker suggested that the union plan be tried out, then renegotiated after six months.

End of Steer's Weeks of Roaming

—By Lester Linck, a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Steer which had been roaming the county for weeks lunging to break loose after being cornered and roped yesterday by officials of Olivette, shown here with firm grip on rope. Man in uniform is JAMES RAY, field officer of St. Louis County Animal Protective Association.

Steer Loses Home on the Range When Lassoed by Olivette Posse

Town Board to Discuss Angus Yearling's Fate Tomorrow Night—Vegetarian Opposes Its Slaughter.

A black Angus yearling, which has roamed, without inhibition, the well-manicured pampas of Ladue and Clayton for several weeks, got a bum steer yesterday, strayed into Olivette and wound up at the end of a rope.

The adventuresome steer's downfall was the unintentional work of two moon-eyed heifers in the pasture of George A. Heilman at 860 Dielman road, who, with typical feminine nonchalance, simply looked the other way as a posse of some 20 determined Olivette residents cornered the animal and thus cut off, before it started, what might have been a friendship.

Unknown to the steer, Olivette residents gathered yesterday morning to plot its capture when word got around that the black beast had crossed the Ladue-Olivette border. Mrs. Roy Martin, 824 North Price road, related the roundup was delayed "because the man with the horse didn't show up."

At 10:30 a.m., however, Constable Orion Litzinger arrived on horseback, fully equipped with a lasso, and two hours later the steer was cornered. Litzinger looped his lasso around its neck and, with the help of five other men and his horse, convinced the steer that freedom is only for those powerful enough to preserve it.

The footloose animal now is housed in a barn on the Heilman place, facing a most uncertain fate. The board of trustees of Olivette will meet in plenary session tomorrow night to discuss its first crisis on the hoof.

Harold Pirie, 420 Dielman road, a vegetarian, says he is dead set against offering the steer up for slaughter. As a director of the St. Louis County Animal Protective Association, he has requested Mayor Ray G. Mills to delay any precipitate action against the steer until its owner has ample opportunity to step forward and claim it.

Meanwhile, Olivette has a star boarder and its citizens a certain measure of pride in having accomplished what less hardy residents of Ladue, Clayton, Richmond Heights and University City failed to do.

SPEEDER FINED $180, CONVICTED FOR FOURTH TIME

Raymond L. Scharf, 952 Edna avenue, Kirkwood, was fined $180 and his state driver's license suspended for 30 days by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd today after Scharf admitted escaping from police in his automobile following a chase May 13.

Assessing the fines, Judge Dowd noted that Scharf, proprietor of a filling station, has a record of three previous convictions for speeding since 1951.

Police officers testified they chased Scharf from South Broadway and Bellerive boulevard to South Grand boulevard and Holly Hills avenue at speeds up to 60 miles an hour. Although he evaded them, officers said they obtained the license number of his machine and arrested him the next day.

Scharf, who pleaded not guilty but admitted driving the automobile, was fined $150 for speeding and $10 each on three charges of failing to observe stop signs. He told the court he evaded the officers because he thought his previous record "would cause trouble."

WOMAN BURNED SERIOUSLY WHEN GASOLINE EXPLODES

Mrs. James Lemm, 3023A Clay avenue, was seriously burned today when she dropped a glass jug of gasoline on the floor at her home and an explosion and fire resulted.

Her husband, a watchman, said he had purchased the gasoline to clean paint brushes. He had been painting in the house, he said, and asked his wife to bring him the gallon jug.

As she was handing it to him, the handle broke and the jug fell, Lemm said. It struck the floor "and everything seemed to explode," he told police. He said he was smoking a cigarette at the time. Mrs. Lemm, 46 years old, suffered first, second and third degree burns of the entire body. Lemm, also taken to City Hospital, suffered superficial burns of the hands and face.

ARTHUR O. HOELLER DIES; MANAGED CHEMICAL FIRM

Arthur O. Hoeller, general manager of James Varley & Sons, 1200 Switzer avenue, died yesterday at St. Luke's Hospital of heart disease. He was 43 years old.

Mr. Hoeller had been with the Varley firm, manufacturers of soaps and disinfectants, for 15 years, and was widely known in the chemical industry. He lived at 6827 Pershing avenue, University City.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marjorie Hoeller; four children, Susan, Anne, Jimmy and Jane; and his mother, Mrs. Edward E. Hoeller. Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard.

MOTHER, DAUGHTER REUNITED HERE AFTER 30 YEARS

Mrs. Pearl Forbord, 6155 Crescent avenue, and her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Tricarico, were busy catching up on a generation of family history today after a 30-year separation which ended with their reunion yesterday.

Mrs. Forbord, 52 years old, recalled that she was forced to part with her three young children in Cushing, Okla., in 1923 when she separated from her first husband. Lillian, then 3 years old, was left in an orphanage.

After her remarriage in St. Louis in 1939, Mrs. Forbord began a search for her children. A son, Glenn, now living in California, was reunited with his mother last fall. Mrs. Tricarico, whose husband is serving with the Navy in Italy, was located Thursday in Norfolk, Va.

A mix-up in train schedules almost prevented the reunion at Union Station yesterday, Mrs. Forbord said, "but finally we found Lillian, and I'll never know how I got across that station so fast." Mrs. Tricarico and her two children, Mary, 9, and Jimmy, 8, are planning to make their home with Mrs. Forbord, whose other daughter, Thelma, has not yet been located.

WIFE FINDS MAN DEAD

Paul F. Goersch, a steamfitter, was found dead early yesterday in the basement of his home at 5604 Morganford road. A shotgun was beside the body.

His wife, Mrs. Lillian Goersch, discovered the body after she heard a shot, police said. Goersch was 41 years old.

TWO AWAITING TRIAL ESCAPE FROM DEPUTY

Prisoners Were Returning to City Jail After Courtroom Conference.

Two prisoners awaiting trial on first-degree robbery charges escaped from a deputy sheriff today when being taken from a courtroom in Municipal Courts building to city jail.

The men, Paul T. Cooper and Richard F. Lindner, both former both reformatory inmates, were handcuffed to each other, but Deputy Sheriff Walter Armes said one slipped his cuff before they broke away from a group of eight prisoners Armes was escorting.

The party had gone down an elevator from the third to a subbasement leading to a tunnel to the nearby jail. After leaving the elevator Cooper and Lindner darted up a stairway by the elevator, vaulted a five-foot steel gate at the basement level and fled out a door into Fourteenth street.

Cooper and Lindner had been taken to the courtroom for a conference attended also by Circuit Judge James F. Nangle of the assignment division, Assistant Circuit Attorney William J. Shaw and the prisoners' lawyers.

They were arrested with two other men last January and Cooper admitted participation in seven holdups, including the $2750 robbery of the Firestone Market, 1200 Goodfellow boulevard. Cooper and Lindner, who denied being involved, were charged with robbery in three of the cases.

Cooper, 27 years old, gave an address in the 700 block of Thrush avenue. Lindner, 22, lived in the 3600 block of North Eleventh street.

Sheriff Martin Tozer told the Post-Dispatch that Armes had handled the prisoners in accordance with long practice. Two other deputies had remained at the third-floor level with six other prisoners, who were to be taken down on a second trip. Thethree deputies then were to escort the prisoners to the jail.

Tozer, who took office last January, said he would study the present handling procedure with a view to improvement.

"I certainly won't permit one deputy to be alone with so many prisoners in the future," he said.

DEPUTY MARSHAL KILLED BY MAN HE TRIES TO ARREST

Assailant Seizes Officer's Pistol, Fires 3 Shots in Scuffle in Garage.

Deputy City Marshal Arthel Hurdle was shot and killed at a Public Service Co. garage at 812 East Taylor avenue last night by a garage employe whom he had arrested for failure to pay a $100 fine, police reported.

Hurdle, 27 years old, a Negro, was shot twice with his own pistol by Leo Jones, also a Negro, 4600 Newberry terrace, after the two scuffled in the garage office, police said.

Jones, 28, was arrested early today at Columbia, Mo., and held for St. Louis authorities. Police there, who recognized Jones's car by its license number, said he admitted the shooting but contended the pistol went off accidentally as he struggled with the officer.

Police here said Hurdle, who lived at 4258 Maffitt avenue, went to the garage to serve an execution on Jones in connection with a $100 fine imposed in City Court as a result of an automobile accident. The deputy put Jones under arrest.

Thomas Wilkins, garage night foreman, said Hurdle identified himself and produced a badge. The two men scuffled, Wilkins related, and he separated them. Then Hurdle took his pistol from its holster and, putting it in the waistband of his trousers, went to the telephone.

Jones lunged at the deputy, seized the pistol and fired three shots, two of which struck Hurdle in the chest, Wilkins said.

Jones, besides his Public Service Co. job, had been working part-time as a truck driver for the city. Hurdle is survived by his wife and small daughter.

RAIL BROTHERHOOD HEAD RETIRES AFTER 31 YEARS

BOSTON, July 13 (AP)—D. B. Robertson, 76-year-old president of the independent Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen for 31 years, stepped down today.

He told the opening session of the brotherhood's thirty-sixth convention—its first since 1947—that he would not be a candidate for re-election and, if nominated, would not acept.

His announcement, at the close of a formal speech laying down a seven-point program for the union, took the convention by surprise. Officials said there had been no intimation Robertson was retiring.

CUSTOMER SHOT BY POLICEMAN IN HOLDUP ERROR

Man Is Wounded Three Times After Robber Flees From Store to Taxicab.

L. M. Beckett, 2028 Linton avenue, was shot and seriously wounded last night by a policeman who mistook him for a drug store robber. The holdup man already had fled.

Beckett, maintenance supervisor for F. Burkart Manufacturing Co., is in City Hospital with bullet wounds of the abdomen, right arm and hip.

Patrolman John Courtney of the Penrose Street District, who had been sitting behind a rear partition in the John G. Mueller pharmacy, 3801 Lee avenue, fired four shots at Beckett after Cornelius Mueller, co-proprietor, warned the officer that a holdup was in progress.

Customer Crouching.

Courtney reported he thought he heard a shot and opened fire when he saw Beckett on hands and knees behind a counter and heard him say, "It's a holdup."

Meanwhile the robber, who had entered as Beckett was leaving and had forced him to the rear at gun-point, dashed out, apparently having become alarmed when Mueller disregarded his command to "come up here" and instead ducked behind the prescription department partition.

Mueller, who had waited on Beckett, was behind a counter in front of the prescription department when he saw the robber and recognized him as the man who held him up twice last month, obtaining $275 June 9 and $600 June 23.

The druggist stepped quickly behind the partition, warned Courtney, then ducked behind a second rear partition so as to be out of the line of fire if shooting started.

Beckett, who knew the policeman was present, dropped to the floor, also to avoid being hit, as soon as the robber started to flee. He said he told Courtney, "It's a holdup," in order to warn him, not realizing the officer might think he was the robber.

Robber Runs to Cab.

After the shooting, the holdup man ran half a block to a taxicab and left the scene. Police today held for questioning the woman taxicab driver after witnesses reported the cab had been parked with engine running and door open while the man was in the store.

The driver insisted she had merely been cruising in the neighborhood and knew nothing of the robbery attempt. She said she drove the man to Sarah and Olive streets.

The robber was described as in his thirties, 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing about 145 pounds, tanned face and blond hair. He was in shirt sleeves and shabby sport slacks.

Also in the store were Joseph Briscuso, 15-year-old errand boy, who was behind the soda fountain, and Fred Gruber, Union, Mo., another customer, who was on the other side of the store during the shooting.

Courtney's brother, Neal, also a patrolman, was stabbed to death in 1946 by a 71-year-old vagrant after the officer put out a fire the man had lighted to cook breakfast on a vacant lot in the 1500 block North Broadway.

98 Degrees at Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, July 13 (AP)—Los Angeles had its hottest day in nearly three years yesterday—a sizzling 98 degrees. The minimum temperature yesterday morning was 79, highest since Sept. 23, 1939. It was the hottest July 12 on record.

SUPREME COURT DENIES EARNINGS TAX REHEARING

State Tribunal's Action, in Effect, Makes Final Ruling Upholding Levy's Validity.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 13—The Missouri Supreme Courty today refused to grant a rehearing in the St. Louis earnings tax case. This in effect, makes final the court's ruling upholding the validity of the tax, which produces about $8,000,000 a year in revenue for the city.

The denial of a rehearing was by the court en banc.

On June 8 all seven of the judges of the court concurred in a ruling affirming a decision by Circuit Judge William B. Flynn upholding both the earnings tax ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen and the state enabling act authorizing the city to levy such a tax.

Frank Welters of St. Louis and Edward Williams Jr., St. Louis county, members of the AFL Teamsters' Union Local 688, had contended that the earnings tax law was arbitrary, unreasonable, discriminatory and vague. The Supreme Court last month rejected these contentions as unfounded.

Validity of the law was defended by former City Counselor James E. Crowe and associates in the city's legal department.

The city's authority to levy an earnings tax expires next spring unless it is renewed in a special session of the State Legislature.

BILL TO MAKE STATE, U.S. TAX LAWS CONFORM VETOED

JEFFERSON CITY, July 13 (AP) — Gov. Phil M. Donnelly vetoed today a bill which he said would have only confused Missouri's income tax law.

The measure sought to make the state law conform with the federal income tax law on net operating loss carry-over and carry-back. But apparently it was copied verbatim from the federal statute and it included dates seeking to make it effective as far back as 1941. Donnelly said the bill's constitutionality was doubtful and its application "certainly would give rise to confusion and uncertainty."

He approved a minor change in the income tax laws increasing the maximum loss over gain from $1000 to $2500. The change is expected to have little effect in the law's operation.

RHEE WRITTEN PROMISE ON TRUCE REPORTED

the armistice machinery for at least six months, but said he would take action. if a post-armistice political conference fails to do anything about unifying Korea within a reasonable time.

(Rhee, in effect, gave the political conference 90 days to show proof of its intentions to unify Korea. The conference will meet three months after a truce is signed if not sooner.)

Charge by Communists.

Meanwhile the Communists charged at the Panmunjom truce meeting Monday that Allied planes strafed and bombed a prisoner camp north of Pyongyang last Friday, killing five United Nations prisoners and wounding 15. There was no immediate U.N. reply to the charge.

No other results of the meeting were announced.

Optimism for an early truce was strengthened by an order of the United States Information Service dispatching its photographers to the truce conference site at Panmunjom "by Wednesday."

Robertson told reporters on his arrival in Japan after his talks with Rhee:

"We do have an agreement (with Rhee) to a point where we are ready to go ahead with an armistice and sign it."

However, he expressed concern over an interview published in the United States in which Scripps-Howard correspondent Jim Lucas quoted Rhee as saying:

"We will not accept the armistice, but we have agreed not to obstruct it for a period of three months."

Reporters' questions on this interview prompted Rhee to issue the later statement in which he said method, but not objectives, of unifying Korea might be changed, and added, "some questions require further exploration at another government level."

Silence on Written Pledge.

Neither Rhee nor Robertson confirmed the report of the written pledge by Rhee, but it presumably was what Robertson hand in mind Sunday when he joined the ROK leader in issuing a statement of mutual understanding, and told reporters:

"We could not make the statement if we had not had assurance President Syngman Rhee would collaborate in the armistice."

A Tokyo source told correspondent Olen W. Clements that Rhee commented after signing the agreement with Robertson:

"You have come here and you have conquered me."

The Allied and Communist truce negotiators met twice at Panmunjom Monday and scheduled another session for 11 a.m. Tuesday (9 p.m. Monday St. Louis time).

Reporters outside could see the U.N. and Red delegates reading statements, but there was no indication of progress on the armistice agreement.

But Communist correspondents at Panmunjom and the official Peiping Communist radio, usually good indicators of official opinion, indicated the Red delegates are far from satisfied with U.N. assurances that South Korea will obey a truce.

Peiping said the Robertson-Rhee talks were "no help to the realization of an early armistice," and called a joint statement by Robertson and Rhee "obscure."

'Sabotage the Armistice.'

The broadcast said Rhee "still gives no definite assurance that his government and army will observe the Korean armistice agreement which is ready for signing." It said "on the contrary, Rhee has got from Robertson encouragement to sabotage the armistice."

The Red correspondents indicated that Rhee's position was confused and the assurances offered too thin.

They indicated the Red truce delegation seems to feel it is too early to tip its hand on proceeding with preparations for the long-awaited signing ceremonies.

The Reds seem to be demanding firm assurances from Gen. Mark W. Clark, U.N. Far East commander, rather than any statements from Rhee, that the growing 16-division ROK army will not break the armistice.

At Pusan, thousands of Koreans summoned by their block leaders gathered at two major rally centers and demonstrated against any cease-fire.

Except for members of a youth organization which led the other thousands, the demonstrators paraded without enthusiasm. South Korean mounted policemen were hard put to keep stragglers from slipping away.

At one of the two rallies, the crowd passed a resolution saying: "We flatly refuse any cease-fire agreement unless our demands at the U.S.-Korean conference in Seoul are accepted."

Another sign said: "Our everlasting thanks to United States aid to Korea."

DALTON OPENING COUNTY INQUIRY, HAS MANY LEADS

Sheriff's solicitation and acceptance of a $500 reward for himself for the recovery of hijacked whisky. This was disclosed after an apparent attempt to cover up details of the shooting.

Since the shooting there have been reports of an upsurge in county gambling as a result of lax law enforcement and of other violations of law and order unchecked by the sheriff throughout the sprawling county area.

Supervisor Luman F. Matthews last week called for immediate impaneling of the grand jury to look into the matter, but Circuit Judge John A. Witthaus, whose turn it is to call a grand jury, has declined to take action before mid-September. He reiterated his stand today.

A federal indictment in the case of $50,000 worth of hijacked whisky recovered in a Wellston shed, the case which caused the row among the sheriff's deputies, was dismissed June 30 in United States District Court. It charged Melvin E. (Pete) von Behren, owner of the shed, with possession of stolen whisky in interstate commerce.

Assistant United States Attorney Herbert H. Freer told the Post-Dispatch today he obtained dismissal of the indictment in open court with authorization from the United States Attorney General's office. The action was taken because of lack of legal evidence to convict von Behren, based on the fact the liquor was not under his control since he had leased the shed to another person, Freer said.

Freer added that the Federal Bureau of Investigation was still working on the case. If more evidence is obtained, a new and stronger indictment will be sought, he said.

Favored Bondsmen.

One aspect of the Attorney General's investigation may be the influence of certain professional bondsmen who have been favored by county authorities to the exclusion of other bondsmen.

Favored bondsmen, according to complainants, include Edward Marek of Shrewsbury, a former St. Louis policeman; Roy Graham, a Clayton tavern operator; Harry Gleason, and James J. Boyd.

Marek has been under fire in Federal court and circuit court as a result of bond forfeitures, the Post-Dispatch was told, and is now barred from signing bonds by United States Commissioner Edwin J. Bean.

A $2275 judgment was entered against Marek in Federal court Oct. 27, 1950 after a defendant jumped bail. Bean said investigation disclosed that some property listed by Marek as surety had been sold by him and that the balance was in joint tenancy.

The judgment was paid in installments, the last payment being received last Dec. 8. Marek was refused when he applied for permission to sign another bond after completion of payments.

Others 'Qualified.'

Others on a list of "qualified" bondsmen posted by the sheriff are George Khoury of the Automobile Club of Missouri, who signs mostly bonds for insurance companies; Sam Silk, and Frank Jordan.

Jordan has signed few bonds since he supported Constable Orion J. Litzinger against Sheriff Mosley in the Republican primary last August.

Mayor Leo J. Hayes of Wellston today denied that handbooks were operating openly in his city. He said the police department was doing an excellent job of apprehending law violators, but complained that Wellston policemen were handicapped because outside agencies with knowledge of violations of the law in Wellston were refusing to confide in them.

Referring to a raid conducted by St. Louis police May 19 on a Wellston handbook operating in an apartment at 6335A Easton avenue, Hayes said his department had been notified to meet deputy sheriffs on Page boulevard.

"They responded immediately and found a party of seven city (St. Louis) police headed by Capt. (Joseph) Wren, two deputy sheriffs and two internal revenue agents, he said. "The Wellston police were invited to trail along without knowing where the larger squadron was going. Upon arrival at the flat it was found that the birds had flown."

The raiders found evidence of bookmaking. Capt. Wren had had the apartment under surveillance for some time on reports that racing information for other handbooks was being relayed from that point.

Hayes also told of another futile handbook raid in Wellston.

"On one occasion we were forced to request a search warrant against a place where we believed a handbook was in operation," he said. "By the time our police arrived there with a deputy sheriff, by some strange coincidence, all of the evidence was gone. So were the operators."

Mayor Hayes also complained that his police were not brought into investigation of the truckload of hijacked whisky recovered in a Wellston shed last December. The investigation which led to the recovery has been criticized because of ineffective police work by some county deputy sheriffs.

Hayes said the stolen whisky was kept under surveillance for three weeks without anyone telling Wellston police what was going on.

"We did not and could not have known the facts," he said, "because of their policy (referring to the policy of outside police agencies) of ignoring our officers. If the hijacking had occurred in Wellston in all probability we would have had the culprits as well as the loot."

Republicans Consider Boycott Of McCarthy's Inquiry Group

Way Sought to Halt New Ventures Until Formula Is Found to Return Democrats to Subcommittee.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 13—A plan for one or more Republican members to boycott the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee headed by Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, until a formula is found to make it bipartisan again was reported yesterday.

The strategy, known to have been discussed with the top Republican leadership, comes after the resignation Friday of the subcommittee's three Democratic members. They quit after they were refused a voice in the hiring and dismissal of staff members, following the resignation of J. B. Matthews as staff director.

These resignations left the Republican party wholly responsible for the activities of the Senate's most controversial investigative body.

(McCarthy told the Associated Press he knew nothing of any boycott plan. He said also that under a special rule of the committee, one member constitutes a quorum for hearings, so inquiries could go right ahead even if there were a stay-away move by some Republicans. McCarthy did not go specifically into the question of what could be done about committee findings.

(The Associated Press said that McCarthy was the only member of the subcommittee who showed up at a meeting which he called today, but it was reported that the three Republican members had other committee dates.)

(Senator Charles C. Potter (Rep.), Michigan, a member of the committee, declared he knew of no plan for G.O.P. members to remain away. The other Republican members, Senator Dirksen of Illinois, and Senator Mundt of South Dakota, could not be reached for comment on the reported strategy.)

In view of the controversial nature of the subcommittee's work, many responsible Republicans are known to feel that restoration of bipartisanship is essential to its successful functioning.

Since a quorum of the seven-place subcommittee is four members, it would appear that absence of even one of the remaining members would raise at least a legal question concerning any decisions the subcommittee may make until it is brought up to strength.

In any event, non-appearance of the remaining members would place the chairman in the position of acting as a "one-man subcommittee," plainly without the support of his colleagues.

The first test of this approach may come Tuesday, when the subcommittee is supposed to meet to decide on whether to vote a subpena for William P. Bundy, of the Central Intelligence Agency, for questioning about $400 he allegedly gave the Alger Hiss defense fund.

The Administration and the Senate Republican leadership were reported concerned after McCarthy demanded last Thursday that Bundy be called.

They took the position that appearance of officials of CIA and other sensitive agencies before congressional committees might interfere with their secret work. Allen W. Dulles, director of CIA, conferred Friday with McCarthy on the subject.

McCarthy raised the Bundy issue as the furor over his insistence on retaining Matthews approached the Thursday night crisis that brought the staff director's resignation after sharp criticism by President Eisenhower.

The attack on Matthews rose from a magazine article in which Matthews wrote that Protestant clergymen form "the largest single group" supporting American Communists.

Democratic members went beyond a simple demand for Matthews's resignation to insist that they be given a voice over the staff. They quit after the Republicans unanimously backed McCarthy's contention that this is exclusively the chairman's power.

CLIMBS FLAGPOLE ON DARE, INJURED WHEN IT BREAKS

Jack Smith, an ironworker, 3125A Hadley avenue, was in City Hospital today with back injuries suffered yesterday when a 48-foot flagpole he was attempting to climb snapped in the middle, throwing him to the ground.

Police said Smith, 32 years old, and two friends had a "friendly argument" and dared one another to climb the pole at Chain Yacht Club, foot of East Grand boulevard. Smith was first to try.

ERROR IN PICNIC DATE

It was erroneously reported in yesterday's Post-Dispatch that the Greater St. Louis Peregrine Society's fifth annual picnic would be held next Sunday, when in fact it will be tomorrow at Old State Road farm in Glencoe, Mo.

Transportation will be provided at the society's office, 4030 Chouteau avenue, to and from the farm in air-conditioned busses. They will leave at 10 a.m. and return at 6 p.m.

WORD 'LIQUIDATE' USED IN MOSCOW ATTACK ON BERIA

Radio Tells How Millions Express Gratitude for Action Against Ex-Police Boss.

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—The fatal word "liquidate" has appeared in the Moscow radio's fulminations against Lavrenty P. Beria.

It broadcast a Tass dispatch yesterday saying that Moscow newspapers carried reports from all over Russia, where rallies and party meetings:

"Unanimously approved the resolute and timely measures taken by the party and the government to liquidate the criminal anti-popular and anti-state activities of Beria, the enemy of the party and the Soviet people."

Speculation has arisen that the former head of the Soviet secret police had already been executed. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer voiced such a belief. In any event, the crimes of which he stands accused are punishable by death before a firing squad.

Moscow broadcasts tell how millions of Russian workers through their trade union leaders have expressed gratitude to the Presidium of the Central Committee of the Communist party which:

"Resolutely and in time exposed and rendered harmless" Beria—the "foul traitor and adventurer, the agent of international imperialism."

There is no mention when Beria will be brought to trial. His arrest was announced Friday morning. He apparently was arrested late in June.

Denunciations of Beria and praise for the Kremlin's action flowed from Communist sources in various lands. Here are some samples.

Red China—The Peiping People's Daily cheered the downfall of Beria as a tremendous success for the Communist party of the Soviet Union and for working people throughout the world.

Italy—The Rome news agency L'Informazione Italiana reported that Mikhail Kostylev, Russian Ambassador to Italy since 1945, and an old-time diplomat close to Beria, may be replaced because of his friendship with the deposed No. 2 Russian leader.

Poland—The Polish press said Beria's downfall is proof of the unity and power of the Soviet Union and its Communist party, "against which every enemy will be crushed."

Albania — This small Soviet satellite echoed Russian attacks on "the criminal" Beria. Tirana radio broadcast that the Albanian party and people stand firm on the teachings of Lenin and Stalin.

Daily Worker Hails Beria Arrest as Peace Drive Triumph.

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—The Daily Worker commented on the fall of Lavrenty P. Beria for the first time today, implied it was a defeat for Eisenhower Administration policies and hailed it as a victory for Russia's peace offensive.

An editorial in the official organ of the American Communist party said in part:

"In exposing Beria, one of the top leaders of the Soviet state, the Soviet people have obviously nipped a well-hidden agent on whom the enemies of peace and Socialism had placed some of their best hopes.

"The full ramifications of this network remain still to be exposed to the world by the Soviet Union. But that the imperialists had counted heavily on it can be seen in the eager cries coming from Mr. Dulles, the Secretary of State, about 'convulsions' of Socialist society, and about the implied new chance we Americans have to 'liberate' the Socialist peoples by force and violence as well as by espionage and wrecking.

"After all, neither Dulles nor the Eisenhower Administration can boast of any spectacular successes for their 'liberation policies,' their NATO war machine based on the German Nazis, or their effort to start the conquest of China by the agression in Korea. . . ."

6 KILLED, ONE INJURED IN IOWA AUTO COLLISION

GARNER, Ia., July 13 (AP)—Six persons were killed yesterday in a two-auto collision a mile south of here on United States Highway 69. Another person was injured.

Killed outright were Mrs. Katheryn Gillam, 33 years old, Altoona, Ia., and a daughter, Diane, 11; Jack R. Burns, 35, Walter Hedge, 48, and Arthur Wagner, 73, all of Des Moines. Mrs. Gillam's other daughter, Linda, 9, died later at a Mason City hospital.

EAST GERMANY SPECULATES ON NEW SOVIET BOSS

Absence of High Commissioner Semyenov Leads to Surmise He Will Be Replaced.

BERLIN, July 13 (UP)—Speculation grew today that the restless Soviet zone of Germany may get a new high commissioner.

The present commissioner, Vladimir Semyenov, was recalled to Moscow two weeks ago and was first scheduled to return to Berlin last week, informed sources said.

He did not appear last week, and the East German government was informed he would arrive today.

However, over the weekend the Red government was told that his departure again had been delayed, according to the informants. They said no new date for his arrival was given.

Close Ties With Beria.

Semyenov's failure to return raised speculation that he had incurred the enmity of the Kremlin for his close ties with Lavrenty P. Beria, purged former chief of the Soviet secret police, or that he was being blamed for anti-Communist uprisings which swept the Soviet zone last month. During World War II Semyenov was Beria's foreign policy adviser.

By the Associated Press.

Red Gestapo Chief Wilhelm Zaisser, who used to boast that he had a direct telephone line to Beria in Moscow, was named in underground reports last night as the No. 1 German target of the Malenkov purge.

Premier Otto Grotewohl's Soviet zone government was still paralyzed with fright by the grave struggle for power inside the Kremlin. Beria's overthrow, coming on the heels of the June 17 revolt in East Germany, plunged the oldest German party-liners into despair.

Eastern sources said Moscow has failed to send a clear directive to Soviet and German officials here since Beria was arrested.

Of all Germans, State Security Ministry Zaisser was closest to Beria. They first met in a Red army counter-intelligence school in Moscow in 1924. Beria freed Zaisser from a Russian concentration camp in 1938 after he had been made a scapegoat for the defeat of the Red international brigades he commanded in the Spanish civil war as "General Gomez."

BRITAIN'S STEEL PLANTS FOR SALE TO INDIVIDUALS

Tory Government Moves to Denationalize Industry Laborites Took Over in 1951.

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—Britain's booming nationalized iron and steel industry—third largest in the world—came under the auctioneer's hammer today in the first move to put it back under private ownership.

Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative Government is turning the sprawling industry, valued at around $1,000,000,000 and embracing almost everything from armor plate to tacks, back to "free enterprise" only two years after the Laborites nationalized it.

Running this mammoth auction is Sir John Morison, chairman of the Iron and Steel Holding Realization Agency.

When the Laborites nationalized iron and steel in February 1951 as part of a plan to nationalize 30 per cent of the country's economy, they allowed the industry's 80 odd firms to retain their directors and managers but took over all shares on a compensation basis.

Morison's agency has the job of selling these shares back to the industry and the public.

Threat From Laborites.

Financial experts think he'll have to do it at knckdown prices for these two reasons:

The Laborites warned that as soon as they get back to power they will renationalile the industry—and there won't be so much compensation next time.

Even when denationalized, private enterprise will not have full control of the industry. An iron and steel board headed by Sir Archibald Forbes has been set up to fix ceiling prices for steel and supervise general policy of the industry.

Former steel owners themselves get the first pick of shares which probably will be offered to the public in September.

The Conservatives bitterly fought steel nationalization when they were an opposition party and managed to postpone the industry's takeover for nearly two years.

Industry Booming.

As soon as the Tories came back to Power in October, 1951, they announced that iron and steel was first on the list of nationalized industries to be "unscrambled" and turned back to private ownership.

Plans to denationalize Britain's long distance trucking industry already are nearing completion.

Since the government took over iron and steel, the industry has been booming.

Wartime rationing of steel to manufacturers was abandoned earlier this year.

In the first full year of nationalization, the industry increased profits by $28,000,000 to $1,820,000,000 and produced an all-time high of 16,420,000 tons of steel.

ISRAEL SHIFTS MINISTRY DESPITE WARNING BY U.S.

JERUSALEM, July 13 (AP)—Israel transferred its foreign ministry from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem yesterday. The United States State Department warned Saturday that such a move would be contrary to the United Nations resolution on the "international nature of Jerusalem."

The foreign ministry transfer completes the switch of government departments which started four years ago. Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett informed the heads of foreign missions in Tel Aviv of the projected move last Friday, in the hope that foreign governments will officially recognize the Jewish section of Jerusalem as Israel's de jure (legal) capital.

Some heads of foreign missions are reported to have protested against the plan. All are said to be waiting further instructions from their governments.

EX-GEN. VON FALKENHORST IS SET FREE BY BRITISH

BONN, July 13 (AP)—Former Col. Gen. Nikolaus von Falkenhorst, once sentenced to hang because of the execution of British commandos, was set free today from the British war crimes prison at Werl.

An official announcement said the former German commander in Norway was freed as "an act of clemency" and disclosed that he was suffering from a heart disease.

The haughty former general, now 68, was the last of the high German generals held by the British in Werl prison. He was serving a sentence of 20 years, which had been commuted from death. The remaining prisoners are mostly ex-concentration camp guards, many with long criminal records, or killers of Allied Prisoners.

PERMANENT OBSERVATORY SET UP ON MOUNT WRANGELL

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 13—New York University announced yesterday that a permanent high-altitude research observatory has been successfully established on the 14,006-foot summit of Mount Wrangell, a dormant volcano near Copper Center, Alaska.

The expedition was led by Dr. Serge A. Korff, professor of physics at New York University, and Dr. Terris Moore, president of the University of Alaska. The ascent to the summit was the second of record, the first having been made in 1908. The observatory will be supplied by air.

IDAHO POWER CO. PLANS APPROVED BY DAM BUILDER

He Says They Would Cost Less Than Proposed Federal All-Concrete Project.

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 13—The rock-filled, concrete-faced dams proposed by Idaho Power Co. for the Snake river in Idaho would be satisfactory construction, the Federal Power Commission was told today by Bernard Williams, vice president of Morrison, Knudsen, Inc., dam builders.

This type of construction would be much cheaper than the larger, all-concrete dam which had been contemplated as a federal project for Hell's Canyon, one of the three dam sites on the Snake river at which Idaho proposes construction.

Further Saving.

Williams said there would be a further saving, if the dams were privately constructed, because it would be possible to trim construction operations.

"No dam is ever 100 per cent finished," he told FPC Examiner William J. Costello. "You approach 100 per cent and as you approach it you reach a point where the work you do doesn't add anything. Knowing where to stop is where you save the money."

This point is reached earlier in private construction, Williams said, because engineers for the contractors and for the utility can agree on what needs to be done, while federal inspectors, bound by rigid specifications, may require more work that is not necessary.

Williams has estimated the construction costs of the three dams proposed by Idaho Power at $132,643,553, within a fraction of 1 per cent of th ecost estimate of the utility. He said his company would be willing to take on the contract at the utility's figure.

Hearings in Second Week.

His testimony began the second week of hearings by the FPC on the development of the Snake river. The site at Hell's Canyon is one of the few remaining in the Northwest for a large-scale multi-purpose dam, and one had been contemplated by the Bureau of Reclamation until last May when the Interior Department, under Secretary Douglas McKay, withdrew as an intervenor before the FPC in opposition to Idaho Power's three smaller dam proposal.

John S. Cotton, noted California consulting engineer and formerly engineer for the Federal Power Commission, arrived in Washington yesterday and is to be a witness tomorrow.

Cotton is the author of a report, prepared at the direction of the Interior Department, which holds the large federal multi-purpose dam is feasible, and the three smaller dam proposal of Idaho Power is not.

UTILITY'S PLANS OPPOSED BY CIO

SALT LAKE CITY, July 13 (AP)—Delegates from CIO councils in seven Western states said yesterday that Idaho Power Co.'s proposal to develop power resources of the Snake river would "benefit only the stockholders of a concern 90 per cent owned by Eastern financial interests."

In a statement adopted at the final day of a conference here, the CIO delegates said the Idaho Power plan would "be bad for workers, bad for business, bad for the community and bad for the nation."

The union group asked the Federal Power Commission to reject the power company's request for permission to build Oxbow dam, one of three proposed by the utility. Hearings on the application started last week in Washington.

At the same time, the CIO urged the FPC to recommend to Congress the construction of a high, multi-purpose dam in Hell's canyon by "an agency of the Federal Government."

The delegates said a high dam at Hell's canyon is essential for "the development of low-cost electric power which would mean industrial expansion, greater employment, increased soil production and flood control, and a better standard of living for the entire community which it would serve."

Flashes of Life

Wrong Place for Fire.

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Patrick Flannagan was held as a firebug yesterday for trying to ignite two cans of trash in the driveway of a city fireman's home.

Has Trained Thumb.

BRAINTREE, Mass., July 13 (AP) — Ronald Abell, 19 years old, is a speedster when it comes to hitchhiking across country. He arrived home yesterday exactly 84 hours and 10 minutes after leaving San Diego, Calif.

However, he thought the accomplishment was "nothing at all." He pointed out that it took him only about the same time to go to San Diego in the same manner two weeks ago.

Gasoline Age Knight.

NEWARK, N.J., July 13 (AP)—Police took a dim view of Baby Allen's method of making his point in a traffic argument yesterday.

They said he waved a two-foot antique sword at Sammy Williams, another driver. Allen was arrested and booked on a charge of possessing a dangerous weapon.

QUIRINO LAUGHS AT REPORT HE'LL MARRY WIFE'S SISTER

BALTIMORE, July 13 (AP)—President Elipidio Quirino of the Philippines, who is recovering from an operation, spent yesterday with all members of his family while they laughed at reports he plans to marry his late wife's sister.

The President's daughter, Mrs. Vicky Gonzalez, and his brother, Gov. Eliseo Quirino, made light of reports carried in Manila newspapers that the 62-year-old president plans to marry Mrs. Nila Mendoza, his sister-in-law.

MOVE TO PUT OFF ACTION ON POSTAL RATES DEFEATED

House Group Beats Motion by One Vote After Effort to Block Summerfield.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The House Post Office Committee defeated by one vote today a move to postpone action until next year on President Eisenhower's request for increased postal rates.

The 11-10 decision in closed session came after a public row over an effort to recess the committee and cut short Postmaster General Summerfield's presentation of the Administration's case.

Representative Gross (Rep.), Iowa, moved to postpone any decision until next year. A 10-10 tie vote resulted from a poll of the committee and Chairman Rees (Rep.), Kansas, broke the tie to defeat the move. The committee then adopted, with only five dissenting votes, a simple motion to continue hearings.

That left up in the air the question of whether the committee would report the postal rate increase bill to the House before scheduled Congressional adjournment about July 31.

Rees said the committee would decide that question after giving a fair hearing to all sides.

At the public session, Summerfield had hardly settled into the witness chair before there was a demand for the committee to recess.

For several minutes, the Cabinet official and committee members all talked at once, yelling to be heard above the uproar.

Representative Murray of Tennessee, senior Democrat on the committee, declared he was "mortified" at such procedure and called the recess move—by Representative Hagen (Rep.), Minnesota, and Representative Gross—"the rankest kind of discourtesy to a Cabinet officer."

After 20 minutes of confusion, committee chairman Rees restored order and Summerfield proceeded with his plea for an annual increase of $240,625,000 in postal rates to help erase the post office deficit.

He has asked for one-cent increases in first class and air mail rates, and other boosts for other types of mailing.

BILL DRAFTED FOR WATER SALES TO WEBSTER GROVES

A proposed ordinance that would authorize St. Louis to enter into a 20-year agreement with Webster Groves for sale of surplus water to the county municipality has been sent to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, Director of Public Utilities Conway B. Briscoe said today.

Previously, officials of St. Louis and Webster Groves had planned to enter into a five-year agreement without passage of an ordinance. Although the proposed law cannot be passed until the St. Louis board of aldermen reconvenes Sept. 25, Webster Groves is going ahead with preliminary plans for installation of equipment to obtain city water at a maximum rate of 2,000,000 gallons a day.

City Councilman John Carter of Webster Groves, in charge of streets and public improvements, said the municipality hopes to be able to supplement the existing service of St. Louis County Water Co. with city water by next summer. Cost is expected to be the same from both sources, 10.75 cents for each 100 cubic feet.

TELLS OF FIGHT ATOP TOWER WITH 3 EAGLES

HOWE, Ind., July 13 (AP)—A steeplejack today told of a battle he had with a mother eagle atop a 110-foot water tower where she had built a nest for her eight eaglets.

Earl Bowman of Elkhart found the eagles' nest Friday when he went to the top of the tower at Howe Military School to repair a wind-damaged tank roof. The 55-year-old steeplejack said the mother eagle and two eaglets, which apparently were hatched some time before the others, attacked him and scratched him with beaks and talons.

He drove the mother and two larger birds off, made the necessary repairs and brought six of the eaglets down with him. He fed them a pound of raw hamburger and turned them over to Frank Test, an Elkhart garage owner, who has a small private zoo.

'RECORD PROGRESS' BY EDEN

NEWPORT, R.I., July 13 (UP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is making "record progress" in convalescing here from a bile-duct operation, it was reported today.

A spokesman said Eden is "coming along fine" but there still is no indication when he will resume his duties.

AEC Approves Power Study By State Utility Officials

Missouri Public Service Commissioner Is Member of Six-Man Committee That Will Engage in Survey.

By RICHARD B. DUDMAN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 13—A special study of atomic power development by a group of state public utility commissioners has been approved by the Atomic Energy Commission, the commission announced today.

One member of the group is Henry McKay Cary of Carrollton, Mo., a member of the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The AEC said it had approved a request of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners that a committee of its members be permitted to study economic and legislative problems related to the production of electric power from nuclear fission.

A report on the study is to be made at the association's annual convention next Sept. 21 to 24 at New York City. The committee will begin its survey as soon as members have received full security clearances, the AEC said.

M. W. Boyer, general manager of the AEC, said the study would enable state regulatory bodies to keep in touch with studies of atomic power being made by several industrial teams, including one made up of Monsanto Chemical Co. and Union Electric Co., of St. Louis.

Boyer said: "The AEC is convinced that it would be highly beneficial to integrate at an early stage the thinking of the electric utilities companies engaged in the study program and that of the state public utilities commissions, which the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners represents on a national basis."

Austin Roberts, secretary of the association, said the study group would look particularly into whether atomic power would create situations not contemplated in present regulatory laws. For example, he said, atomic power production might entail novel depreciation practices.

There has been considerable question over how long an atomic power plant could be operated and whether it could last for the 30-year life generally figured for a coal-burning plant. A proposal by the Monsanto-Union Electric suggests a five-year or 10-year amortization period.

Cary is an attorney and a Republican. His term expires April 15, 1955. Other members of the special committee are: Richard E. Mittelstaedt, president of the California Public Utilities Commission, chairman; Henry B. Strong, Connecticut Public Utilities Commission; John H. McCarthy, Michigan Public Service Commission, and George P. Steinmetz, chief engineer, Wisconsin Public Service Commission. Secretary of the committee will be Charles W. Mors, general division engineer of the California commission.

TWO ARE FINED $25 EACH FOR SUNDAY MEAT SALES

Two persons were fined $25 each by Police Judge Morris Rosenthal today after they pleaded guilty of selling meat in violation of the Sunday closing ordinance.

Morris Goldman, 818 Clarendon avenue, paid his fine but Michael Frederick, 866 Hamilton avenue, told the court through his attorney that he desired to change his plea to not guilty and appeal to the Court of Criminal Correction. Judge Rosenthal, however, refused to allow the change in plea and said the fine would stand.

The cases of four others arrested for violating the closing ordinance were continued until next Monday. The arrests followed complaints by officers of Local 88, AFL Meat Cutters' Union. The four are: Mrs. Mary Baker, 708 Hamilton; Jack Rubin, 1397 Goodfellow boulevard; Irwin Wolf, 923 Clarendon, and Mrs. Marianna Blake, 814 Clarendon.

ANTI-RED RIOTS IN CHINA

HONG KONG, July 13 (AP)—Official Chinese Communist newspapers are reported to have acknowledged that minor anti-Red uprisings have flared on the China mainland.

The independent but pro-Nationalist Kung Sheung Daily News yesterday quoted two Communist newspapers as saying farmers beat up Red authorities in five villages in West Kwangtung province. Military authorities have been ordered to take stern measures to halt the uprisings, Kung Sheung said.

NOMINATED AS FARM CREDIT GOVERNOR

Carl R. Arnold of Ohio Named by Eisenhower to Succeed Ivy W. Dugan.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated Carl R. Arnold of Hilliards, O., to be governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

Arnold, a former Agriculture Department official, would succeed Ivy W. Dugan, who recently resigned.

Arnold, 62 years old, was nominated for the rest of a six-year term which began last June 15.

From 1933 to 1939 he was deputy production credit commissioner of the Farm Credit Administration. From 1939 to 1951, when he retired, he was production credit commissioner.

Arnold also has served as professor of agricultural economics at Ohio State University.

He owns two farms near Hilliards. He is a Republican.

Eisenhower appointed a new advisory board to the Commodity Credit Corporation today.

The President named these Republicans:

Rudolph Froker, dean of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture; Theodore Funk of Bloomington, Ill., treasurer of the Funk Brothers' Seed Co., and Herbert J. Hughes, of Imperial, Neb., vice president of the National Association of Wheat Growers.

The Democrats appointed are William R. Blake of Memphis, Tenn., executive vice president of the National Cotton Council; and Arnold W. Groth of Portland, Ore., vice president of the National Bank of Portland.

FORMER CONVICT ARRESTED IN RESTAURANT HOLDUP

Horace Thornton, former convict, of the 5000 block of Delmar boulevard, was arrested today suspect of robbing the Toddle House Inn, 727 North Kingshighway, of $73, police reported. He was identified by the counter-man, Raymond Secrest, and the money was found in his room.

Secrest told police, Thornton, who has served about 25 years in penitentiary on three robbery charges, entered the restaurant early today wearing a handkerchief over his face and carrying a revolver. Secrest gave him the money from the cash register and Thornton fled.

Police said he was released from the Missouri State Penitentiary last June, and purchased a revolver two days later.

MEDAL TO SERGEANT KILLED SAVING HIS MEN IN KOREA

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The Congressional Medal of Honor has been awarded posthumously to a South Carolina Marine sergeant who used his body to save his men, and lost his own life on a Korean hilltop.

Staff-Sgt. Lewis G. Watkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Watkins, Seneca, S.C., led a platoon of the Seventh regiment, First Marine Division, which was ordered to retake a hill outpost overrun earlier in the night of last Oct. 7.

Watkins and his men had reached a trench near the crest when an enemy grenade landed among them. He pushed his companions aside and picked up the grenade in an attempt to throw it ouside the trench. He saved his men, but he was killed when the grenade exploded.

BEATEN AND ROBBED OF $31

Arthur Lada, of 2235 Montgomery street, was beaten and robbed of $31 early yesterday while waiting for a bus in the 1200 block of North Ninth street.

Lada, who was taken to City Hospital for treatment of lacerations of his face and right wrist, said his assailants were two young Negroes.

RUSSIAN CHESS PLAYERS CANCEL AMERICAN MATCH

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—A Russian chess team, dissatisfied with visa restrictions imposed by the United States State Department, has withdrawn from a scheduled match here this week with an American team.

Harold M. Phillips, president of the United States Chess Foundation, announced last night he had received a cablegram from Soviet chess officials notifying him of the withdrawal.

Visas had been given the Russians, but the State Department restricted them to New York City. It said, after a Russian protest, that the Soviet players might visit for a day at a time the Glen Cove, Long Island, residence of the Soviet United Nations delegation. But the Soviet Government wanted its players to live at Glen Cove.

'No Money, No Glory in Owning a Ball Club.'

PERHAPS you'd like to own a major league baseball club. . . Perhaps a word from the wise might make you reconsider, however. . . From among baseball's cognoscenti let's select one Phil Wrigley. . . . You'd take his word — he has operated the Cubs through many years. . . He ought to know. . . Listen to his words of wisdom:

"It's a rather thankless job running a ball club. . . There's no money in it and no glory. . . . I don't care for publicity and that's about all you can get out of it," the Chicago Tribune quotes him.

The occasion of his comment concerned the bid of a Chicagoan for the Cubs. . . As to selling, Wrigley said:

"I might sell if conditions were right." . . No amplification of that. . . But it appears that Wrigley's pessimism has not deterred others. . . There is a waiting list of purchasers. . . . If Phil ever decides to sell, he'll take up the bids in the order they were filed, he says.

Imagine purchasers having to form in line for the privilege of bidding for a baseball club that has finished last three of the last five seasons, finished 15 times out of first division since 1920, failed to win a world series in its last five tries during 23 years, and was blanked 4-0 in two of them.

Cubs Three Times Drew Million as Tail-Ender.

THE reason for the would-be owners' optimism? . . . Probably they remember that although the Cubs finished last three times recently, the attendance on each occasion was better than a million home customers!

We would not give too much credit to that fact. . . Probably that last-place patronage couldn't be duplicated in any other major league city. . . . And not even in Chicago again. . . . Besides, it has always been our personal opinion that the chief weakness about major league baseball is that you cannot have a league without a second division including a last place.

In these days when it is estimated that a big-league club can't stay out of the red without drawing at least a million customers at home, a second division berth is always a hazard.

A major league baseball club, however, will always interest certain individuals or groups. . . . For example, a wealthy man who loves baseball and wants it for a plaything, like the late Phil Ball, might buy one. . . . A community that wants to attract money-spending visitors to its city might be a franchise purchaser. . . . A corporation which might want to advertise a product and could cover club losses by charging them to advertising could get along.

But when the purchase of a modern ball club is contemplated purely for profit, it would seem to be a bit uninviting at this time. . . . Even the addition of two more major leagues wouldn't help. . . . Sixteen new major league parks with 50,000 seating capacity alone would require something like $80,000,000 for that item alone. . . . Baseball might do better to put a little more austerity into its budget.

"Hit and Run Strategy No Good"—Richards.

GREAT baseball minds of the past have gone in for the hit-and-run play, but Paul Richards, the highly-articulate manager of the threatening White Sox wants no part of it. . . . "The play is no good nine times out of ten," he told John Hoffman of the Chicago Sun-Times, "and I'm going to cut it out."

That pronouncement probably will shock some of our diamond strategists, but Richards is one manager baseball men are listening to these days, and his reasons seem logical.

He says that the hit-and-run play has cost Ferris Fain 20 hits this season because something always goes wrong. "It's a bad pitch, a pitchout, a line drive or something else," Paul declares.

The chance that the batter will get a pitch that will permit him to place his drive seems remote. . . . Yet the play has developed a large following through the years.

It really is unreasonable to ask any hitter to place his hit exactly without having a chance to select a favorable pitch—which of course, just can't be, in the hit-and-run—or the "run-and-hit," as Richards thinks it should be called.

It's a three-to-one chance that a good batter will make a safe hit anyway, so why ask him to hit blindly at deliveries that go so wide the hitter sometimes has to throw his bat to try to protect the runner. A 10-to-1 chance isn't usually regarded as a good risk.

Champion Is Champ In Gun Club Meet

Ralph Champion lived up to his name by taking first place in the 16-yard target competition in the monthly Overland Gun Club trap shoot. Champion led the Class A shooters by breaking 94 targets out of 100. Bill Raup was runner-up with 89.

In Class B, Elroy Hillenkamp and A. Balkenbush tied for first with 94 apiece, and T. Paul had 90. Carl Roberts led the handicap division with 92, and Earl Winn of Poplar Bluff had 91.

Twin-Bill Loss Puts Redbirds In Fourth

By Dent McSkimming

It may be encouraging to the disappointed fans who watched the Cardinals lose a doubleheader yesterday to know that they're not really as bad as they looked.

Charley Grimm, manager of the Milwaukee Braves and the man who contrived the pitfalls and traps and who really lowered the boom, was serious for a change when he talked about the Redbirds after the games at Busch Stadium.

"Don't make any mistake about those Cardinals," boomed Cholly. "They're rough. And what's more, they're gonna be rough, from here right down to the wire."

He didn't see any significance in the fact that Eddie Stanky's team lost three out of four games in a series that had possession of second place as the special prize.

"Too many good players on that team for them to be anything but strong contenders: Musial, Slaughter, Rice, Schoendienst—they'll not wilt," added Grimm. "I can tell you I'm glad this series is over—and in our favor."

But the season's largest crowd here (31,030 paid) didn't get much comfort out of the bare knowledge that the Redbirds are a fine team. They were well beaten by the Braves, 10-1, in the first game, and they were just short of being equal in the second, 4 to 3.

Hemus Joins Ailing List.

Manager Eddie Stanky's team needs the mite of rest it will get during the All-Star game interval. Looking up now from fourth place instead of third, they see ahead a series of four games with the league-leading Dodgers at Ebbets Field, starting Thursday night.

Three of the team's key figures, Red Schoendienst, Del Rice and now Solly Hemus, need the respite, for all are nursing injuries. Hemus was added to the list Sunday in the first game when he was hit on the right wrist by a pitched ball.

How does Jolly Cholly explain his own team's ability to outscore this collection of star players?

"My kids just don't know their strength," laughed the Braves manager. "They're moving better now after a few bad games, and they should continue to get better." He puts emphasis on the youth and spirit of his "boys" when explaining their success.

This marks the second doubleheader victory the Braves have taken from the Redbirds this season. Had the Cardinals won Sunday's pair they would have been in second place all alone, now they're fourth.

Cholly's "Kids" Shine.

And, in truth, it was the "kids" of the Milwaukee squad who hurt the Cardinals most. Johnny Antonelli stopped them dead in the first game as Eddie Mathews drove in more than enough runs with his grand-slam homer off Gerry Staley. In the second game, first-year pitchers Don Liddle and Bob Buhl collaborated in holding the Redbird batters safe while Jack Dittmer and Bill Bruton drove in the runs that tied and clinched the victory.

Mathews was the spectacular batter with his three hits in the first game; Johnny Logan was the unbeatable shortstop in both contests.

Staley, going after his thirteenth victory retired the first two men of the opening inning before there was any inkling of the trouble coming his way. He might have retired the side and gone on to a happier climax but for what appeared to be bad fielding by Rip Repulski. When Mathews hit a powerful drive to center, Rip shaded back and toward right, but not at full speed. It appeared he did not properly gauge the flight of the ball, which passed over his head and hit the wall for two bases. Andy Pafko singled Mathews home.

Staley didn't finish the second inning largely because of Mathew's four-run homer, his twenty-seventh of the season.

Antonelli, with his fine curve breaking sharply and his control so good he walked only one batter, slammed the door every time the Cardinals got men on base—which wasn't very often. The only run off him was Ray Jablonski's twelfth homer of the season, in the sixth inning.

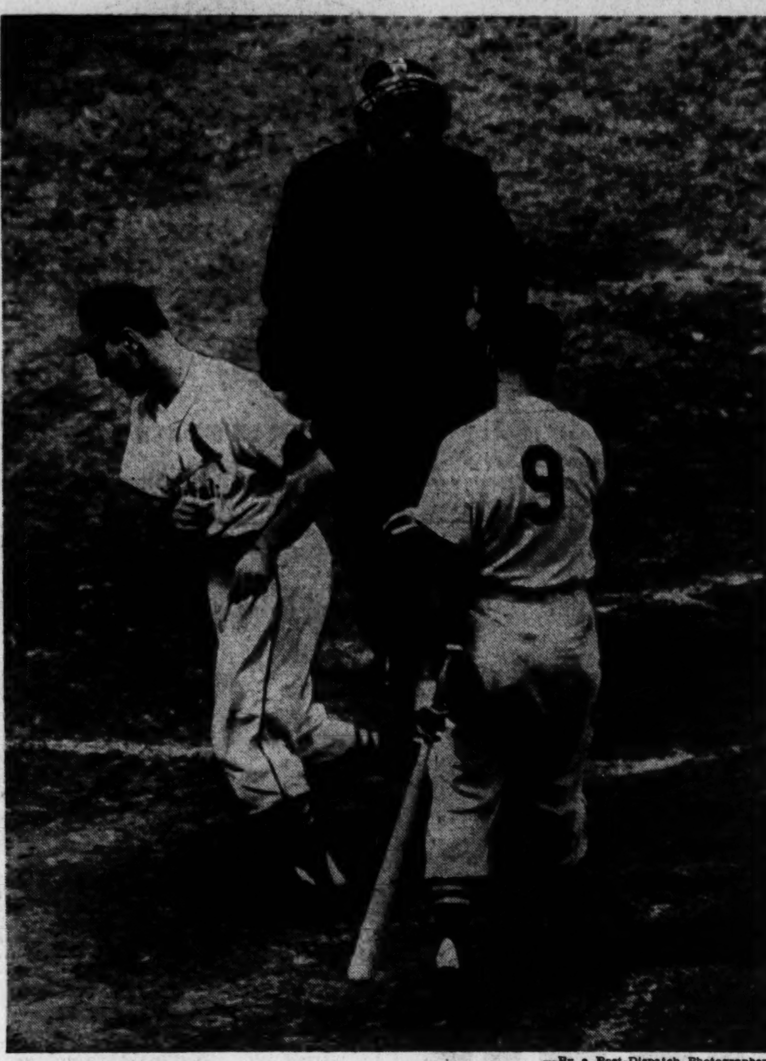
Buhl Stops Birds in Nightcap.

Batting against Vinegar Bend Mizell in the second game, Milwaukee got a quick run in the first inning. Two were out when Mathews walked and Sid Gordon doubled him home. Three singles and Pafko's long fly made it 2-0 in the fourth.

Still, the Cardinals were right back in the game with a three-run thrust in the fifth. But in the process they lost Mizell, who went out for a pinch batter, Manager Stanky, himself. In the inning, Pete Castiglione, playing for the injured Hemus, doubled and scored on Steve Bilko's two-bagger. Stanky walked and Repulski reached first when Pitcher Liddle fumbled his sacrifice bunt. With the bases loaded, Schoendienst hit into a double play, a second run scoring. Stan Musial's single scored Stanky with the third run. That's where Manager Cholly Grimm made one of his happy guesses. He picked young Bob Buhl to relieve Liddle and he retired the side. Not only that but he allowed only two hits in the remaining four innings.

Milwaukee's third and fourth runs were scored against Hal White, Mizell's successor, in the seventh. Big Walk Cooper and Dittmer each doubled for one and Bruton drove Dittmer in with what proved the winning run.

Jabbo Prevents a Whitewash



—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

The Cardinals' only run in the first game of the doubleheader with Milwaukee came in the sixth inning when RAY (JABBO) JABLONSKI hit a home run. He's shown crossing the plate, with ENOS SLAUGHTER standing by. TOM GORMAN is the umpire.

Bilko's double was his first hit in 22 times at bat. . . . Charley Dressen, manager of the National League All-Stars, has assured Stanky he will go easy on Schoendienst because of Red's muscle injury. . . . Grimm entertained on the coaching line in the second game when he protested, with gestures, Umpire Tom Gorman's decision on Bruton's attempted steal of second base. . . . Then Stanky got a laugh when he burlesqued Grimm's war dance. . . . X-rays showed no broken bone in Hemus's injured wrist and he expects to be ready for action against Brooklyn. . . . Peanuts Lowry again came through as a pinch batter, this time with a two-bagger off Buhl. . . . The Cardinals announced children under 16 will be admitted free when accompanied by women on Ladies' day, July 30. . . . Milwaukee now has taken seven games out of 12 from the Cardinals. . . . The 31,030 crowd brought the home attendance to 500,528 for 42 games, as compared with 445,906 for the same number last season.

Purcell Is Medalist In Alton Golf Meet

Lowell Purcell took medalist honors with a 10 in the 18-hole qualifying round for the Alton city golf tournament at Rock Spring Country Club. A total of 102 qualified for the week of match play, which will climax with the final Sunday.

The low 32 have been put in the championship flight, and the remainder in three other divisions. John Hand of East Alton is the defending champion.

12 Homers and Taking Of Series at Detroit Raise Browns' Spirits

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, July 13—Twelve home runs in three days at Detroit enlivened the spirit of the Browns as they awaited an exhibition game with the Cincinnati Reds at Crosley field tonight.

Nine St. Louis batters participated in the savage show of power at Briggs Stadium. Vic Wertz, Dick Kokos and Don Lenhardt each belted two home runs. The six others were made by Jim Dyck, Roy Sievers, Clint Courtney, Bobby Young, Dick Kryhoski and Johnny Groth.

The Browns' barrage, coupled with some sturdy pitching by Duane Pillette, Bob Cain and Dick Littlefield enabled the St. Louis team to take three of the four games with the Tigers.

After winning in conclusive fashion Friday night and again Saturday afternoon, the Browns dropped the first game of Sunday's doubleheader, 8 to 7, despite home runs off Bill Hoeft by Wertz and Lenhardt. The attack subsided after Ray Herbert replaced Hoeft.

The Browns rebounded to take the second game, 3 to 2. Home runs by Groth and Wertz in the first inning spoiled Ralph Branca's debut with the Tigers.

Groth, the first batter to face Branca in the American League, drove a three-and-two pitch high into the upper leftfield seats. Unsettled, Branca walked Bobby Young. He disposed of Dick Kokos on a pop fly before Wertz blasted the ball into the upper deck in right field.

Branca, acquired from the Dodgers in a waiver deal with Brooklyn, lasted only four innings. The explanation was that "Ralph was just too tired to keep going." He had pitched only 11 innings for Brooklyn this year.

Dick Marlowe and Al Aber followed Branca on the Detroit mound. They restrained the Browns, but Littlefield saw that the Tigers' efforts to wipe out the first-inning deficit were frustrated.

Littlefield, who fanned 10 batters and walked only one, lost his chance for a shutout in the second inning. A pass to Steve Souchock was followed by successive singles by Bob Nieman and Don Lund and an outfield fly to produce two runs.

In the first game, the Browns rallied to tie the score after Detroit had pushed six men across the plate in the second inning. Defeat in the eighth was charged to Satchel Paige, the third St. Louis pitcher.

Paige followed Lou Kretlow and Bobo Holloman. After pulling the Browns out of a jam in the seventh, Satchmo lost control in the eighth. Johnny Pesky, leading off, waited for a pass and Ray Boone singled.

Pesky and Boone advanced on a double steal as Pat Mullin struck out. Manager Marty Marion then ordered an intentional pass to Walt Dropo, loading the bases. Paige ran the count to three and two on Steve Souchock. His next pitch was high and Pesky was forced home with what stood as the winning run.

Dig That Crazy Polka

It was a collision, but it looked more like a dance, when Shortstop PEEWEE REESE (right) and Leftfielder GEORGE SHUBA of the Brooklyn Dodgers met while chasing Wes Westrum's fly ball in the fifth inning of the Dodger-Giant game at Ebbets Field. Reese made the catch. Brooklyn won, 4 to 3, and snapped the Giants' eight-game winning streak.

Marciano May Sign Today for LaStarza Bout

NEW YORK, July 13 (UP)—The Rocky Marciano-Roland LaStarza heavyweight title fight will be signed today or tomorrow, probably for the Polo Grounds on Sept. 24, it has been learned.

After weeks of bickering, LaStarza of New York was picked as challenger ahead of ex-Champion Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati.

The National Boxing Association rated Charles the only "logical contender" for Marciano's crown. But Chairman Bob Christenberry of the New York commission favored 26-year-old LaStarza. So did Promoter Jim Norris.

Rocky finished up with a widely disputed, split 10-round decision that night.

Robbins Keeps Colonial Title

MEMPHIS, July 13 (AP) — Lanky Hillman Robbins coupled booming drives with deadly accurate putts to grab a quick 4-up lead and held on to defeat Gay Brewer, 2-1 for his third consecutive Colonial Invitational crown yesterday.

For Brewer, one-time national junior champ from the University of Kentucky, it was the same song, second verse. Robbins defeated him in the final last year by an identical score.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff

CINCINNATI, July 13—Casey Stengel, criticized for naming only one lefthanded pitcher to the American League All-Star squad, today named that single southpaw—little Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox — to face the power-packed National League standouts and the Philadelphia Phillies' Robin Roberts in tomorrow's twentieth midsummer baseball classic.

The starting pitchers and batting orders were announced by the publicity directors of the two leagues, who had conferred separately with Stengel, manager of the World Champion Yankees, and Charley Dressen, skipper of Brooklyn's 1952 pennant winners.

Pierce, who has a 10-5 won-and-lost record and 2.67 earned-run average for the fast-stepping Sox, never before has appeared in an All-Star game. Roberts, baseball's winningest pitcher again with a 14-6 mark and 2.52 E.R.A. at present, started the 1950 game at Comiskey Park that touched off the National League's present string of three victories over the American and then hurled in the 1951 contest at Detroit.

Schoendienst in Line-up.

Pierce will go against a slugging lineup that for the first three ninnings at least—under rules set down for the managers—will include five lefthanded hitters as well as switch-hitting Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals. Dressen has agreed, though, to relieve Schoendienst early because of the Redhead's recent abdominal injury.

The righthanded Roberts will oppose an American League lineup that will include three lefthanded batters and Mickey Mantle, the powerful turn-around hitter of the Yankes.

Neither Dressen nor Stengel was prepared to go beyond the starting pitchers, they explained through their publicity spokesmen, because of the desire (1) to see how the first hurlers fare and (2) the lineup changes of the opposition.

As Dave Grote of the National League office read his league's batting order and neared the end, one Chicago writer exclaimed, "Slaughter hitting eighth? Man what a lineup."

The Old War Horse, selected for the tenth time like teammate Stan Musial, ordinarily bats fourth or fifth for the Redbirds, but the Cardinals' captain is in formidable company this time. Musial and Schoendienst, named to his seventh All-Star team, were picked by Dressen to bat in their customary spots with the Cardinals, third and second respectively.

It was a fourteenth inning homer by Schoendienst in 1950 that started the Nationals on the streak that now has brought their victory count to seven, a figure still overshadowed by the American League's 12 triumphs in the inter-league classic that began as a "dream game" sideshow of the Chicago World Fair in 1933.

Hunter and Paige Available.

No members of the Browns will start for the American League, but two St. Louis area athletes, catcher Yogi Berra and Right Fielder Hank Bauer of the Yankees will open, Bauer hitting third and Berra seventh, a lowly spot for the hard-swinging son of the Hill.

Available for duty from the Browns are Bill Hunter, the talented freshman shortstop, and venerable Satchel Paige, who at this advanced baseball age might get his first opportunity to pitch in the All-Star game. On call from the Cardinals will be pitchers Gerry Staley and Harvey Haddix. Haddix was in the Army last year at this time while Staley, selected as an All-Star, did not appear in the five-inning rain-abbreviated game won by the Nationals at Philadelphia, 3 to 2.

The opening lineups will show more power on the National League side, which has 127 home runs among its eight regulars to 81 for the Americans' front-line players. And the trend is the same throughout the star-studded rosters because the Nationals, batting .302 as a squad, have whacked 219 homers to 139 for the American League, which has a team batting average of .286.

The game will start at 1:30 p.m. (St. Louis time) before a sellout crowd of some 30,000. (It will be telecast by Station KSD-TV and broadcast by Station KWK).

All receipts including $110,000 from net work radio (Mutual) and television (NBC) goes to the players' pension fund.

Satchmo: 1-6

CINCINNATI, July 13 (UP)

LEAVE it to unconventional Satchel Paige of the Browns to be unique.

Old Satchmo's 1-6 season's record is the poorest ever taken to an All-Star game in the 20-year history of the mid-summer classic.

Plan for Moving Browns Gains Support in A.L.

CINCINNATI, July 13 (AP)—Bill Veeck's plan to move his St. Louis Browns' franchise appears to have gained new support.

The American League discussed Veeck's problem at length in its meeting yesterday and there were indications that a new attempt to move would receive more favorable consideration. The club owners turned down Veeck's attempt to shift the Browns to Baltimore last March by a 5-2 vote.

A league spokesman declined to elaborate except to say that the St. Louis situation had been discussed.

However, Frank Lane, general manager of the Chicago White Sox, said that the outlook for the Brownie shift appeared to be more favorable than ever.

"All I can say is this," he said. "The owners looked upon Bill's plight in St. Louis with a great deal of sympathy. I have no way of knowing whether they would give approval but I think he could get more votes than he did last March."

Lane was one of the two club officials to cast his vote in favor of the transfer at the Tampa meeting. Cleveland cast the other favorable ballot.

Asked whether any specific reference was made to Baltimore as the sight for a possible shift of the Browns, Lane said:

"No city was officially mentioned. Any city with a population of more than 500,000 thinks it is capable of becoming a major league town."

Veeck declined to discuss his future plans although it appeared almost certain he would make another attempt to move next winter.

"All I'm going to say right now is that we're going to finish the season in St. Louis," he said. "As for next year, we'll just have to wait and see."

The majors, at their joint meeting today, were certain to pass a rule calling for the transfer of a franchise from one city to another only between Oct. 1 and Dec. 1. The new rule is designed to prevent sudden shifts such as the one made by the Braves last March from Boston to Milwaukee.

The only news announced at yesterday's preliminary meetings were that Cleveland would be the site for the 1954 all-star game and that approval had been granted to the New York Giants for their proposed exhibition tour of Japan, Honolulu and Manila with a visit to United States hospitals in Korea.

Yanks and Dodgers Win, But Lose Ground in Races To White Sox and Braves

NEW YORK, July 13 (UP)—The Yankees and the Dodgers led the pack today as the field in the baseball sweepstakes reached milestone in the season, the All-Star game vacation, but both the leaders were mighty worried.

The Yankees have apparently emerged from the fog of their nine-game losing streak, but still they can't gain ground on those pesky White Sox.

And the Dodgers, with five defeats in their last 10 games and their wobbly pitching staff threatening to fall apart, find themselves under pressure from no fewer than four genuine pennant contenders — the Braves, Phils, Cardinals and Giants.

Sunday was a typical example, as both league leaders won single games and still lost ground.

White Sox Win Two.

The Yankees scored a ninth-inning run to beat the Washington Senators, 6-5, but their lead was reduced to five games as the White Sox took a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians, 14-2 and 3-1. That made it four straight triumphs for the Sox and 25 victories in their last 31 games.

When the Yankees lost their ninth straight game on July 1, their lead was exactly five games. Since then, they've righted themselves and won nine of 13—but their lead remains the same and, in fact, they've lost a half-game to the White Sox, who were third on July 1.

Despite two homers by Yogi Berra, the Yankees nearly lost when the Senators shoved over two runs to tie at 5-5 in the ninth inning yesterday. But Reliefer Allie Reynolds gained his eighth win when Mickey Mantle walked in the last of the ninth and moved around on a walk and Gene Woodling's pinch single.

The White Sox blasted out 32 hits in their twin bill, Minnie Minoso getting six. Mike Fornieles and Virgil Trucks hurled six-hitters back-to-back to win, although Billy Pierce had to help Trucks in the ninth. Art Houtteman and Bob Lemon were the losers.

Dodgers Triumph in Tenth.

The Dodgers salvaged the last game in a series against the Giants, 4-3, in 10 innings, but their National League lead was cut to one and one-half games by the Milwaukee Braves, who took two games from the Cardinals, 10-1 and 4-3, dropping the Cards to fourth place.

Hoyt Wilhelm failed in relief for the Giants, blowing a 3-1 ninth inning lead by serving up a two-run homer to Billy Cox and then walking Bobby Morgan with the bags loaded in the tenth to force home the winning run. The loss broke the Giants' winning streak at eight games.

The Phillies moved into third place by beating the Pirates twice, 6-4 and 6-5, also running the Pirates' losing streak to 10 games. Del Ennis clouted two homers to help Robin Roberts to his fourteenth victory in the opener and Steve Ridzik's scoreless relief pitching won the nightcap.

The Redlegs used Southpaws Harry Perkowski and Fred Baczewski to beat the Cubs, 7-4 and 7-3, although Ralph Kiner hit homers No. 20 and 21 for the Cubs in the opener.

The Athletics and Red Sox split, the Sox taking the opener, 9-5, as Del Wilber drove in six runs with a double and a homer, and the Athletics's winning the second, 4-1, behind Harry Byrd's six-hitter.

Whitfield's 2:21.7 Fastest Run by American in 1000-Meter Event

Close to A World Record

KOUVALA, Finland, July 13 (UP)—Mal Whitfield ran the fastest 1000 meters ever recorded by an American yesterday when he won the event in 2:21.7 at an International track and field meet.

The two-time Olympic 800-meter champion was just four tenths of a second off the world mark of 2:21.3 held by Sweden's Olla Aaberg aand might have erased that standard if he hadn't slowed down after taking the lead.

Whitfield sprinted to the front at the 600-meter mark but surprisingly slowed the pace although he led the rest of the way. He hit the 800-meter mark in 1:52.5.

The fastest 1000 meters previously recorded outdoors by an American was Tarver Perkins' 2:28.8 clocking at Buffalo, N. Y., in 1948. Lloyd Hahn ran 1000 meters in 2:26.4 indoors in New York in 1927.

Parry O'Brien of Los Angeles won the shot put with a heave of 15.57 meters (57.62 feet) and captured the discuss with a toss of 49.74 meters (163.14 feet).

Santee Wins in Finland.

KYROSKOSKI, Finland, July 13 (UP)—Wes Santee of the University of Kansas easily won the 1500-meter run in 3:57.2 during yesterday's international track meet.

Ernie Shelton of U. S. C. won the high jump with a leaf of two meters (6.56 feet), and George Mattos of the United States Air Force cleared 4.30 meters (14.10 feet) to win the pole vault.

British Won't Recognize Bannister's 4:02 Mile.

LONDON, July 13 (UP)—The British amateur athletic board has refused to recognize the 4:02 mile run by Roger Bannister at Motspur park two weeks ago.

The board said yesterday that the clocking, the third fastest mile ever run—could not be considered official because it was produced in a "paced" race and not as part of an actual meet. Bannister, a 24-year-old English medical student was paced by Don MacMillan of Australia and Chris Basher of Britain on a quarter-mile track.

Martz drove in eight runs. Coach Max Harned's team took the district title with two straight victories, and will play in the division tournament at Nashville, Ill., this weekend.

Native Dancer and Jamie K to Resume Duel at Arlington

Tom Fool Taking a Week Off

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Tom Fool, racing's great handicap champion, takes a well-deserved rest this week while Native Dancer and Jamie K. are scheduled to renew their dueling in the $100,000 Arlington Classic at Chicago Saturday.

Tom Fool, the Greentree Stable's classy four-year-old won as he pleased Saturday in the $56,000 Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct, carrying a heavy 136-pound load. With confident Ted Atkinson in the saddle, Tom Fool passed the pace-setting Golden Gloves on the final turn and galloped home a length and a half winner over the Belair stud colt.

John Gaver, the Greentree trainer, said Tom Fool would rest until the Wilson mile at Saratoga Springs, Aug. 4, and might go to Chicago for the $100,000 Washington Park Handicap Sept. 7.

Tom Fool is the second horse to win the Brooklyn under 136 pounds, Alfred Vanderbilt's Discovery packing that load in 1936. He also is the second to sweep the handicap triple—the Metropolitan, Suburban and Brooklyn — in a single season. Whisk Broom II was the first, in 1913.

Dancer Seeks No. 16.

Native Dancer, Vanderbilt's present three-year-old champion, was in his Arlington Park stall today waiting for the one-mile classic. He invades the Mid-West area for the first time, seeking to make the Classic his sixteenth victory in 17 starts.

Jamie K., owned by the Spring Hill farm, battled the Dancer in both the Preakness and Belmont, losing by a neck both times. Last Saturday, however, Jamie K. finished tenth in a field of 11 in the six-furlong Myrtlewood handicap at Arlington. Hill Gail, Calumet's 1952 Kentucky Derby winner, was eighth in the race won by H. B. Delman's roaming.

Royal Serenade Victor.

At Hollywood Park, Irish-bred Royal Serenade won the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup. Owned by the Alberta Stables and ridden by Johnny Longden, Royal Serenade defeated Calumet Farm's Fleet Bird by more than three lengths.

Mrs. Esther Du Pont Weir's English-bred Royal Vale, beaten a head by Tom Fool in the Suburban handicap at Belmont Park May 30, was the Gold Cup favorite, but finished sixth.

Trainer James Ryan said later that Royal Vale had bucked his shins, and the soreness undoubtedly affected his performance. Royal Vale will be sent back to Delaware for treatment, and will miss the $100,000 Sunset Handicap at Hollywood Park Saturday.

Reds Win East Side All-Star Game, 6-2

A trio of Red hurlers limited the Blue team to four hits as the Reds won the annual all-star game of the Southwestern Illinois Inter-City Baseball League at Hamel. The score was 6 to 2.

Bob Wheat, the starting Red pitcher, did not allow a hit during four and one-third innings. He was followed by Norton Henke and Bob Page. Sunny Martin and John Enloe each batted in two tallies during the Reds' five-run first inning.

League Heads Study Football Rule Changes

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 13 (AP)—The mechanics of putting into effect the new football substitution rule were up for study today at the first session of the annual meeting of the commissioners of the 10 major collegiate athletic conferences.

H. O. (Fritz) Crisler of the University of Michigan, president of the N.C.A.A. football rules committee, and E. E. (Tad) Wieman of the University of Denver, committee secretary, huddled with the commissioners in working out the application of the new rule.

The new rule gives the heave-ho to the two platoon football system by phoribiting unlimited substitution. 'It provides that a player may participate only once in each of six segments of the game. Those segments are the first quarter, first 11 minutes of the second quarter, last four minutes of the second quarter, the third quarter, first 11 minutes of the fourth quarter and last four minutes of the fourth quarter.

Crisler and Wieman were scheduled to meet today at the Broadmoor Hotel with the commissioners and tomorrow if necessary. Also sitting in are the supervisors of game officials from the 10 conferences.

The commissioners, organized as the National Association of Collegiate Commissioners (N.C.A.A.), will also study this week proposed improvements in football and basketball officiating. They'll also look into proposals for stimulating collegiate interest and participation in the Olympics.

The N.C.A.A. president, Victor O. Schmidt of the Pacific Coast Conference, said the group will also discuss what they call the "television problem." This will include a review of the 1953-54 N.C.A.A. television plan.

There'll probably be a discussion too of the recent action of Notre Dame in arranging for the televising in theaters of all Irish football games.

(Artie Eilers, commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference and Reaves Peters of the Big Seven were among those attending.)

Ford Master-Guide
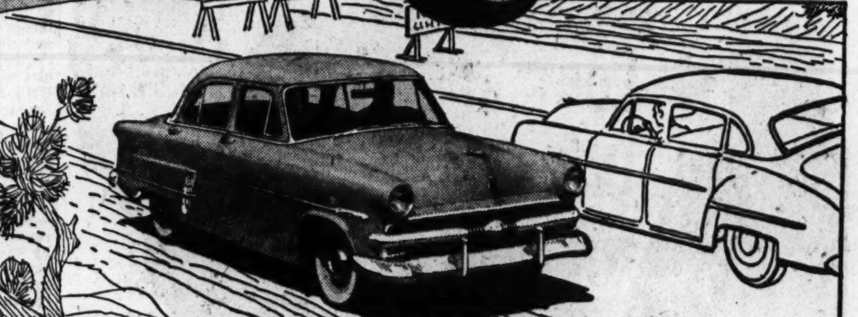
Power Steering!

"WHO NEEDS MUSCLES?"

Master-Guide applies hydraulic steering power automatically . . . and in varying degrees as required . . . right at the steering linkage, close to the wheels. At the same time the system serves as a hydraulic shock absorber to keep road jars and jolts from your hands. As a result all you do is . . . guide the car . . . Master-Guide supplies the muscles.



It's the newest in a long list of Ford advancements that make this Ford the outstanding car for '53!

No other car near Ford's price has ever offered you so much!

Ford was the first in its field to bring you V-8 power. Today, Ford alone of all the low-priced cars offers you the smooth, unsurpassed performance of a V-8 engine. And Ford's Six—the most modern in the industry—with Overdrive, won the Grand Sweepstakes in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run.

Ford first brought to the low-price field a completely automatic transmission that combines the smoothness of a torque convertor and the gas-saving "go" of automatic gears. Fordomatic remains the most versatile automatic you can buy.

Ford's new "ride" brings you curve-hugging and bump-leveling qualities never before known in low-priced cars. Front end road shock alone has been reduced up to 80%.

Easier-acting suspended pedals, Center-Fill Fueling and Full-Circle Visibility are just a few of the many other important advancements first introduced by Ford.

And now Ford brings you the newest and finest in power steering . . . Master-Guide, a system exclusive in Ford's field! It's no wonder, then, that Ford is the "Worth More" car . . . worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it.

HELPS YOU OUT OF "TIGHT SPOTS!" The tougher the going the more Master-Guide works for you. For example, if you go off the pavement onto a soft shoulder or a rough, rutted road, Master-Guide provides the muscles to keep you on a steady course. At the same time, Master-Guide absorbs the shock that might otherwise be transmitted to the steering wheel. You'll find all handling is easier with Master-Guide and that parking requires only one-fourth the normal effort. Should Master-Guide ever lose its power, the standard steering mechanism will operate just as usual. Thus, Master-Guide provides new ease and stability, with a natural feel and full security, wherever you may drive.

Optional on all V-8 models at extra cost.

SUPERSONIC PLANE DIVE FRIGHTENS KANSAS CITIANS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 13 (AP) — Production of new jet planes has started here and Kansas Citians yesterday got their first sample of thunderclap shock waves caused by a plane passing trhough the sonic barrier.

The thunderous noise shook homes over about 10 square miles on the south side of the city. Frightened, angry and curious citizens flooded police and fire stations with telephone calls.

Offiicals of the General Motors plant, where the F-84F Thunder-streak jet is being built, said a test pilot made a speed test in a dive at 30,000 feet.

CONVICT REVOLT IN OREGON GOES INTO FOURTH DAY

Men Appear About to Surrender, Then Turn Abusive After Being Fed.

SALEM, Ore., July 13 (AP)—Prison officials and some 900 convicts remained in virtual deadlock as a revolt of prisoners went into its fourth day at the Oregon penitentiary today.

The men, confined to a fenced-in baseball field inside the prison walls, seemed about to surrender once last night, but then turned restless and abusive after Warden Clarence T. Glidden issued them some soup and bread—their first meal since Friday night.

"Now we've got the warden on the run," came the cries after the soup had been distributed and guards had begun conducting men from the chill outdoors area to the cells.

Gladden at once stopped the removal of the men from the field. About 125 had been searched and conducted to the cells before the halt. The warden said they would not be let out of their cells today.

The warden also said there would be no meals at all for the 900 outside and the 400 men now in their cells. Nearly 300 in the cells have been there since Friday, when they answered Gladden's call to give up the revolt then. Gladden said all would remain locked up, even those normally used to help prepare meals.

Gladden said the rest would stay in the baseball field—where armed guards are watching them from the walls—until the convicts give assurance there will be no further revolt.

The men broke up bleachers on the field to construct windbreaks as a chill breeze swept the field last night. They also built bonfires with the wood.

The trouble, which began Friday morning with a no-work strike to enforce demands for improved conditions, reached its height of violence Saturday morning. The convicts set fire to the prison tailor shop. A building housing laundry equipment, the flax plant, and the machine shop also were damaged by fire.

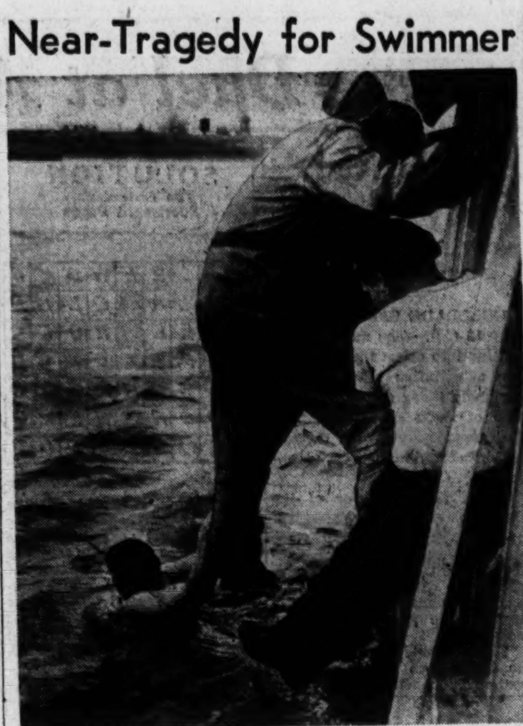
Near-Tragedy for Swimmer



—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

JOSE CORTINAS, Cuban swimmer, clutches leg of workman to avoid being swept under St. Louis Yacht Club barge by swift Mississippi current at Pine street yesterday. He had just completed the 22-mile course from Alton.

SWIMS HERE FROM ALTON, ALMOST GOES UNDER BARGE

Jose Cortinas, 225-pound distance swimmer from Havana, Cuba, made the 22-mile Mississippi course from Alton to St. Louis in four hours and 52½ minutes yesterday but narrowly escaped being swept under the St. Louis Yacht Club barge by the swift current as he made for shore at Pine street.

The powerfully built Cortinas, unable to understand shouted warnings, cut into the bank just upstream from the barge and might have drowned if workmen had not clambered down to help. He grabbed one man's leg and was hauled to safety.

Then another mishap marred Cortinas' feat. On the dock the smiling, 36-year-old swimmer, covered with grease, dropped a gold medal presented to him by Edwin Koenig, commodore of the yacht club. The medal slipped between boards and was lost in the river.

Cortinas swam the Alton course to warm up for his forthcoming race from St. Louis to Caruthersville, Mo., July 25 with another Latin American athlete, Antonio Abertondo of Buenos Aires, Argentina. The Alton course unofficial record of three hours, 56 minutes, was set in 1951 by Donald Keller and James Quinlivan of St. Louis.

DISMISSES TRUST CHARGES IN CHICAGO LATHING TRADE

CHICAGO, July 13 (UP) — United States District Judge Joseph Sam Perry today dismissed indictments charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust act in the multi-million-dollar lathing and plastering trade in the Chicago area.

The indictments had named a contractors' association, an employers' association and two labor unions.

Perry said he found no "cause of action" under the Sherman act, and could not "extend the law by interpretation." He added that "perhaps the Supreme Court would think otherwise, and it is a matter for the Supreme Court to decide."

Defendants were:

The Employing Lathers Association of Chicago and vicinity; Local 74, Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union, Chicago; Harry D. Follett and Edward Chouinard, lathing contractors and members of the Employing Lathers Association; the Employing Plasterers' Association of Chicago and the Journeymen Plasterers' Protective and Benevolent Association, Local No. 5; and Byron William Dalton, president of Local No. 5.

R. D. COE REPORTED CHOSEN FOR ENVOY TO DENMARK

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) —Robert Douglas Coe, former career diplomat, has been picked by the White House to be the new United States ambassador to Denmark, informed officials reported today. Coe, who retired from the State Department in May 1952 after 20 years service, would succeed Mrs. Eugenie Anderson of Red Wing, Minn. The Danish foreign office has been asked by the State Department to approve Coe's appointment, officials said.

Coe is regarded as a political appointee despite his long diplomatic service. He quit the department shortly after his 50th birthday, when he was deputy director of the Office of British Commonwealth and Northern European Affairs.

2 JETS IN JAPAN COLLIDE; ONE PILOT DEAD, 2ND HURT

TOKYO, July 13 (AP)—Two F-84 Thunderjets collided today over Nagoya, in southern Japan, killing one pilot and injuring the other, the Air Force said.

It was the second time in three days that two of the speedy jets have collided in air.

One of the planes in today's collision fell into the sea. The other crashed in an airfield. The surviving pilot, who bailed out, suffered a broken leg.

FRENCH USE AID IN PLACE OF TAX, SENATE IS TOLD

Appropriation Group Opens Hearings on 5.1 Billion for Assistance Abroad.

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP) —The Senate Appropriations Committee has received a staff report that France is "constitutionally incapable" of balancing its budget and is substituting United States aid for taxes, it was disclosed yesterday.

The report questioned whether the French "will ever put their fiscal house in order and balance their budget by collecting the proper amount of taxes as long as they receive American aid."

It was based on studies made by a five-man team which spent six weeks in Paris last spring.

Chairman Styles Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, circulated copies last week to committee members as they began hearings on President Eisenhower's request for $5,100,000,000 in foreign aid appropriations.

"What we are doing with our economic aid is simply giving the French a certain amount of money and exercising no real control over how it is spent . . .," the report said.

"The French are constitutionally incapable of balancing their budget . . . The parties are evenly divided so that no government can do anything effective . . . As a result the French Government is moribund."

"However, the report added, "Any French politician can and does make political capital out of denouncing the United States" and few of them "have the courage to defend us."

It said any French government would be committing suicide by attempting to adopt a "realistic" tax program.

NEW HOUSE VOTE ON EDC AID ISSUE

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) —The House votes a second time today to tell President Eisenhower he must withhold a billion dollars' worth of arms from western Europe unless it forms an international army.

The vote comes on a compromise bill setting a $5,157,232,500 ceiling on foreign aid for the year ending next June 30. This is $314,000,000 less than the President asked.

The measure includes an amendment, by Representative Richards (Dem.), South Carolina, ear-marking half of European military aid—something over one billion dollars—for the incomplete European Defense Community or a suitable alternate organization.

This is the strongest move Congress has taken in recent years at least to tell the President how to carry out his foreign policy.

Only West Germany has ratified the EDC treaty to set up a six-nation army, including German forces, under international command. France has balked at rearming Germany.

The amendment was offered by the Administration because it calls for mandatory action. Senators finally accepted the proposal Friday after four days' secret debate in a Senate-House committee adjusting differences between the two foreign aid bills which had been passed earlier.

The House and the Senate, due to act later this week, must act on the compromise bill. Little opposition is expected to either the money figure or the Richards amendment.

The bill authorizes $3,581,523,000 in global military assistance and $1,362,634,500 in various types of economic aid during the year.

The real test of the President's program will come later this month when the actual appropriations are voted. Cuts up to two billion dollars are predicted. Republican leaders said over the weekend they expect both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles to make new appeals for the full amount.

MAGYAR FARMERS REPORTED CLASHING WITH OFFICIALS

VIENNA, July 13 (AP)—Reliable reports from Communist Hungary said today that violent clashes between farmers and rural officials took place at scattered points last week.

In some cases, the reports said, Communist functionaries "took to their heels" with irate farmers in pursuit.

The clashes were caused by a Hungarian Government announcement 10 days ago that farmers would be permitted to leave collective farms if they wished and be allowed to set up independent farming again.

Many farmers immediately demanded permission to leave, the informants said. Communist officials, taken by surprise by the Government's about-face, refused to allow them to quit the collectives.

LODGE CALLS MEMBERSHIP OF RUSSIA IN U.N. FORTUNATE

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 13 (UP) — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., permanent representative to the United Nations, said today that Russia's membership in the U.N. is a fortunate circumstance.

Lodge, who appeared in a television panel discussion last night after arriving yesterday by air, said a friend recently told him that "having Russia in the United Nations is like having an arsonist in the fire department."

"My reply was that I would rather have the arsonist in the fire department where he could be watched than out in the brush setting fires," Lodge said.

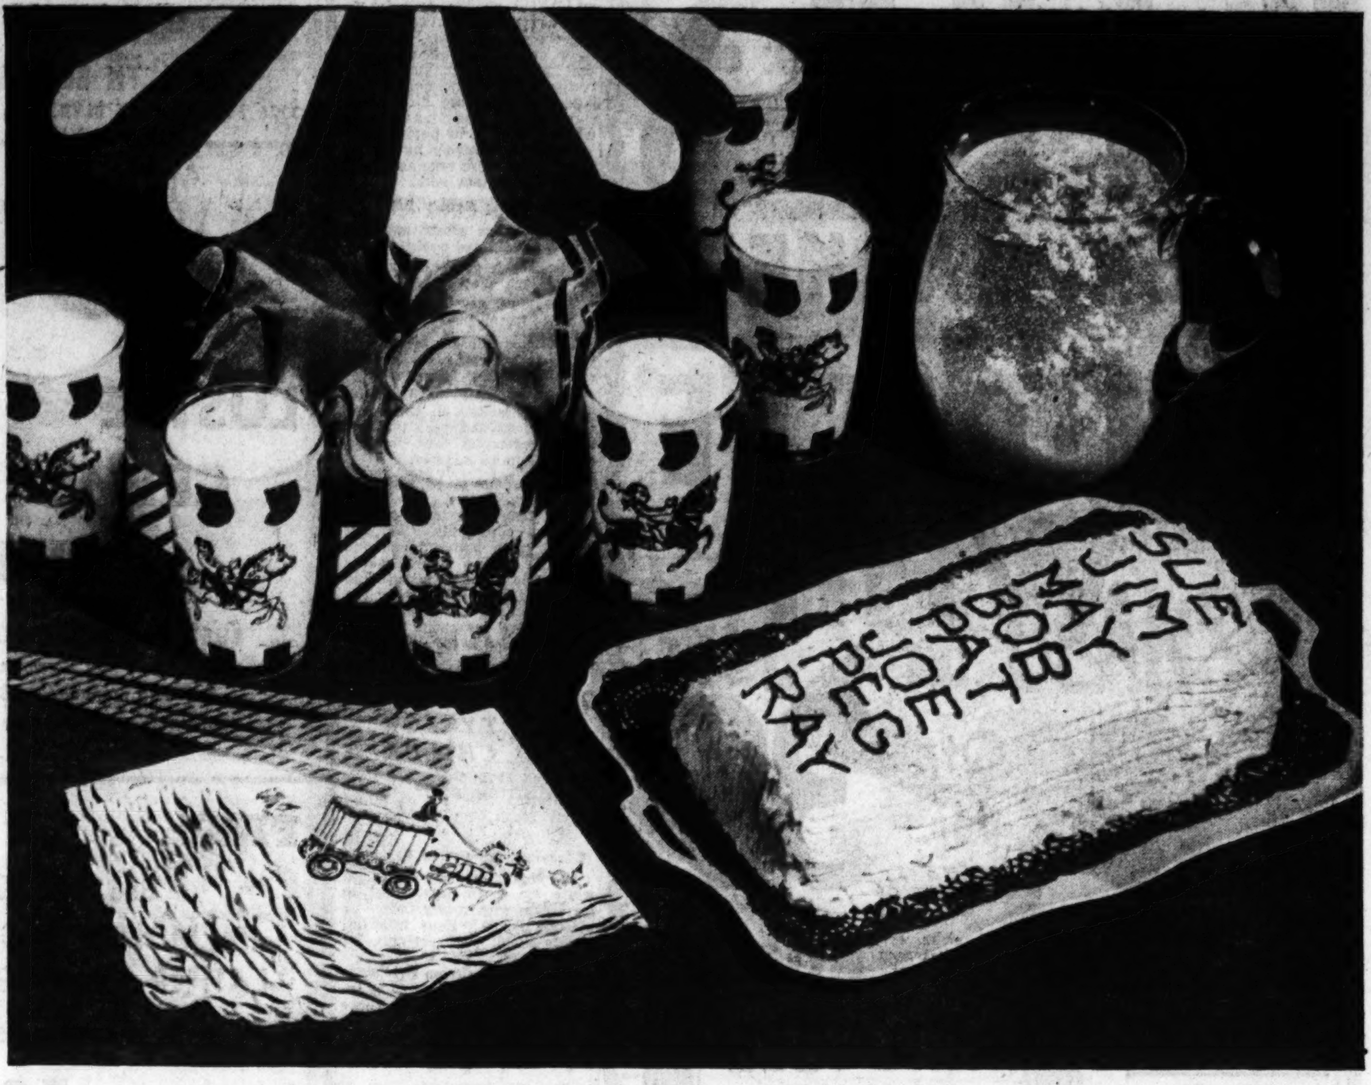
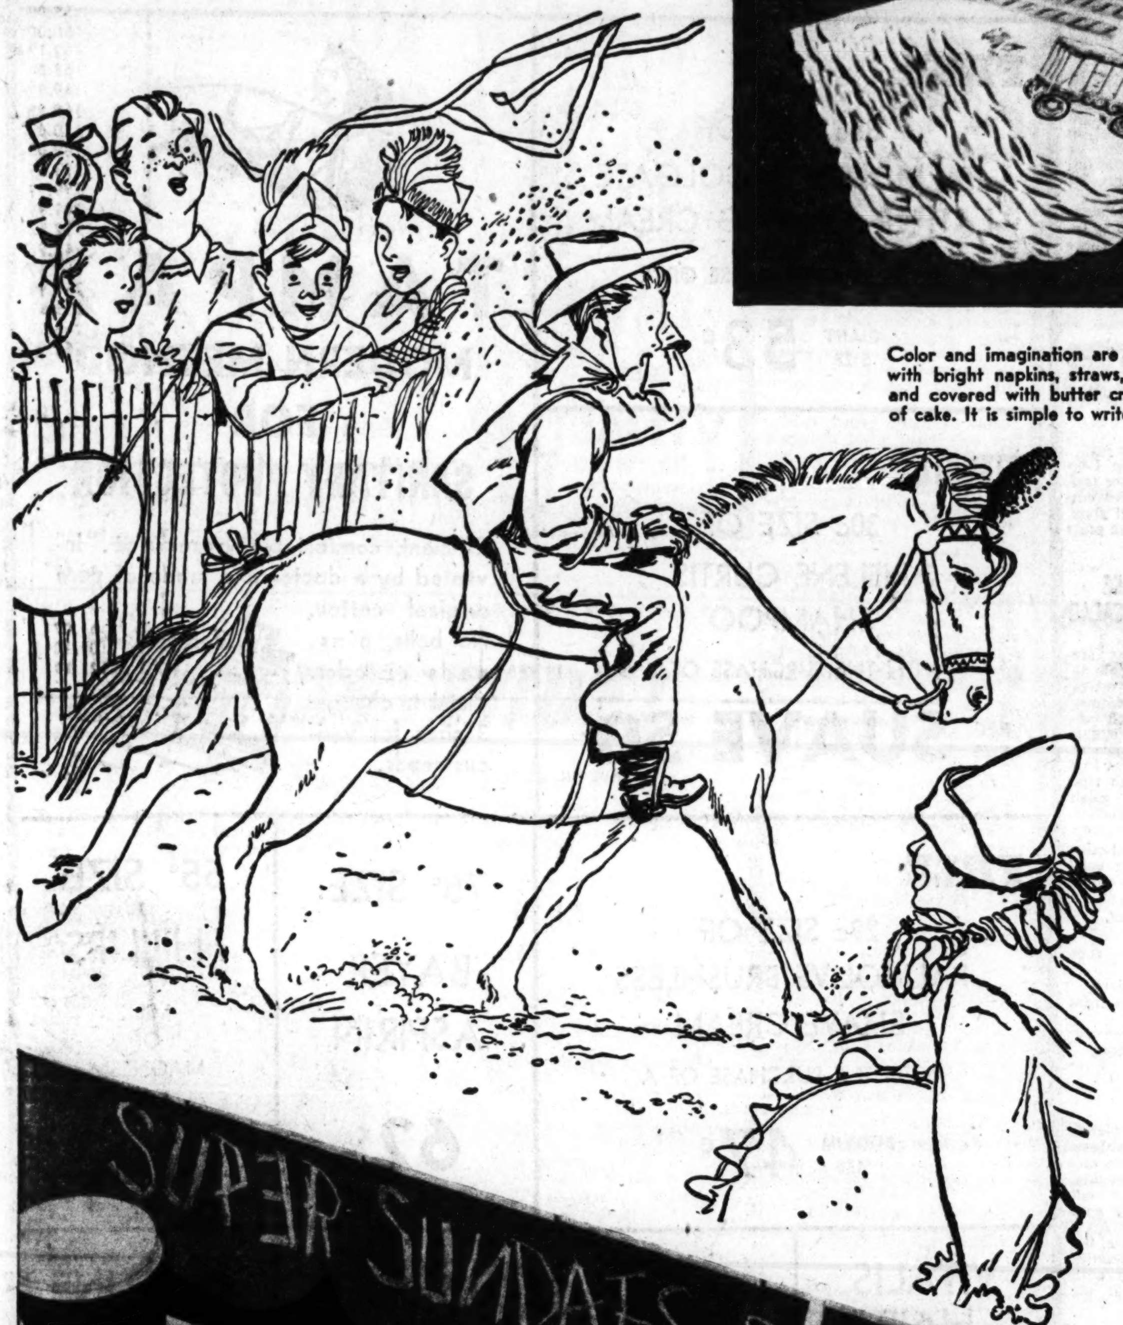
Gay 'Circus' Party for Children



Color and imagination are two important essentials for a successful children's party. This one is planned around the circus theme with bright napkins, straws, circus glasses and centerpiece providing the props. Chocolate jelly roll, filled with whipped cream and covered with butter cream frosting, is served with glasses of cold milk. Youngsters will be delighted with personalized pieces of cake. It is simple to write the name of each boy or girl on the icing. Tint the frosting with food coloring; apply with a plain pastry tube.



By Dorothy Brainerd

Post-Dispatch Food Editor.

IF the novelty of vacation days has worn off, if time hangs heavy on the hands of your small fry and you frequently hear the plaintive query, "What can I do now, Mama?"—then perhaps it is time to give a party. For children's parties are big events in their lives, fraught with anticipation and excitement, a sure cure for boredom.

When you make your plans, remember that the two most important ingredients for children's parties are intangibles which you can't write down on your marketing list. They are imagination and color; two magic qualities which assure success.

A circus party is a natural for youngsters. And it is easy to arrange. Colorful napkins, straws and circus glasses are the props. Refreshments may be simple, but must be served with a flourish. For instance, give each child an individualized piece of cake with his or her name written in chocolate icing.

This chocolate jelly roll can be made in advance, filled with the whipped cream and decorated. It will keep well in the refrigerator for several hours, or if you have a home freezer it can be made days or weeks in advance, filled with whipped cream and frozen. However, be sure to take it out in time to defrost and decorate the morning of the party. Serve it with glasses of cold milk.

Chocolate Whipped Cream Roll.

One-half teaspoon baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Four egg whites.
Three-fourths cup sugar.
Four egg yolks.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Two squares unsweetened chocolate, melted.

Sift flour once, then measure and sift again with baking powder and salt. Beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually fold in the sugar. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Fold carefully into egg white mixture. Add vanilla. Fold in flour gradually, then melted chocolate and blend all ingredients together thoroughly.

Turn into 10-by-15-inch shallow pan which has been well greased and lined with waxed paper. Grease top side of waxed paper. (This enables you to pull the waxed paper off easily after the cake is baked and removed from the pan.) Bake 15 minutes in a 375-degree preheated oven.

When baked, remove from pan by turning pan over a clean tea towel which has been dusted with powdered sugar. Remove paper from chocolate roll. Lay a piece of waxed paper on top of chocolate roll, then roll, and the towel and waxed paper will roll with it. This makes the cake roll easier to unroll and fill when cake has cooled.

When cool, unroll and fill with whipped cream. Reroll and serve at once, or wrap in aluminum foil and freeze for future use.

Butter Cream Frosting.

One-half cup soft butter or margarine.
One-half cup cream or milk.
Two teaspoons vanilla.
Confectioners' powdered sugar.

Cream softened butter or margarine, adding powdered sugar and cream alternately until thick enough to spread. Add vanilla. Divide into equal parts and tint with food coloring for decorating.

Of course, a party just wouldn't be complete for children if the refreshments didn't include ice cream. In cones, in sundaes or sodas it is one of their favorites. You will find this sirup useful in preparing sodas, milk shakes or floats.

Chocolate Sirup.

Two packages semi-sweet chocolate.
Two cups sugar.
Two tablespoons light corn sirup.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Two cups water.
Two teaspoons vanilla.

Combine semi-sweet chocolate morsels, sugar, corn sirup, salt and water in saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring until chocolate is melted and sugar is dissolved. Bring to a boil and cook five minutes; add vanilla. Beat with rotary egg beater. Cool; pour into clean quart jar with tight-fitting lid. Store in refrigerator. Yield: Three and one-half cups.

Banana Split.

Bananas.
Strawberry, vanilla and chocolate ice cream.
Chocolate, strawberry and pineapple sauce.
Cherries.

Cut bananas in half lengthwise. Place on sundae dish or dessert plates. Top with scoops of ice cream, then sauce, whipped cream and a cherry garnish.

Broadway Ice Cream Soda.

Three tablespoons chocolate sirup.
One scoop (one-fourth pint) ice cream.

Put chocolate sirup in 12-ounce glass; fill two-thirds full with sparkling water. Add ice cream; stir vigorously. Fill to top with sparkling water. Yield: One serving.

SUPER SUNDAES & SODAS

Set up your own "soda fountain," with homemade ice cream sodas and sundaes mixed to order. Older boys and girls will want to get into the act by mixing their own. High on the list of children's favorites is the banana split, combining bananas with strawberry, vanilla and chocolate ice cream topped with strawberry, chocolate and pineapple sauces and garnished with whipped cream and cherries. Strawberry and tropical sundaes, Broadway and citrus sodas will meet with approval For the tropical sundae, vanilla ice cream is topped with unsulphured molasses and whole nuts. The Broadway ice cream soda is a combination of chocolate sirup, sparkling water and vanilla ice cream; orange or tangerine juice is added to ginger ale and vanilla ice cream in the citrus soda.

TRY ONE-DISH VEGETABLE BAKE

FLAVOR combinations have much to do with how much we enjoy our food. Variety in color and in texture is important, too. So when you find a recipe which offers good texture contrast, color, and nice flavor combination, you have one which is sure to be popular.

Vegetable Medley Bake

Two pounds small new potatoes, cooked and peeled

One bunch green onions, cut in one-inch pieces

Two cups new peas or one package frozen peas

Two cups thin cream sauce
One-fourth cup grated American cheese

Cook potatoes until tender with their jackets on, then peel. Cook onions and peas together until vegetables are tender, about 10 to 15 minutes.

Make cream sauce with two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt and two cups milk. Arrange vegetables in buttered one and one-half or two quart baking dish. Add cream sauce and sprinkle grated cheese over the top. Brown in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 20 minutes. Yield: Six to eight servings.

STUFFED TOMATOES MAKE FULL-MEAL LUNCHEON SALAD

Field ripened tomatoes are often so pretty that we hate to cut them into pieces for salads and such. "Betsy's Summer Salad" uses whole-peeled tomatoes. Hollow them out slightly and stuff with a mixture of creamy cottage cheese, crisp celery and wedges of rich ripe olives. Serve on crisp salad greens with a topping of mayonnaise and pickle relish.

Betsy's Summer Salad.

One cup ripe olives
One and two-thirds cups cottage cheese
Two-third cup sliced celery
Few drops worcestershire sauce
Few drops tabasco sauce
Six medium-sized tomatoes
Lettuce
Mayonnaise
Pickle relish
Ripe olives for garnish

Cut olives into large pieces. Combine with cottage cheese, celery, worcestershire sauce and tabasco sauce. Blend thoroughly. Peel tomatoes and hollow out centers. Drain well. Stuff with cheese mixture.

Place on shredded lettuce, top with mayonnaise and spoonful of pickle relish. Garnish with whole ripe olives. Yield: six servings.

CORN MEAL AND CHEESE FLAVOR SALMON PATTIES

Native American Indians taught the early settlers the delicious taste combination of fish and corn meal, leading to the development of many excellent recipes combining these two good foods.

Corn Meal Salmon Patties

One-half cup corn meal
One-half cup boiling liquid (salmon liquor and water)
One-half pound canned salmon
One-fourth cup grated American cheese
One egg

Sprinkle corn meal into boiling liquid, stirring constantly. Cook over low heat until thickened. Cool slightly. Combine beaten egg and salmon, add thickened corn meal, and shape into six patties. Brown in small amount of fat on both sides. Sprinkle top with grated cheese and serve with mushroom sauce or tomato sauce. Yield: six patties.

Tinted Coconut Adds Gaiety to Circus Cake

A big layer cake is another good idea for a children's party, and here again we play up the idea of color.

One of the most versatile color tricks in cake decoration is the use of shredded coconut as a topping, tinted in many hues. This Pinwheel Layer Cake features large wedges of circus-colored shredded coconut whirling around a peppermint flagpole. Each piece is decorated with a lollipop clown's face, his ears and hat of bright red cinnamon drops.

This fanciful decoration is very easily done. Take two small bowls: in each place half a teaspoon of milk or water. Add a few drops of yellow vegetable coloring to one and a few drops red coloring to the other and mix each. Add half a four-ounce package of shredded coconut to each bowl and toss with a fork until coconut is tinted throughout. Decorate top of cake in wedge designs, alternating color.

Pinwheel Layer Cake.

Two and one-fourth cups sifted cake flour.
Two and one-fourth teaspoons double-acting baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Three-fourths cup butter or margarine.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Three eggs, unbeaten.
Two-thirds cup milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter or margarine, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Then add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla and blend.

Pour batter into two round nine-inch layer pans, one and one-half inches deep, which have been lined on bottoms with paper. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 minutes, or until cake springs back when pressed lightly.

TOASTED SHREDDED WHEAT BISCUITS FOR BREAKFAST

"Brighten up" breakfast and you will solve the problem of trying to persuade your husband and children to eat a substantial first meal of the day.

For example, start off with a potpourri of fresh fruit—whatever happens to be in season. Then, for the main course, try French toasted shredded wheat biscuits served with spicy pork sausages. The biscuits will be crisp on the outside, moist on the inside with a rich whole-wheat flavor. Pass pitchers of melted butter and sirup.

French Toasted Shredded Wheat Biscuits

One egg, beaten
One cup milk
One-fourth teaspoon salt
Two tablespoons sugar
Six shredded wheat biscuits

Combine egg, milk, salt and sugar. Dip shredded wheat biscuits into egg mixture, drain slightly and fry in a small amount of sausage drippings or butter.

MERINGUE PUFFS

Six sponge cake shells
One egg white
One-fourth cup granulated sugar
One-fourth teaspoon vanilla extract
One pint vanilla or strawberry ice cream
One cup crushed raspberries

Beat egg whites until quite stiff, but not dry. Add sugar and vanilla gradually, continuing to beat until very stiff. Spread meringue around the sides of each sponge cake shell. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) for five minutes. Fill center of each puff with a scoop of ice cream. Top each serving with crushed raspberries.

Frozen or sweetened fresh berries may be used.

Quick Casserole.

You can put this baked casserole together in a minute. Heat canned chili con carne (without beans) to boiling. Put two and one-half cups cooked large dry limas in small casserole. Cover with heated chili and top with one-fourth cup grated American cheese. Heat in moderate oven for 20 minutes.

Sandwich Suggestions.

Sandwiches which satisfy out-of-doors appetites need fillings that have staying power. Try the following fillings grated tuna with finely chopped celery and mayonnaise; cream cheese and jam; ground bologna with green pepper and salad dressing or chopped hard-cooked egg with mustard.

TROOPS OF RED CHINA FILTERING INTO BURMA AREA

Rangoon Admits Movement by Communists Into Refuge of Chinese Nationalists.

RANGOON, July 13 (AP)—A government spokesman acknowledged last night that Chinese Communist troops have filtered into North Burma from Yunnan province of China. Intelligence sources reported Saturday without confirmation, that Communist soldiers had hoisted Red flags over Burmese villages 25 miles from the border in Wa state.

"The Burmese government has been aware for the past three or four weeks of 'infiltration' of Red Chinese forces in ers. He called the reports the northern Wa state of Burma," the spokesman told report- "fragmentary" and said the developments."

He conceded, nevertheless, that the whole matter was "delicate" and added that the government is "closely watching "government could not comment on the seriousness of the situation at this stage."

The announced purpose of the Reds, intelligence informants here said, was to "protect" Burmese from the depredations of Chinese Nationalist guerrillas. The Nationalists fled into Burma after the Communist victory in China.

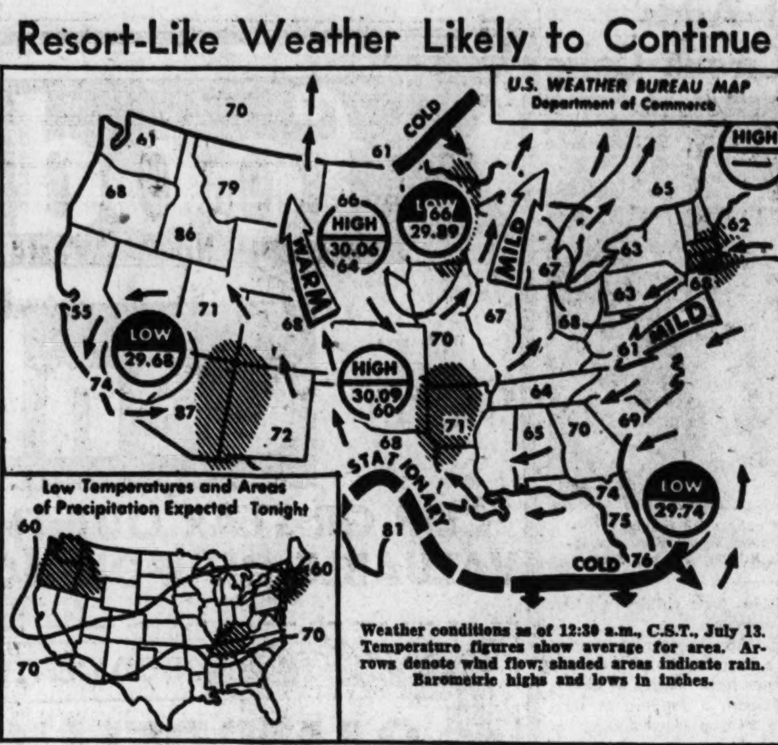
(If finally confirmed, this would bear out the fears expressed at the United Nations last April, when Burma appealed to the U.N. to get 12,000 Nationalist Chinese out of the country. The Burmese said they feared Peiping would use the presence of the Nationalists as an excuse to invade and take over all of Burma.)

The government spokesman here commented that Communist China has laid claim in the past to disputed areas of wild Wa state, but declared the area was demarcated in 1936 and awarded to Burma.

In May, 1952, the Chinese Nationalists, under Lt. Gen. Arthur Hoe, marched into Yunan from a base in Wa province. These soldiers penetrated 100 miles into Communist territory before they were put to flight.

More recently Chinese Nationalist troops, acting as mercenaries of a China border-state minister, left their base camp in Wa province and crossed into Yunnan to depose a Kachin chieftain. The Communists later reversed this action, executing the minister and restoring the chieftain.

Resort-Like Weather Likely to Continue



Weather conditions as of 12:30 a.m., C.S.T., July 13. Temperature figures show average for area. Arrows denote wind flow; shaded areas indicate rain. Barometric highs and lows in inches.

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Resort-like weather is expected to continue here for at least two more days, as the midwestern and eastern states enjoy relief from a heat wave, Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said. Widely scattered thundershowers in southern Missouri yesterday failed to reach the St. Louis area and there is little hope of rain here today or tomorrow.

Drouth conditions in Oklahoma were relieved yesterday by almost one-half inch of rain in Oklahoma City, bringing the total in the last 48 hours to one and one-half inches. The remainder of the western states continued to swelter. Missoula, Mont., recorded the highest reading in its weather bureau history, with 105 degrees. Boise, Ida., also had 105. The hottest spot in the nation yesterday was Presidio, Tex., with 110 degrees. Yesterday marked the beginning of the eighth consecutive week of 100 degrees or more for Presidio.

Leadville, Colo. enjoyed the distinction of being the coolest place in the country yesterday, with a 40 degree reading. Michigan and Minnesota are expected to remain cool today and tomorrow as a cold front now in upper Michigan will extend to Minneapolis by morning.

A low pressure area off the coast of Florida will move over the Atlantic by tomorrow, the Weather Bureau predicted, and a high over the Kansas-Oklahoma border will move into the Texas Panhandle.

Rainfall in the St. Louis area for the month of July remains unusually low. Only .10 of an inch has fallen here this month. Some rain is expected in the New England states, the Pacific Northwest and western Kentucky or Tennessee.

TEEN-AGE MOTHER KILLED, 2 WOMEN INJURED IN CRASH

All Three, on Way to Visit Husbands at Ft. Wood, Thrown From Auto in Upset.

Mrs. Jerry Scarlet, 15 years old, Maryland Heights, was killed yesterday and two other women were injured when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on U.S. Highway 66 about six miles west of St. Clair, Mo.

Driver of the machine was Mrs. Marguerite Whistler, Overland, who suffered serious chest and head injuries and a possible fractured leg. Mrs. Charlene Morgan, Mrs. Whistler's sister, also of Overland, received minor cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Scarlet's husband is Pvt. Jerry Scarlet of Fort Leonard Wood. They have a 9-months-old daughter, Linda Faye, and were expecting another child. Mrs. Scarlet and the other two women were en route to the Army post to visit their service-men husbands when the accident occurred.

All three were thrown from the automobile after the driver apparently lost control, highway patrolmen reported.

John E. Sayers, 45, driver for a dairy, was fatally injured yesterday when the automobile he was driving collided with a truck on U. S. Highway 40 in Fairmont City, Ill. Sayers died at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, a few hours after the accident. He lived at 2800 Black lane, east of Fairmont City.

The automobile Sayers was driving east ran into the westbound lane and collided with a truck driven by Homer Hart, farmer, of Grafton, Ill., police reported. Hart suffered neck and shoulder injuries.

Mrs. Lula Mae Adams, 45, of 4217 Cote Brilliante avenue, was killed yesterday when her automobile backed down an incline and she was dragged underneath the machine.

Police said Mrs. Adams, a Negro practical nurse, apparently was getting into the automobile when it suddenly began to moev down the incline and she was in some manner pulled under the machine.

Billy J. Twidwell, 25, Silva, Mo., was killed yesterday when his automobile crashed off U.S. Highway 61 about nine miles north of Bonne Terre. Highway patrolmen said the accident occurred late Saturday or early yesterday.

James Pendergrass, laborer, 615 Walnut street, was seriously injured Saturday night when struck by an automobile at Tenth and Market streets. Driver of the automobile was Leroy F. Savage, a merchant, 3125 Osage street, police said.

Florissant Soldier Hit by Artillery Fire—Marine Shot in Arm.

Three St. Louis area service men have been wounded in action in Korea, the Defense Department announced yesterday. They are Pfc. Robert L. Gettemeier, Marine Capt. Francis E. Finch and Cpl. Donald J. Piva.

Gettemeier, 25 West Jean drive, Florissant, suffered serious wounds in the abdomen from artillery fire June 24. Since then he has written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Gettemeier, twice. He said he was in a hospital in South Korea. Gettemeier, 22 years old, was drafted last July and has been in Korea since May.

Finch, 33, husband of Mrs. Pauline Finch, Sappington, was wounded in the right arm June 26. He enlisted in the Marine Corps in World War II when a senior at Cornell University, but was allowed to finish his engineering curriculum before leaving for service. He served in the Pacific theater.

Pat Walsh Testifies Party Tried to Ruin Marshall Plan Also by Ship Tie-Up.

ALBANY, N.Y., July 13 (UP)—A former Canadian Communist told a House Un-American Activities subcommittee today that Communists tried to wreck the Marshall plan and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization by a world-wide shipping tie-up.

Pat Walsh of Quebec City, Que., was the first witness called by the subcommittee to disclose "facts" concerning an "international conspiracy by the Communist party."

Walsh, who is 37 years old, testified that he joined Communist Youth League when he was 18 and that he worked under the direction of Prof. Fred Rose, convicted Canadian Communist.

Walsh said the "top Communist leaders" met in Toronto in August 1948 and planned the Canadian seamen's strike.

"Only the top echelon of the Communist party attended the Toronto meeting," Walsh said. "All of these men were experienced Communist leaders."

Earlier, Walsh told the subcommittee that after he joined the youth movement he was sent to Rouyn Noranda, a mining district, to organize workers. He was later sent to the Shipshaw power project and was instrumental in getting jobs for 150 party followers, he said.

Walsh testified that before Germany attacked Russia in World War II he was ordered by Rose to join the Canadian army and "preach defeatism." He was discharged from the army for "subversive" activities.

INQUIRY ON M'CARTHY BY EDUCATORS URGED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 13 (AP)—Dener newspaper publisher Palmer Hoyt told a conference of educators today that the light of truth and fair play reveals both McCarthyism and Communism in all their "ugliness and hypocrisy."

Hoyt, publisher of the Denver Post, suggested that leaders of education "instead of spending their time in fear and trembling of Senator McCarthy . . . might investigate the Senator and report their findings to the people."

In an address prepared for the Harvard Conference on Public Unrest in Education, Hoyt defined "McCarthyism" as "the totalitarian device of making the charge more important than the law, the evidence, the verdict or the trial."

Today, Hoyt said, the Wisconsin Republican representing "but one 531st part of (the) legislative component . . . of our national Government . . . is now usurping the functions of the executive, of the legislative and of the judicial."

"Conceding that as a legislator, Senator McCarthy has the authority to conduct investigations," Hoyt said, "it is still part of the obvious intent of the law that fair play and what we ordinarlyi call 'due process' should obtain in the conduct of these quasi judicial courts.

". . . It would seem that under the American system that a witness should be apprised of what he is charged with; who is charging him with what; that he should have a chance to face both the who and the what; that McCarthy should concern himself in seeking the truth, and should abandon his practice of asking loaded questions.

"Far too many of our national leaders are afraid of Joseph R. McCarthy and McCarthyism," Hoyt said, "namely the teachers, the preachers, the politicians, and, if you please, the newsaper editors.

"In many cases, they are afraid of the little McCarthys that have been produced at state level, because, unfortunately for the immediate future of our democrew, unfounded charges havebecome the spirit of the days."

PROPERTY OWNERS' GROUP TO SET UP OWN RENT BOARD

A plan to establish its own fair rent board was approved yesterday by the St. Louis Property Owners' Association in a meeting at the Kings-Way Hotel. The group also decided to ask Mayor Raymond R. Tucker to become an ex-officio member of the board.

Mrs. Kathryn Cross, president of the association, said the organization will attempt to unite with other groups of St. Louis property owners with a goal of insuring fair adjustment of rents.

The association passed a resolution opposing action of the city in closing third-floor apartments which have no outside fire escapes. The resolution said that this action causes owners to charge higher rents for other available rooms and helps cause a housing shortage.

SALISBURY HAS SORE THROAT

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—A slight sore throat kept Lord Salisbury, acting British Foreign Secretary, in bed yesterday and forced cancellation of a visit with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

The British Embassy said Lord Salisbury had abandoned plans for a trip to Newport, R.I., where Eden is recuperating from an operation. Frederick Leishman, a foreign office secretary, went in his place.

VANDALS DISCOLOR WATER AND FORCE CLOSING OF POOL

A Belleville swimming pool was closed yesterday after vandals threw a powerful chemical germicide into the water, discoloring it and forcing draining of the pool.

Richard Hilgard, owner of West Haven swimming pool on Illinois Highway 159 a half mile south of Belleville, said the water was turned a light reddish hue by the chemical, potassium permanganate. A chemist reported only a handful of the germicide would have been needed to discolor the water.

Hilgard attributed the vandalism to "a clash of personalities" and said he has had to turn persons away from the pool on various occasions for creating disturbances. He declined to elaborate.

The vandalism was discovered at 3 a.m. yesterday by a watchman. Hilgard said the pool was drained and scrubbed and was reopened today. He estimated 1000 persons use the pool on an average Sunday.

2 YOUTHS SHOT BY MAN FIRING FROM PASSING AUTO

Two youths were wounded, one seriously, early yesterday when they were shot, apparently for no reason, by a man in a passing automobile, police reported.

Allen K. Johnson, 18 years old, 2141 Hickory street, is in serious condition at Homer G. Phillips Hospital with a gunshot wound of the left chest. His companion, Samuel W. Hightower, 19, 232A Chouteau avenue, was released from the hospital after being treated for a wound in the right leg.

The youths, both Negroes, told police they were sitting at Chouteau and Missouri avenues when an automobile in which four men were riding stopped at the intersection. A man in the back seat fired about five shots at them with a .22-caliber rifle, two of them striking the boys, police were told. The youths could ascribe no motive for the shooting.

President Misstates in Saying 3 A-Bomb Planes Could Equal Blast Power of 2700 in Normandy

Actually, They Could Strike Only 3 Small Targets Instead of Hundreds as Was Case—Results Diminish Relatively as Size of Bomb Increases.

By BRIG. GEN. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch
FIRST OF TWO ARTICLES.

WASHINGTON, July 13.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER, on May 19, said that "today three aircraft with modern weapons can practically duplicate the destructive power of all the 2700 planes we unleashed in the great break-out attack from the Normandy beachhead." And he added: "Clearly every technological advance affects this problem of air power—including the development of missles now in production."

In Minneapolis June 10, the President said: "Today 25 aircraft equipped with modern weapons can—in a single attack—visit upon the enemy as much explosive violence as was hurled at Germany by our entire air effort throughout four years of World War II."

The implications of these statements and of references to them by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson are that new weapons, especially atomic weapons, will decrease the need for an air force as large as had been planned by the present Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The influence of the greater destructive power of atomic weapons cannot be judged by their greater power alone. It would take several hundred plane loads of conventional bombs to accomplish the devastation of a single atomic bomb.

Inexact Analogy

This is only part of the answer. The 2700 planes that supported the Normandy break-out to which the President referred destroyed hundreds of targets, bridges and railroads leading to the battlefield over a large area, as well as troops and supplies. Three atomic bombs would have totally destroyed these small areas, but this would not have given the same assistance to Eisenhower's troops as the support of 2700 aircraft.

The same reasoning holds true in the bombing of Germany. There were thousands of targets and 25 atomic bombs could have not have covered them all. On the other hand, a few hundred atomic bombs dropped within a short period on critical targets would have done more to destroy Germany's important war-making facilities than all the TNT actually used.

There were approximately 2,700,000 tons of bombs dropped on the European Axis powers during World War II. Of this total about 1,300,000 tons were dropped on Germany. By dividing the figure of 25 into the tonnages dropped in World War II, it can be seen that the President was referring to a bomb of the power of 108 kilotons (the equivalent of 108,000 tons of TNT in energy release) if he was referring to the larger figure, or 52 kilotons if he was referring to the smaller.

The 'Nominal' A-Bomb

The Atomic Energy Commission has stated that atomic bombs have been developed with "several" times the power of the "nominal" bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The "nominal" bomb had an energy release equivalent of 20 kilotons.

Representative Erret P. Scrivener (Rep.), Kansas, acting chairman of the House military appropriations sub-committee, has stated that the United States has developed a "small" atomic bomb, which can be carried in fighter-bombers, three times as powerful as the "nominal" bomb.

Scientists, not connected with the Atomic Energy Commission, have estimated that atomic bombs have been developed six times as powerful as the "nominal" bomb, or with an energy release of 120 kilotons.

Since it has been estimated that only from 3 to 10 per cent of the energy was released in the fission of the "nominal" bomb, it is evident that means have been found to increase the efficiency of the bomb as well as to decrease its size.

Engineering Refinements.

This has been done by improving the composition of the fissionable material and by reducing the presence of materials which capture neutrons. The escape of neutrons can be decreased by surrounding the fissionable material with a suitable reflector.

These refinements will both reduce the critical size and increase the energy release of the bomb. At the same time the mechanism for bringing the two parts of the bomb together to create fission has been improved so that the overall size of the bomb has been reduced so that it can be carried by small aircraft or fired from artillery pieces.

The increase in power of the small bomb to three times that of the "nominal" bomb and the possibility that we have a larger bomb six times as powerful does not mean that destructive effect increases at the same rate. The area of principal damage, that caused by the blast, increases only as the cube root of the energy increases.

Areas of Damage.

The radius of severe blast damage (5.2 pounds over-pressure per square inch) is about 6200 feet for the "nominal" bomb, 9000 feet for a 60-kiloton bomb and 11,500 feet for a 120-kiloton bomb. Complete destruction would occur with radii about half that of severe blast damage.

Moderate blast damage to homes, such as destruction of windows, window frames, doors and plaster, short of major structural damage, but sufficient to make the home unusable without major repairs, will occur out to about 9000 feet from ground zero with the 20-kiloton bomb, 12,500 feet with the 60-kiloton bomb and 16,000-feet with the 120 kiloton bomb.

Winds are created with a velocity of 800 miles per hour at 1000 feet from the blast, dropping to 100 miles per hour 8000 feet distant.

Fires are started to distances between the radii of severe and moderate blast damage, although heat sufficient to char wood and produce skin burns is received at much greater distances.

Home Problems, Expense Make Red China Anxious to End War

By KEYES BEECH
The Chicago Daily News-Post Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright 1953.

SEOUL, July 13.

WHY are the Chinese Communists all of a sudden so anxious to have the Korean war end? Compared to their intransigeance over the last two years, Red behavior during the last month has been sweetly reasonable.

South Korean President Syngman Rhee's revolt against the truce terms gave them enough ammunition to stall the truce for months more.

The best information here is that the Communists want peace because war is hurting them and they have enough trouble at home without biting off more in foreign lands.

The war has been vastly more expensive than the young Red government anticipated. It is true that Russia had supplied most of the arms and equipment. But China has had to supply the manpower and food. And even a country of 450,000,000 people can't take indefinitely such staggering losses as the Chinese have suffered, especially when they're losing some of their best troops.

The war was useful to Peiping at first in harnessing the energies of the people and fusing their gripes into a "hate America" campaign. But the first flush of enthusiasm for the war has long since waned. And despite rigid censorship word of the huge casualties has spread over the countryside.

This information requires no inside sources. It is available to anyone who has time to analyze the Chinese press and radio. The rosy picture painted by the Peiping radio in its English language broadcasts is completely different from that appearing in domestic newspapers.

For example, the Peiping radio talks glowingly of Manchurian industrial progress. But domestic reports speak harshly of inefficiency and bureaucracy. Red officials used Soviet "shock" methods to meet high production goals.

Accidents in the electrical industry are up 13 per cent and death rates in coal mines up 20 per cent.

Concentration on war production has greatly retarded China's dream of establishing an industrial base to support its huge population.

The Reds have built dams and dikes, dredged river channels and wrought earth-shaking changes. But natural disasters still occur. Floods in the rich Kwangtung rice-growing area plus unseasonal cold and hailstorms in central and south China have created a famine condition.

The Peking radio says in English that last year's record rice crop of nearly 17,000,000 tons will be surpassed this year. But the official Government newspaper says in Chinese that a "summer famine" is inevitable because of the poor wheat crop.

Even political meetings have been curtailed to give the farmers more time to farm.

Worse, spies and other secret agents have infiltrated the Red Government in Shanghai. The Reds say these spies are directed by Nationalist China and "imperialist America."

This means that the Red bureaucracy has grown so big the Government is not able to screen all its little bureaucrats.

Stevenson Urges Caution On Big 4 Parley

'Delay Might Clarify Situation,' He Says —Hopes for Reich Unity.

BERLIN, July 13 (AP)

ADLAI E. STEVENSON, defeated Democratic presidential nominee, favors President Eisenhower's go-slow policy on a four-power conference with the Russians.

"Delay might clarify the situation," Stevenson told a West Berlin press conference yesterday.

"I've always believed it is desirable to keep the doors open to negotiations and consultation. These are doors to peace," he said. "But I wouldn't attempt to say this is the moment for a conference. There might be a reaction—if it didn't turn out successfully—that would be unfortunate.

"The next move is Russia's anyhow. We've had no reply to the western powers' note to Moscow last September on free elections as the basis for Germany's reunification.

"I hope that Germany will be reunited and that its orientation will be toward the West, where its friends are."

Refers to Beria.

Stevenson, visiting Berlin near the end of a world tour, referred briefly to the downfall of Soviet police boss Lavrenty Beria.

"I don't think the elimination of Mr. Beria is necessarily a case that calls for rejoicing in the world," Stevenson said. "Obviously something is very wrong when two members of the triumvirate in Moscow eliminate the third. . . .

"I'm very happy that if I'm to be in politics, it's in the United States and not the Soviet Union."

The former Illinois Governor, who was detained for 20 minutes at gunpoint by Communist troops and police in East Berlin Saturday, said "I think I know what's wrong with East Germany—it's the Soviet Union."

Rejection of Food Offer.

Referring to the Kremlin's rejection of $15,000,000 worth of food for hungry East Germans, Stevenson commented:

"To decline an offer of assistance made in good faith would seem to show greater concern for political implications than for the welfare of the people."

Stevenson said his Communist captors Saturday were "very nervous young men."

"It was a rather important experience for two reasons," Stevenson said. "I had got out of our car to take a look at the broken rubble of Hitler's bunker. Two fellows with me snapped some photographs and then the police accosted us.

"One of the police informed me that taking photographs was not permitted in the United States. Having lived there 53 years without knowing this, I was grateful for the information.

"The second reason the experience was important to me was that it gave meaning to the term, Iron Curtain. A few hundred yards away, there was West Berlin—no Iron Curtain, no restrictions, no threatening with tommyguns."

Refugees Greet Stevenson

—Associated Press Radiophoto.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON exchanges gay greetings with young residents at a refugee camp in Spennserstrasse, in the British sector of Berlin, yesterday. The former Governor of Illinois, now in the late stages of a world tour, spent the weekend in the old German capital, checking on the plight of the divided city.

ALUMINUM PLANT FOR MANILA

MANILA, July 13 (AP) — A United States firm has informed the Phillipines that it will construct a $3,000,000 aluminum plant here to serve the southeast Asian market.

A presidential spokesman said last night the Reynolds Metals Co. had announced it would build a modern rolling mill. Construction is scheduled to begin in two or three months. A reduction mill will be built later, the spokesman said.

ISRAELI WOMAN COMPULSORY WORK LAW PROPOSED

JERUSALEM, July 13 (AP) — The Israeli Cabinet approved a bill yesterday providing for two years' compulsory labor service for women who are exempt on religious grounds from military service.

Under Israel's national service act, all women between 18 and 26 years are liable to two years military service. Men serve 30 months. Women may be exempted if they come from orthodox homes where objections are raised on religious grounds.

The new bill, which will be presented to parliament shortly, makes such women liable to serve instead in works of national importance, such as agriculture, health, education or social services or in immigrant camps.

Pope Holds General Audience.

VATICAN CITY, July 13 (AP) —Pope Pius held general audience yesterday for several thousand pilgrims and tourists in St. Peter's Basilica. It probably will be the last audience of the kind for the summer. The Pope is expected to leave this week for his summer home at Castelo Gondolfo.

U.S. Advised Not to Waste Its Manpower

'Thin Generation' of Depression Must Be Used Wisely, Survey Says.

By
SAMUEL SHELTON JR.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 13.

THE need for new national policies to assure more effective use of the nation's "increasingly shallow pool of properly skilled and trained manpower was stressed in a report by a special committee of the National Planning Association released today.

Referring to manpower as the most valuable resource in a free society, the association's special committee on manpower policy warned that the full potentials of the nation's young adults must be developed and used wisely if the country is to avoid dangerous wastes of manpower.

The National Planning Association, a non-profit, non-political organization established in 1934, is made up of agricultural, business, labor and professional leaders. David J. Winton, chairman of the board of a Minneapolis lumber company, was chairman of the committee on manpower policy.

'The Thin Generation.'

In the 64-page report, the committee emphasized that the acuteness of the manpower problem created by the shortage of young adults which will continue through the 1950s.

"These are the years when the thin generation, the small number of children born in the depths of the depression, is coming of age. These young people must fill the draft calls for armed forces which are increasingly accepted as a permanent part of American life. They must get the training necessary to forward the affairs of a highly dynamic economy. And their output, over the next years, must provide for a society in which the numbers of oldsters who are beyond the present age of retirement and the number of youngsters who have not yet reached their productive period both place on the shoulders of the group of working age a burden heavier than their predecessors bore."

In the 1960s, the report said,

Eisenhower at Last Is Opening Hostilities Against McCarthy

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON.

THE fall of Lavrenty P. Beria may shake the world; but American domestic politics are rather more likely to be shaken by a quite different event. President Eisenhower has at last opened hositilities against Senator Joseph R. McCarthy.

The decisive engagement will be the case of William Bundy, the able official of the Central Intelligence Agency who is McCarthy's newest target. The President shows every sign of the firmest purpose to oppose McCarthy on Bundy, even refusing to permit Bundy to respond to McCarthy's subpena.

If Eisenhower does not surrender in this Bundy case, McCarthy will have a hard choice. He will have to choose between accepting public defeat, or unmasking his real purposes of publicly attacking the President himself. This can be, and may well be, the final turning point.

Opening of Hostilities.

The real opening of hostilities, however, was the President's incisive statement denouncing the slander of the Protestant clergy by McCarthy's pet investigator, J. B. Matthews. The real interest in this statement lies in a vital background fact. The White House actively sought the opportunity, indeed created the opportunity, to strike this hard blow at the Wisconsin Senator.

It is an old story, now, how Matthews charged that 7000 Protestant clergymen were secret agents of Moscow, and how the members of McCarthy's committee therefore protested against Matthews's appointment as head of the committee staff. But how the White House seized on the Matthews issue is not an old story.

The President's chief of staff, former Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, was the man who decided that Matthews offered the long-awaited "really good issue" on which the President could take his stand against McCarthy.

Inevitably, Adams was opposed by the President's amiable but appeasement-minded legislative liaison officer, Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons. But the President, who has followed the advice of Persons, this time decided the matter in favor of Adams. It is understood that Vice President Richard Nixon also gave his approval.

Telegram Invited.

Rather cleverly, the White House then took steps to stimulate a telegram denouncing Matthews from three leaders of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths, Monsignor John A. O'Brien, the Rev. John Sutherland Bonnell and Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath. This was to give the President a reason to speak. Before the planned answer to the invited telegram could be published, the Vice President hurriedly warned that Matthews was about to be dropped by McCarthy. The only White House reaction was to give the press the President's fine statement without further delay. In short, the intention to strike at McCarthy was abundantly clear.

Meanwhile, the desire to create a diversion drove Senator McCarthy to his attack on Bundy. Bundy, who comes of a distinguished Massachusetts Republican family, is Dean Acheson's son-in-law. As an acquaintance of Alger Hiss, he gave $400 to the Hiss defense fund, so that the wrongdoer might be fairly tried. The only crimes charged against Bundy are his marriage to one of the most beautiful women in Washington, and his adherence to the American tradition that every man has a right to a fair trial. To answer for these crimes, Bundy was subpenaed by McCarthy.

The significance of the Bundy case again lies in the background. Some time ago, McCarthy arrogantly presented Allen Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, with a list of 10 alleged "security risks," whom he "ordered" Dulles to dismiss from the CIA. Six of these men, as it turned out, were not in the CIA's employ. Of the other three, a typical representative was the almost excessively respectable Robert H. Thayer,

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

From a Minister's Daughter

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I'm laughing. I'm boiling. So "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States is composed of Protestant clergymen," according to J. B. Matthews.

I am a minister's daughter, married to a minister's son. In my lifetime I have probably absorbed acquaintance with more clergymen than have most people around. I've known all types: fat and jolly, lean ascetics, humble, pompous, saints, show-offs. I would venture only one safe generalization about Protestant clergymen as a class:

Most of them will hurry out of bed any night at the call of a stricken parent, pass up a lunch-hour to try to mend a marriage, give up normal family holidays because always some couple wants to get married on Thanksgiving or Christmas eve.

They will drive miles on a country road in a blizzard to stand by some lonely grave. They can be depended on to think of some alleviating words to say over the body of the suicide found in the city jail. (There will probably be some minister who will even say a good word over Mr. Matthews, when his time comes.)

Since ministers charge for few of these routine services, I've never known any really wealthy clergymen. And I've never, in all my life, known one who was a Communist.

Can any of these investigating "patriots" with cases of warped "Americanism" cite a tradition more American than the pioneer mother's determination that one of her sons should be dedicated "to the Lord?"

Why do we other Americans allow publicity-seekers to vilify a sacred part of our background—to slander good men who spend their lives in service to mankind?

What of the 'Burning'?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Because of President Eisenhower's Dartmouth College speech condemning the book burners, I wonder if he is aware that we have many prisoners in our federal jails today who are victims of these book burners? That is, they were tried and convicted on the "overt act" of writing a leaflet, mailing a letter, making a speech, etc.

Consequently, it seems logical that he should follow the precedent of the Presidents before him by granting amnesty to those whose only crime was that they read certain books and disseminated ideas contained therein by word of mouth.

Indeed, to my way of thinking, to condemn the burners of books and not the "burning" of those who have read and studied them by granting these very same victims amnesty veers on the side of the irrational.

JOHN R. STARKS.

Changing Directions

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Senator Symington has said of Korea: "Somebody must have made a diplomatic blunder because until a few months ago we were shooting at Communists. Now we are shooting at each other."

Or to put it succinctly: With Truman, we were helping the South Koreans round up the Communists. With Eisenhower, we are helping the Communists round up Koreans.

HELEN SULLIVAN.

He'd Like to Boycott

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The threat to Senator Symington by the America First Organization, reported in the July 7 issue of the Post-Dispatch, should be a call to action for everyone who supports the principles he stands for as opposed to Senator McCarthy, the America First Organization and every individual and organization which support them.

Economic sanctions have long been recognized as an effective and legal means of expressing the disapproval of one nation for the policies of another. Housewives have been able to express their disapproval of prices and certain foodstuffs by refraining from buying.

The funds which support the America First Organization and the campaign funds of Senator McCarthy are contributed from the merchandise and services which the public purchases. It would be appreciated if you would publish a list of the officers of the America First Organization and their business firms. I for one would like to stop purchasing any goods or services which contribute to the support of the principles for which America First and McCarthy stand.

JOHN F. PUTNEY.
Kirkwood.

Hangovers More or Less

President Eisenhower has added two members of the International Claims Commission to his list of dismissals. They were "hangovers from the old regime," to use a phrase current in Washington, where the idea seems to be to make the Administration "team" a new team as far as possible. How far is it possible?

One of the more extreme cases of avoiding contamination with previous Administrations involves Paul H. Nitze. The White House itself nominated Nitze for a high Defense Department post, but Senator Joseph McCarthy objected and the nomination was quickly withdrawn. Though Mr. Nitze is a Republican and a wealthy banker, he had served in the State Department under former Secretary Acheson and that, for McCarthy, was that.

Of course, the Republican captains have not found it possible to decontaminate their whole team of all past association with the rival party. And that is probably a good thing. When men rise above partisanship in public service, they should not be quarantined for it.

So, it is not surprising that a good many figures in the new Republican line-up learned some fundamentals of the government game during Democratic Administrations, and therefore are "hangovers" as much as Mr. Nitze.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is one. He constructed the Japanese peace treaty for ex-President Truman. His Under Secretary, Walter Bedell Smith, was Mr. Truman's Ambassador to Russia and Central Intelligence Agency director. And his Assistant Secretary, Walter S. Robertson, now on the thankless assignment of dealing with Syngman Rhee in Korea, also served abroad under Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

The Secretary of State's brother, Allen W. Dulles, was appointed deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency under President Truman and now is director. And the present Ambassador to Russia, Charles E. Bohlen, as a career diplomat played such an important role under Presidents Roosevelt and Truman that the McCarthy crowd fought his appointment.

Mutual Security Administrator Harold Stassen may or may not qualify as a "hangover," but he was appointed a delegate to the United Nations conference in San Francisco in such company that Senator McCarthy might be expected to call him an "Achesonite."

Naturally men with past experience and a sense of continuity with national policy should be found in the State and Defense Departments. In the latter, Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott worked for the War Production Board and Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens was a civilian aide to a predecessor some years ago.

Among other Cabinet members, one became nationally prominent under President Roosevelt as commander of the Women's Army Corps. Oveta Culp Hobby is Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin, as a former member of the National War Labor Board, is not only a hangover from the Democratic past—he is a Democrat.

In the independent federal agencies, the new Federal Communications Commission chairman, Rosel H. Hyde, was appointed commissioner seven years ago. And the new Atomic Energy Commission chairman, Lewis L. Strauss, was named to the original commission in 1946 by President Truman, though he later resigned.

Milton S. Eisenhower, the President's brother now representing him on a tour of South America, was in the Consular Service under President Coolidge and in the Agriculture Department under President Hoover. But he then devoted more than 10 years to agricultural and Office of War Information work under President Roosevelt, who did not banish him simply because he had worked under Republicans too.

This list is long enough to show what men of capacity the Administration would lose were there any concerted effort to clean out "hangovers" from the past. And finally, to conclude the distinguished list, there is President Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose rise to fame and service under two Democratic Presidents is historic.

That Smear in Baltimore

A swastika was smeared the other night on an eight-foot granite monument, dedicated in Baltimore, July 4, to Senator Joseph R. McCarthy by an automobile dealer who is a great admirer of the Wisconsin inquisitor. The person who drew the Nazi symbol on the monument sought to put the stamp of Hitlerism on Senator McCarthy. What the defacer did was to engage in an act of vandalism in the Nazi pattern—one which only served to build up the Wisconsin Senator. Smears on monuments do not erase another's smears on character. Facts and information, not vandalism, are needed in the expose and deflation of Joseph R. McCarthy.

Food Offer Through Moscow

The United States offer of $15,000,000 in foodstuffs for hungry East Germany was rejected by the Kremlin almost as soon as it was made. Molotov's refusal was hardly unexpected: The Kremlin has not gone "soft" enough to approve a gift which would create good will toward the United States in one of its unwilling satellites. The offer, nevertheless, was humanitarian and sagacious, especially since it was made directly to Moscow rather than to some East German dissident group. East German hunger is now clearly marked "Made in Russia."

Had the latter course been chosen, it would have given the Communists occasion for protesting that the American Government was interfering in their internal affairs, that Washington was trying to "buy" subversion and rebellion. It would have enabled the Reds to cast a doubt on the spontaneous nature of such uprisings as the recent one in East Berlin. There would be no point in giving them such a propaganda advantage, especially since the Voice of America has broadcast news of the offer, thus reaping its full political advantage.

George Kennan, former ambassador to the Soviet Union, has argued sensibly that the United States should not associate itself with any of the dissatisfied minority groups behind the Iron Curtain since these might involve us in bitter controversies which have little or nothing to do with our objective of checking totalitarian Communism. For example, some of the anti-Russian underground groups in East Germany might be most embarrassing in a reunited democratic Germany.,

There are other methods of influencing the peoples beyond the Iron Curtain, not the least of which is a continuing example of the benefits of freedom as these are reflected in our everyday life. We should not forget the troubles Moscow had after the war with troops who had seen the West—and hardly at its best.

As for the food offer, one recalls how the Soviet regime prevented its satellites from participating in the Marshall plan. But the refusal of food for East Germany is just one more item of misrule and deprivation forced on people held in subjection by tanks and machine guns. As such, it will be remembered and resented.

Concern for Senator Taft

The news from Senator Taft is that he is "progressing satisfactorily" after an abdominal operation at New York Hospital. Since this first operation was only exploratory, the Republican Majority Leader has still other surgical hurdles to clear. The hope everywhere is that the reports will steadily improve until he is able to resume his full responsibility in the Senate.

The moderating restraint of Senator Taft is just now needed on the Republican side of the aisle. He has the experience, the length of service, the prestige, the political "know how" to get things done so urgently required by the Eisenhower Administration. What is more, as the loser to Dwight D. Eisenhower in the nomination race, Senator Taft's role is to play the "good loser," and this he has done. The outburst against Secretary of Labor Durkin, the divergence on foreign aid—such are the exceptions which prove the rule of "Mr. Republican's" general co-operation with the White House.

While Senator Taft is out of the active leadership in the Senate his place is being taken by Senator Knowland. The young Republican from California does not begin to compare with Senator Taft in background, in political skill or in discipline. He is junior to Bridges of New Hampshire and only slightly outranks Bricker of Ohio, McCarthy of Wisconsin and Jenner of Indiana in seniority. The vicious attack on Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, with its flood of forged telegrams, is a foretaste of what the Eisenhower Administration can expect for its defenders and supporters from its G.O.P. enemies and detractors. Against such a trend Senator Knowland cannot hope to be the influence that Senator Taft might be.

Senator Taft has the best wishes of the country and above all he should have the most earnest concern of the man who triumphed over him at Chicago a year ago this month.

To Settle Offshore Oil—Now

If the Supreme Court can be persuaded to take original jurisdiction of the offshore oil case, that will be far preferable to going through United States district court. And there are indications from the Washington conference of one third of the nation's state attorneys general that this is one of the moves being contemplated.

The issue should be decided as expeditiously and as completely as possible. As long as final adjudication still hangs in doubt, the development of undersea oil will remain at a relative standstill. And work should be going ahead in the interest of national security. Some time the Supreme Court will have to decide this great issue. Why not now, and end the uncertainty?

More Than a Ball Club

Those Milwaukees! Any way you figure it, including full credit for the young players in the line-up, they don't rate better than fourth place or maybe only high in the second division. But here it's the middle of July and they still stick close to the top in the National League.

What's worse, they come to St. Louis and take a series from the obviously superior Cardinals, and they do it by taking a Sunday double-header. The first game they win by the downright humiliating score of 10-1, and then they relax and take the other one only 4-3 as though they were trying not to rub salt in the wound.

They've done this before; and, we hate to admit it, but we are afraid they may do it again. The trouble is that Eddie Stanky and the other National League managers are trying to cope with the Braves as if they were just a baseball team. They are not. We have it from the Mayor of Milwaukee himself that they are a sociological and psychological phenomenon—which is something you can't expect a baseball manager to know much about. It seems, according to Mayor Zeidler, that they are also an escape mechanism and an emotional release.

Milwaukeans, he says, are really worried about world conditions; they are worried about their long brewery strike, and a lot of other things which make them quite unhappy. For this, Charlie Grimm and the Braves are the cure. Milwaukee needed something really hot to restore its peace of mind, and so the Braves, a grateful crowd, oblige by being really hot.

The lesson for Stanky, Dressen, Durocher, et al, is pretty obvious: Get those people up in Milwaukee over their worries and the Braves will stop being a psychological phenomenon and all the rest. Then they will be just nine fellows in flannel uniforms as vulnerable to a knuckle ball or a curve as anybody else.

Fifty Million Pounds of What

Margarine producers are guilty of a particularly bad grace in protesting against the use of Government-held butter by the Army. They are trying to put artificial barriers in the way of a common-sense course. When the margarine producers have been the sufferers from so much of those same tactics at the hands of the butter industry, one would think they would be less inclined to arbitrary and obstructive methods.

The Government, in its Department of Agriculture, has 50 million pounds of butter which the Government, in its Army, wants to use by buying it for 15 cents a pound. Surely the margarine producers cannot want to let the butter spoil and force the Government to buy margarine instead.

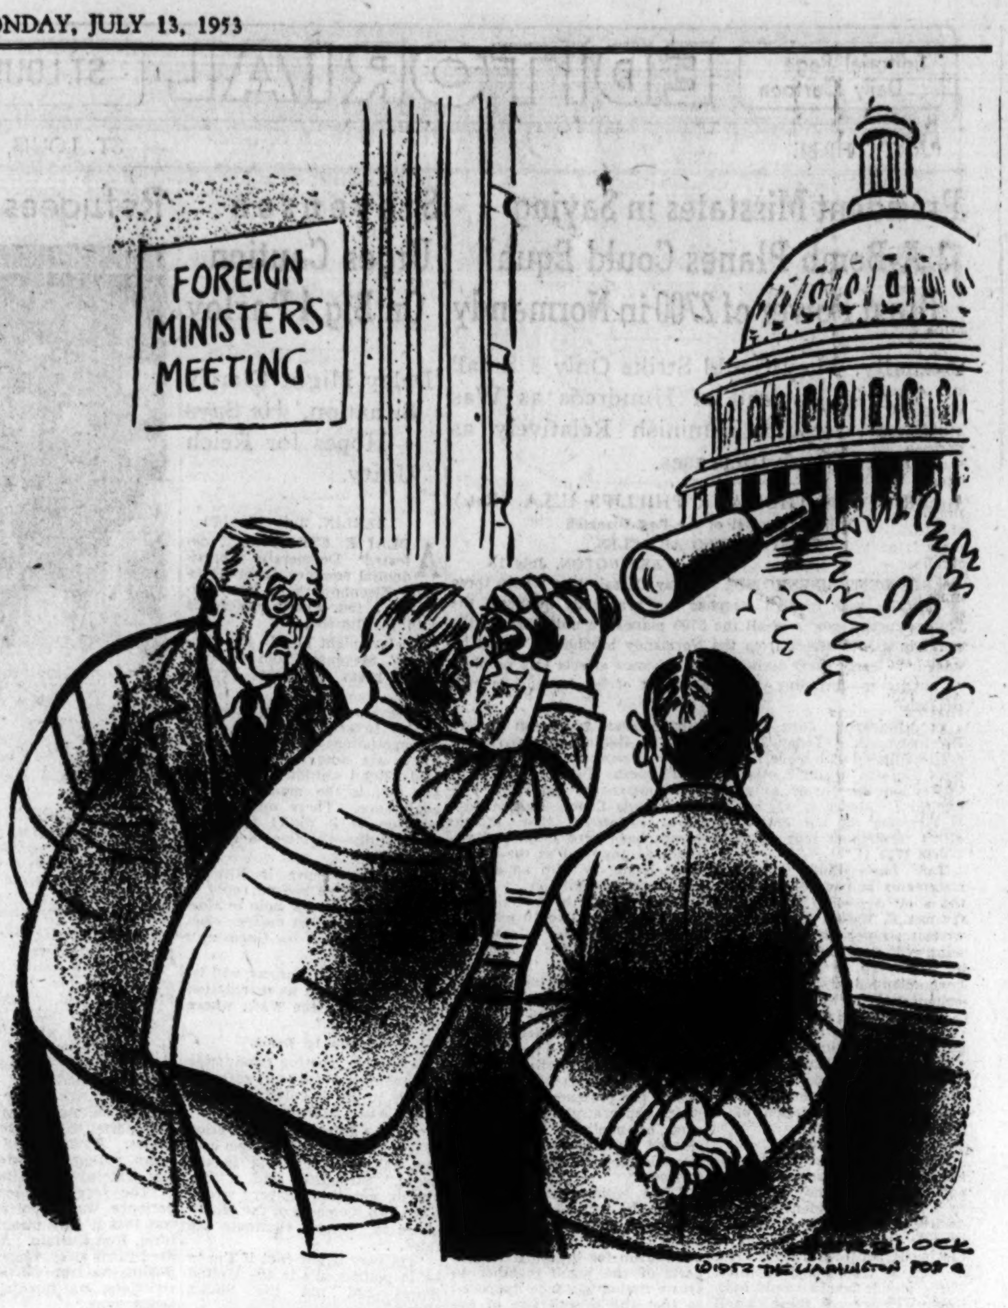
Illinois Help for Channel 9

A bill to help educational television on both sides of the Mississippi river now awaits Gov. Stratton's signature in Springfield. The measure would let Illinois school boards pay up to a dollar a pupil annually to TV stations for producing educational programs.

School boards on the Missouri side of the river have already contributed to the educational station now being built for this area on Channel 9. But though Illinois school districts were eager to participate, they found they lacked the legal power to do so. That is why Representative Miller of Belleville and Senator Gray of East St. Louis sponsored the present bill.

The St. Clair County Taxpayers' Association has asked Gov. Stratton to veto the measure to save tax money. But the measure does not increase taxes. It would only give school boards the right to say how their revenues shall be spent. And a dollar for television would produce more than a dollar for blackboards.

Gov. Stratton's signature would let Illinois communities participate with Missouri in a project for the good of both. The Mississippi is not broad enough to stop educational television.



"—AND THAT'S THE UNITED STATES SENATE, OVER THERE"
—From The Washington Post.

The Federal Budget Mystery

The Mirror of Public Opinion

"The Budget" is so confusing to understand because it doesn't exist; as many as 10 appropriation bills may be voted separately without knowing what the others appropriate or what revenues will be produced; but Congress could adopt better practices.

From Business Week

The budget of the United States is not a document you can sit down and study, the way you study the balance sheet of a corporation. In fact, it is not a document at all. It is a political process.

The nearest thing to a written, formal budget is a small, mimeographed report issued annually in late summer, usually after Congress has gone home. It summarizes in sketchy fashion what Congress has just done about appropriating money to operate the Government. Few people read it.

What is wrongly but officially labeled The Budget is a listing of spending proposals sent to Congress each January by the President. This always differs from the actual spending plan decided on later by Congress, but the lawmakers make the changes largely on the basis of these 1200 pages of dollar details.

The one all-important fact to remember about the federal budget is that it is the creation of Congress, not of the Executive Department. This keeps it from being a neat and orderly document of the kind beloved by financial vice presidents in business.

From a Blind Process

The budget emerges piecemeal from a laborious and partly blind legislative process. It consists of about 10 different appropriation bills, each of which authorizes the executive branch to go ahead and spend specific sums of money for specific purposes.

Congress now holds committee hearings, debating requests for money as received from the executive departments, and voting on appropriation bills. The budget-making process is for fiscal 1954, which begins July 1.

There's a lot of confusion in this process. That is unavoidable under the rules of Congress. For one thing, it adopts all but the last of the separate appropriation bills without knowing what the grand total is going to be. That's where some of the blindness comes in.

Doubt on Both Sides

Here's an example of what a Congressman is up against. A member of the House is called on to vote for a specific sum for the Post Office and Interior Department, say before he knows what the House Appropriations Committee is going to recommend for Defense or Agriculture.

The House Post Office and Interior bill then goes to the Senate, where a different sum is voted. Next, the House and Senate versions go to a conference committee consisting of members from both the House and Senate, where a third sum is usually decided on.

Finally, the House member is asked to approve the conference report, which he may do while he is still in the dark as to the final sums involved in other appropriation bills.

Meantime, the revenue side of the budget is also in doubt. The Appropriation Committee makes its recommendations without knowing what an entirely different committee — House Ways and Means—may do about the tax laws.

A Congressman may be approving final appropriation bills before he knows whether he is going to get a chance to vote on revenue changes, too. That's another case of budget blindness.

If Congressmen Were Frank

This method of budget making seems inefficient and fiscally irresponsible. But the power of Congress to do it this way is absolute.

Congressional control over spending is written firmly into the Constitution, in a section that states money can be spent by the executive departments only in consequence of appropriations. You have to go far back in history to find violations of this provision. The last who did it was Lincoln, during the Civil War.

Your Congressman will tell you as much—if he is a friend of yours. But if your Congressman looks on you merely as another vote that might get away, he may try to tell you that Congress has lost control of the budget. Or he may try to blame the executive department for sending up a big spending plan in the first place.

Reform an Old Topic

Just remember that Congress never accepts the spending plan suggested by the President each January. Last year it knocked huge chunks out of the Truman proposals. In times past—the Coolidge and Hoover era, for example—Congress used to add to the President's spending plan.

Congress cannot surrender its control of the purse. But it can change the present complicated method of voting appropriations.

Responsible members of Congress have talked about reform for years. One plan is to vote out a single-package appropriation bill, so members of Congress will know what the grand total of spending is going to be.

Another plan is to go back to the method used 75 years ago and tie tax measures into the appropriation side of the budget. That way, Congressmen will know whether they are creating a balanced budget or an unbalanced one.

In Imitation of the Enemy

Edward R. Murrow in The Progressive

American officials in Berlin recently released a small bit of information. A few months ago, certainly a few years ago, most of us would have regarded it as another indication of totalitarian suppression, thought control.

The information was this: libraries in the Soviet zone of Germany have been purged of all books containing what is called "pacifist tendencies which could lower readiness for defense." Among the books already purged are Remarque's "All Quiet on the Western Front" and Dos Passos's "Three Soldiers."

The Russians are doing, in their zone, what we have done in our information libraries in both occupied and allied countries. The sense of superiority in freedom which we had when the Nazis were burning books can scarcely sustain us now for we, too, have caused casualties on the shelves of libraries.

This somber parallel recalls to my mind a little known and seldom quoted statement by Adolf Hitler before he came to power. He said, in substance, that the great strength of the totalitarian state was that it could force those who feared it to imitate it. It is possible for a people to lose their freedom while preparing to defend it.

It is suggested here that we have lost a small yet important piece of ground when we can no longer view the banning of books by the Communists in Germany with either contempt or detached and superior amusement.

IDAHO HE-MEN.

From the Lewiston (Idaho) Morning Tribune.

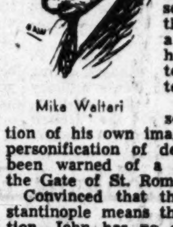
The Cross and the Crescent

THE DARK ANGEL, by Mika Waltari. (G. P. Putnam's Sons, 374 pgs., $3.75.)

In choosing the siege of Constantinople and its capture by the Turks in the fifteenth century, the author has selected a time of historical significance and a place of geographical importance. Byzantium was already old in story when Constantine the Great established the capital of his Eastern Empire on the Bosporus, a 1000-year-old empire that fell in 1453. Istanbul was to be the capital of the powerful Ottoman Empire which threatened all Western Europe for years.

John Angelos, who gives the account of the closing months of Constantinople, is a stranger to the city he calls home. The fact that he has served seven years in the Sultan's suite causes him to be treated with suspicion as a possible secret emissary. It also constitutes a safeguard. He himself says simply that his father was a Greek and that he has come back to his own place to die on the walls. Twice he has seen a dark reflection of his own image, the legendary personification of death, and he has been warned of a third meeting at the Gate of St. Romanos.



Mika Waltari

Convinced that the doom of Constantinople means the end of civilization, John has no desire to see the other times that are coming. This fatalistic determination is shaken by his love for the beautiful daughter of the Megadux. Anna, like her father, tries to persuade her lover that an alliance with the Turks is expedient and indeed preferable to being an outpost of the Latins.

Constantine has reluctantly accepted the union of the Greek Orthodox Church with the Western Church because of the material aid the Pope offers. The fighting forces of Christendom available—Genoese, Venetian and Greek—are anything but united.

Each group is proud of its own superiority and willing to serve only under its own commander. The common people shout "Better the Turkish turban than the Papal mitre," and write "Go home, Latins" on the palace walls. The unfortunate emperor, "born under an unlucky star," watches vainly for a rescuing plot.

Outside the heavily fortified walls gathers the much larger army of Islam, augmented by Christian allies and led by the menacing and colossally arrogant Mohammed. Formidable as all megalomaniacs are, he has only one answer for any obstacle in human form: "Off with his head." The scimitar is well shaped for this purpose.

Mika Waltari, a native of Finland, achieved an international reputation with "The Egyptian." "The Dark Angel" presents an impressive picture, but it lacks the somber sweep and richness of content of the earlier novel. Yet it as a best-seller.

There is this also: Egypt of 3000 years ago is a new field in fiction while the siege of Constantinople has been used before. Is the author merely amusing himself with "old unhappy far-off things" or is he painting an effective backdrop for today's drama? He points no moral to adorn his tale. Morals, in literature, are no longer in fashion, either in the singular or the plural.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Civil Defense Just Drifts Along

WASHINGTON.

FROM THE PAST the Eisenhower Administration inherited certain areas in which drift was a substitute for policy. One of the most conspicuous was in the field of continental defense and the protection of America's great productive centers now lying open to atomic attack with virtually no prior warning.

After six months the Eisenhower Administration gives no sign of ending this drift. It is a convenient head-in-the-sand attitude that ignores a peril to America's existence which is unparalleled since the War of 1812. And there is no real parallel with that earlier time, since then a great undeveloped continent lay to the West and the weapons of destruction were not total. This may be, of course, what military men call a calculated risk.

Twining

But the American people have never been told by anyone in high authority how great that risk is. The tendency has been to apply a poultice to the potential cancer.

One form the poultice takes is the Federal Civil Defense Administration. Its air raid signals and shelter signs, its bulletins and pamphlets encourage a comfortable sense that something is being done and that therefore if an atomic attack should occur it would not have the dire consequences the alarmists have been predicting.

No Warning Likely.

Actually, except for the stockpiling of some medical and other supplies which might survive an attack, the practical result of civil defense has been negligible.

In a few cities there is a CD organization with some knowledge of shelters in subways and basements where people might take shelter, if they had sufficient warning. But in the present state of the radar-fighter defense system, they would not get that warning.

Congress has steadily cut CD down to midget size since it was established in 1951. For fiscal 1952 the appropriation was $105,000,000. The following year President Truman made a big appeal for an effort to start an effective program with a request for $600,000,000. Congress cut that to $43,000,000.

Better Nothing at All.

Val Peterson, a former Governor of Nebraska, made head of CD by President Eisenhower, is asking for $125,000,000 for next year, a cut of $25,000,000 from the Truman request. Congress will grant a fraction of that amount, probably enough to keep the present show in the public eye for another year.

But this is too little and far too late. If it is to be no more than this, it might better be abolished, since the result is to produce a false belief that something is being done.

Here in this area of drift even the outline of what should be done under any realistic program is being lost sight of.

The present state of the radar warning system would give civilians virtually no notice of an atomic attack. It would provide the Defense Fighter Command with so little margin that a sizable proportion of atomic bombers would get through.

The Kelly report provides the base for a continental defense system which would allow approximately a two-hour warning. A little progress is being made in this direction but it is unconscionably slow. With the full push of the Administration behind it, such a system could be built in something more than three years. The cost would be between five and 10 billion dollars.

CD vs. Aircraft Carrier.

An honest and realistic civil defense program would have initiated long since the construction of deep dispersal centers for indispensable industrial units and installations. This would supplement an adequate continental defense system. Such a construction program should have been moving at the rate of not less than 1 billion dollars a $500,000,000 to 1 billion dollars. a year.

that such a program is in preparation. Many will say that the economy cannot afford it; that to undertake it would be to undermine the American system. Yet the defense budget includes a third giant aircraft carrier costing with its full complement of escorting craft anywhere from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

Nor are the signs of warning wanting from men with the highest qualifications of knowledge and experience. The new chief of staff of the Air Force, Gen. Nathan F. Twining, made a speech the other day in which he put some facts on the line.

Air Force Loses Men.

The Air Force is losing highly skilled men, with re-enlistment rate among veterans in some classifications as low as 15 per cent.

These are the men whose training is absolutely vital to man and service the complex weapons of defense, the radar gunsights on the F-86 Sabre jets. They are going into industry where they get higher pay and can find better living conditions. As Gen. Twining said, it is no use having first-class fighting planes if there are not enough trained men to keep them in the air.

These are shocking and shameful facts that touch directly the security of this America of ours. They are directly related, too, to the Administration's cut of 5 billion dollars in the Air Force appropriation.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO DR. R. P. C. WILSON

Head of Missouri State School for Mental Defectives Succumbs at 77.

MARSHALL, Mo., July 13 (UP)—Dr. R. P. C. Wilson, superintendent of the Missouri State School for Mental Defectives here, died yesterday. He was 77 years old. Physicians said he suffered a heart attack.

Dr. Wilson headed the school a total of 25 years in two periods of tenure. He first was named to the post in 1914. In 1949 he was reappointed.

Dr. Wilson figured in a controversy last March when a special Senate investigating committee looked into conditions at the Marshall school. The Democratic-controlled Senate ordered the investigation after a Republican-controlled House committee had charged "deplorable" conditions at the institution and called on Gov. Phil M. Donnelly to remove Dr. Wilson.

The Senate committee made no specific recommendation on whether Dr. Wilson should be retained, but concurred in the House subcommittee criticism that under his administration no attempt was being made to cure patients and return them to society.

Dr. Wilson's survivors include his wife, two daughters and four sons.

The awards will be conferred at the summer dinner meeting of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences at Los Angeles Wednesday.

PUBLIC LIBRARY CALLED STRONGHOLD OF FREEDOM

The American public library is a stronghold of freedom, Harry Edward Pratt of Springfield, Illinois state historian, said yesterday. He spoke at a meeting observing the thirtieth anniversary of the Collins-Memorial Public Library as a city institution at Collinsville.

Pratt supported the stand of the American Library Association and President Eisenhower against "book burners" and upholding the freedom to read as a basic liberty. A reception and open house followed the meetnig.

Charles H. Dorris, a charter municipal trustee of the library and senior member of its board, was honored at the meeting, sponsored by the Collinsville Women's Club. The club founded the library in 1916 with only 121 books. The library is at 408 West Main street.

BLOOD CENTER OPENS EARLY

In response to an emergency request from the Department of Defense for whole blood to be used in Korea, the Red Cross opened its air-conditioned blood center at 9 a.m. today, three hours earlier than usual.

The Defense Department gave no particular reason for the emergency nation-wide call, but Red Cross officials here assumed that it was prompted by unusually high casualties. Donors are asked to telephone FRanklin 4980 for appointments.

'RIP VAN WINKLE' TO OPEN TONIGHT

For the tenth time in its 35-year history, the Municipal Opera tonight will hold a world premiere—a new musical version of Washington Irving's story "Rip Van Winkle." Theatrical notables from across the nation are expected to be on hand.

Although designed primarily as a treat for children, this week's production about Rip and his celebrated 20-year nap is tailored to suit adults as well.

Of special interest to children will be a juvenile dancing chorus of 12 boys and 12 girls who will be featured in a dance specialty, "March of the Dwarfs."

Principals include Lawrence Brooks, baritone star of "Song of Norway" on Broadway, who will play Rip; Winifred Heidt, New York City Opera Company contralto; Edwin Steffe in his last 1953 Municipal Opera appearance; Sylvia Karlton of the original "Alegro" company; Richard Lee Scott, St. Louisan appearing in his first Municipal Opera show: tenor Earl William; animal actor Jack Riano; character actors Jay Velie and Robert Eckles and ballet stars Yvonne Chouteau and David Nillow.

Performances through next Sunday, will begin at 8:30 p.m.

FOSSILS REPORTED TO 'LINK' REPTILES AND AMPHIBIANS

GARNETT, Kan., July 13 (AP)—Fossils uncovered in a pasture near here are important "missing links" between the reptiles and amphibians of 230,000,000 to 250,000,000 years ago, scientists said yesterday.

"What we have found," said Dr. Frank E. Peabody, "represents nature's first attempt at a fast-moving vertebrate."

Dr. Peabody is assistant professor of zoology at the University of Kansas and head of the expedition. Also on the job is Dr. Raymond Hall, Kansas University museum curator.

Dr. Hall said the fossils were as important as the primitive fish found off the coast of Madagascar in the last year.

The expedition has unearthed four complete skeletons, two with skulls, of reptiles known as petrolacosaurus kansensis (Rock lake lizard). The specimens are about 20 inches long. Parts of similar skeletons have been discovered previously, but these are the first complete ones.

In accepting the appointment, which was announced by Norman J. EISENHOWERS HEAR SERMON ON LEADERS 'WHO ECHO GOD'

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—A visiting preacher told a congregation that included President Eisenhower yesterday that the world needs as leaders "men who echo God, men who mirror His good will."

Caesar, Mussolini and Hitler built empires, said Dr. Louis H. Evans, but when they fell their empires fell with them.

"I believe we are coming back to Christ by a process of elimination," he said. Nobody else seems to work. And nobody else ever will."

35,000 IN NEW YORK GET ANTI-POLIO SHOTS

Experimental use of gamma globulin, a blood derivative, moves next to Hickory, N. C., where a mass inoculation of 14,000 children is planned later this week.

The fourth death in two North Carolina counties, with 151 cases reported, spurred an effort to set the date for the injections up from Thursday to Wednesday. The question is whether supplies of the scarce serum can arrive there in time.

Meanwhile, at Montgomery, Ala., where gamma globulin apparently stopped a threatened epidemic, mass tests were planned to find out more about the effects of gamma globulin injections.

Public health workeres said they wanted 2000 child volunteers—1000 who got the injections and 1000 who did not—to give blood samples for the tests.

The aim is to see if gamma globulin interferes with the body's normal ability to manufacture anti-bodies to give resistance to polio.

The record-breaking inoculation of 34,901 children at Elmira started Saturday and was completed late yesterday two days ahead of schedule.

Fight to End Public Lands Steal

WASHINGTON.

AS WHEN MAN BITES DOG, so it is a story around here these days when somebody tries to do something to strengthen our laws to conserve our natural resources. That is unique, indeed; for the trend has been the other way, that is, to try to weaken our conservations laws and policy.

So it's in order to commend a couple of legislators, a Republican in the House, Representative Clifford R. Hope of Kansas, and a Democrat in the Senate, Senator Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, who are in the role of man biting dog. That is, they are trying to protect our national forests from a racket that has been going on a very long time. Since 1872, in fact, and the 1872 mining act.

Anderson.

Under the loose terms of that law, it is possible for anybody to get hold of 20 acres in our western national forests — or even much more—by filing a "mining" claim at the county courthouse and paying a recorder's fee of $1.25. Eastern national forests are not affected.

It is so possible that right now there are some 84,000 such claims staked out in our Western national forests, embracing about 2,000,000 acres, of which less than three per cent actually are producing minerals.

Federal Agencies Not Told.

Some folks have put up fishing and hunting lodges on their "claims," some summer homes, while some have used them as grazing lands for cattle. It is possible to get more than 20 acres by creating an "association" and listing up to eight names, which entitles the "association" to 160 acres.

The Government is frustrated to act, for neither the Forest Service, nor any other agency, is notified of the claims. To get fake "mining" claimants off, the Government must prove that there are not enough minerals "to warrant a prudent man in expending his time and money in the development thereof."

Timber Worth Thousands.

The "settler" can just hold onto his claim indefinitely by an affidavit every year that he has done $100 of "assessment work." If he wants to sell the timber, then he must get a "patent" for his claim to give him clear title. That costs around $1100—a required "development" of $500, a survey costing $500, and certain fees.

Then he can sell the timber, which could bring many, many thousands of dollars. All sorts of ruses have been used for "development" of claims, such as taking out a bite or two with a bulldozer, for instance.

Of land in the "patented" category, there is a total of 215,688 acres in our Western national forests that has thus passed into private ownership. On less than 15 per cent of this have mines been operated successfully as commercial enterprises.

This checkerboard of "claims" and "patents" impedes conservation procedures. It damages the land and causes erosion in some cases. In some places there has been unsound cutting of timber and overgrazing. It interferes with management of timber resources by the United States Forest Service, including the harvesting of over-mature timber.

Against Fraudulent Claims.

Though the remedial bills by Representative Hope and Senator Anderson differ in some respects, their objective is to separate surface rights from mineral rights, so that the Government retains control over surface rights necessary for conservation.

Both have provisions to weed out existing worthless or fraudulent claims and for safeguarding the public interest in future claims by proper registry.

Mining interests have successfully prevented any revision of the ancient 1872 mining act and they are now fighting the Hope and Anderson bills. However, their spokesman, Raymond B. Holbrook of Salt Lake City, appearing on behalf of the American Mining Congress, did not seem to impress Representative Hope and other members of the House Agriculture Committee, of which Mr. Hope is chairman, when he testified against the Hope measure in current public hearings.

What Mine Lobbyist Wants.

Chairman Hope assured him that the committee would protect the interest of legitimate mining interests and prospectors; but felt that the time had come to bring the 1872 law up to date to meet modern conditions and to eliminate abuses.

Mr. Holbrook said mining interests would accept a bill by Representative Wesley A. D'Ewart (Rep.), Montana, chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, which, incidentally, was rushed through that committee recently and now is on the House calendar. Chairman Hope described the D'Ewart bill as inadequate and unsatisfactory, saying it did little more than reenact existing law and failed to correct abuses under that law.

It may be recalled that Representative D'Ewart is sponsor of a measure to establish vested rights in grazing lands in national forests and public lands. That measure aroused such a protest from conservationists in the West that no action has been taken on it.

DEFENSE STOCKS MARKED DOWN IN LIGHT TRADE

Aircrafts, Motors and Rails Lead With Steels, Oils, Chemicals Following.

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—The stock market slid lower today with defense stocks out in front of the decline.

Toward the close the market recovered a bit of its extreme loss, but at the final bell it again sank to around the low of the day.

Heightened prospects for a Korean truce brought a markdown in many issues that have taken a prominent role in the defense program.

Declines ran to around 2 points at the outside with the great bulk of the losses small. A few issues stood against the decline and some major divisions as a group were steady.

The United Press said stocks today suffered their most severe decline since June 9. The leading averages (Dow-Jones) slipped back to new lows since June 30. Rails made the widest percentage decline. The disconcerting part of this decline, as the analysts saw it, was the selling in many top-ranking issues in the industrial and railroad departments.

Volume built up to 1,120,000 shares compared with 860,000 last Friday.

Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed down 1.2 at 107.3, representing loss of approximately 1.2 billion dollars in stock market values. The industrial stock index lost 1.4 points, rail index 1.5 points and utilities .3 of a point.

The market broadened to 1135 issues compared with 1039 last Friday. There were 719 losses, 178 games, 238 unchanged. There were 65 new 1953 lows and 7 new highs.

The stock market was lower right in the beginning with trading subdued. Aircrafts were the first to be marked down on a handful of sales. Then the motors joined the parade to lower levels followed by the railroads and such divisions as oils, chemicals, steels, and some coppers and chemicals.

The air lines, distillers, and utilities together with many radio-television issues, farm implements and mail order houses held out against the decline.

Prospects of a truce in Korea have been discounted repeatedly by the stock market for the past three years. The most recent shakeout came last month as likelihood of a truce grew suddenly strong. Many have taken the position that emotional selling might grow out of an actual truce agreement. As a consequence, cautious selling has become the order of the day each time the truce flag is hoisted a notch higher.

Big Crop Forecasts and Hedging Drop Grain List

CHICAGO, July 13 (AP)—Wheat held up quite well while other cereals were marked down several cents on the Board of Trade today. Everything dropped in early trading as commission houses had large numbers of selling orders on hand, brought out partly by last Friday's Government crop report. Heavy receipts of cash wheat and cash corn also depressed prices. Around mid-way in the session wheat started to make a little upward progress, helped by short-covering. Other cereals did not show similar recuperative power. July soybeans were particularly weak.

Cash wheat receipts were by far the heaviest of the season to date, totaling 1010 cars. As the weather was mostly clear in the Midwest wheat producing area over the weekend, many grain men were expecting this week's movement to terminals to be the heaviest of the year.

U.S. BOND PRICES RISE

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Selected railroad issues lost ground today in a thoroughly mixed bond market. They were lower by major fractions to more than a point toward the final hour.

Government bonds were moderately active over the counter and mostly unchanged, except for the Treasury's 30-year 3¼s which were bid 2-32 higher by some traders at 100 at one time. The 3¼s, which began trading April 15, have not closed at par or better on the bid side since April 24, when they were still being traded on a "when issued" basis. Subsequently they fell to 99 26-32 and have remained below par ever since.

Foreign liens were mixed and quiet.

Of interest to the investment banking fraternity was the news that the Federal Housing Administration has boosted interest rates on its debentures.

The new rate for 10-year debentures is 2.75 per cent, while the rate for longer-term debentures has been raised from 2.75 to 3 per cent. The higher rates apply to mortgages insured by FHA on and after July 8.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

DULLES EXPLAINS U.S. VIEWS ON JAP SECURITY FORCE

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the United States has been "thinking" of an "ultimate" Japanese security force of about 350,000 men or the equivalent of about 10 divisions with supporting troops.

Dulles said in a statement that all decisions with respect to security troops "will of course be made by the Japanese Government and people through their governmental process."

He pledged that "once decisions are made the United States will be ready to help equip those forces."

Dulles said his testimony of July 9 before the Senate Appropriations Committee was misinterpreted. Other officials said Dulles wanted to make clear the idea of a 350,000 man, 10-division force was only tentative and was long-range. As to how many years might be required to expand present Japanese forces to this total was left up to the Japanese.

Officials said that other Pacific countries have been informed of this ultimate goal and have raised no objection.

ALSOP: PRESIDENT AT LAST BEGINS M'CARTHY FIGHT

son-in-law of former Representative Ruth B. Pratt of New York. Dulles ignored McCarthy's order and went to Eisenhower.

Pledges Support to Dulles.

Dulles told Eisenhower that no intelligence agency could possibly continue to operate effectively if its employes were subject to congressional inquisition. He pointed out the impossibility of maintaining secrecy, of keeping "cover," of doing the intelligence job. He said that he would have to resign if the President could not protect the CIA from such investigators as McCarthy. Eisenhower then promised to support Dulles to the limit.

McCarthy was warned that the President had taken this position. Hence his attempt to subpena Bundy was — and is — a frank and open challenge to the President. The matter was taken up in the National Security Council on Thursday. The decision was unanimously taken to order Bundy not to respond to the subpena, under the doctrine of the separate powers of the legislative and executive branches.

McCarthy began his public attack on Bundy before Vice President Nixon could inform him of the Security Council's decision — which might have made him draw back. He has since tried, without result, to blackguard and bully Allen Dulles into submission. The faint hearts in the White House are as usual urging "compromise" — in this case, the transfer of Bundy to a less sensitive job, which McCarthy would of course claim as a complete victory.

Yet it is hard to believe that the President will again appease the Wisconsin Senator. Even in the case of Paul H. Nitze, whose Defense Department appointment McCarthy was allowed to veto, the President's approval of the veto seems to have been obtained without a full explanation of the facts. At any rate, the President himself has now moved to offer Nitze another appointment, also in the CIA.

In short, the real Eisenhower, the man of courage and high principle, who does not appease and will not yield to blackmail, at last seems to be taking charge. If this happens, it will be a very sad day for the junior Senator from Wisconsin.

DROUTH RELIEF MEASURES SENT TO EISENHOWER

Loans, Special Emergency Aid to Farmers in 'Disaster Areas' Are Authorized

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP) —Both the Senate and House today passed and sent to President Eisenhower legislation setting up a multi-million dollar relief program for drouth-stricken areas.

The legislation authorizes loans to farmers in regions declared to be "disaster areas," and permits special livestock loans above the $2500 limit the Farmers Home Administration now is authorized to make.

It also provides for special emergency assistance in furnishing feed and seed to the affected farmers and livestock growers, financed through a revolving fund of the Agriculture Department.

It contains major provisions of separate bills passed previously by both branches of Congress, but follows mainly the original House measure.

Scattered Rains Fall to Break Texas Drouth.

DALLAS, Tex., July 13 (AP) —Rains soaked crops and pastures in parts of Texas yesterday and more were forecast today, but they were not widespread enough to break the worst drouth in the state's history.

Good rains fell in scattered sectors of central and northeast Texas and in the El Paso area. There were also a few showers —mostly teasers—in the west Texas drouth area.

The United States Department of Agriculture has reported range grass in its worst condition in history — worse, even, than the "dust bowl" days of 1934.

U.S. Advised to Use Wisely Its Thin Pool of Manpower

the high birthrates of the 1940s again will give the country a rapidly rising number of young adults. Plans that will provide them with adequate training during their formative years and permit full use of their capacities must be included in any currently wise manpower policy.

Training in Russia.

The need for trained persons was highlighted in the committee report by its comparison with Russian attitudes on manpower.

Russia, placing major emphasis on training of technological personnel, is graduating 30,000 engineers a year from a five-year curriculum of six-day weeks and 10-month years, compared with an American output of 23,000 from a four-year course, the report said.

The number of Russian higher educational institutions of all sorts has risen in the last 20 years from about 150 to about 900, the student population from around 200,000 to 900,000 and annual graduates from 50,000 to 200,000 the committee said. While American college graduates total about 280,000 annually, the number who use their education professionally amount to about 180,000 to 190,000.

"Man for man, in terms of training and equipment, Russia is still behind the United States, but the gap between the positions of the two countries is closing," the committee said.

While the committee report "provides no answers," it poses a number of questions on manpower policy "which will require intensive study and action" by the American citizens.

Military Deferments.

One question raised by the committee, that of draft deferment rules, was touched on last week by President Eisenhower when he eliminated fatherhood as a basis for draft deferment after Aug. 25.

The committee reported the military manpower pool from which draftees are drawn is "growing shallower."

In its order the White House pointed up this problem by noting that many younger registrants have been called up for duty earlier than they would normally have been called to fill monthly draft quotas. It has also resulted in the calling back to duty of older reservists who otherwise would not have been summoned.

Also considered, was the problem of whether student and occupational deferments should be continued.

The committee's survey of needs for highly trained manpower showed that a "serious loss of quality is still occurring in substantial numbers of the very able who do not get to college."

"The cost of educating them would certainly be small compared to potential returns," the report noted. "This country is not rich enough in high-potential persons to warrant carelessness in their use."

Recognizing that college graduate training is only part of the training needed to staff a changing technology, the committee pointed out that only 300,000 industrial apprentices are now enrolled against a forecast of more than double that number required to meet expanded needs.

Recall of Reservists.

Another problem of manpower policy the committee raised questions on was the recall of military reservists.

"Should policy regarding the military reserve be reconsidered in light of the fact the same people who have had military experience in the past are the people who have industrial and agricultural skill in the present?" the report asked.

In a few years, the committee pointed out, practically all of the male part of the labor force in the prime of its productive life will be, or will recently have been in the reserves. Yet in modern war, economic potential is the long-run decisive factor.

Still another manpower policy problem brought out was the "under employment" of existing capacities and skills.

"Under employment, the use of men and women at barely productive work, for short periods, or at levels of skill below those at which they are capable of working, is no less wasteful for being less conspicuous than complete unemployment," the report said.

Terming under employment a matter of considerable dimensions in the United States, the committee asked, "Should campaigns be actively advanced for more complete and full use of existing capacities and skills of the physically handicapped, women, racial and national minorities and other persons?"

Also, it asked, should projects be started to raise the level of educational opportunity in areas where the smallest percentage of young persons now go on to higher education?

In this respect the report noted that in World War II, 700,000 men, the equivalent of 40 divisions, who were otherwise fit for military service, were rejected because they did not have enough education to read written orders, signs and instructional material.

Civilian Reserves.

A final question raised by the committee was, should a civilian reserve be established as a core of governmental competence ready for the call of a new emergency?

As the country becomes more aware of specific manpower requirements, rosters are being made of scientists and engineers, of public health personnel for emergency uses, and of military reserves, the committee reported.

Establishment of a civilian reserve, with periodic active service for which men would be released by their organizations on the same basis as for active military duty, would keep reserve Government executives in training and in touch.

If Government programs, whether in peace or war, were to be rapidly expanded, experienced personnel would then be known and available in many fields, the committee said.

SHOW CAUSE ORDER ISSUED AGAINST TEAMSTERS LOCAL

Local 688 of the AFL Teamsters' Union today was ordered to show cause why it should not be enjoined from interfering with the operation of the James R. Kearny Corp., manufacturer of electrical equipment, at 4236 Clayton avenue. The order is returnable July 21.

At the same time, Circuit Judge William B. Flynn issued a restraining order against the union forbidding assault and threats to the firm's employes, as well as barring trespassing on company property, blocking driveways or interfering with deliveries by violence.

A spokesman for the company said Local 688 and the AFL Brotherhood of Electrical Workers both are trying to organize the firm's 240 employes, who have had their own independent union.

FORMER CONVICT IS KILLED IN ATTEMPTING ROBBERY

Joseph Scott, a former convict, died today after he was shot in the abdomen by John Holmes, a watchman, in an attempted holdup at a filling station at 3325 Chouteau avenue, police reported.

Scott, police said, struck Roy Sevier, the filling station attendant, on the head with a pistol before Holmes, who was in the station, fired at him. Scott fled after the shooting but was found by police in his automobile nearby.

Scott, who is in Homer G. Phillips Hospital in serious condition, gave an address in the 2900 block of Lawton boulevard. Holmes lives at 3504 Lawton. Both are Negroes.

IN MEMORIAM 16

BERNING, HENRY G.; in loving memory of my dear husband, who passed on July 24, 1940.
Blessed peace and eternal rest be thine;
Loving and cherished memories are mine.
Deeply missed by WIFE.

LILIE, ANNA; in loving memory, who passed away one year ago July 13, 1952.
"There is nobody like Anna,"
We always used to say.
Her hands were made of kindness;
She had a loving way
Of serving the unfortunate
And soothing paths of woe.
The candle of her thoughtful deeds
Burns with a pleasant glow.

"There is nobody like Anna,"
We often said when she
Would turn away from her pursuits
And serve unselfishly.
Her eyes were fixed on heaven,
But her sweet actions flowered
In a sad world in which distress
And gloom were often showered.

"There is nobody like Anna,"
We know since she has gone;
Her presence was the silver light
That heralded our dawn.
We leaned on her when sorrow
Made her our only staff;
"There is nobody like Anna,"
That is her epitaph.
Sadly missed by her DAUGHTER, SON-IN-LAW and GRANDSON of Detroit, Michigan.

WHITE CROSS Sending Out FREE Information in Nation-Wide Drive

Are You Protected Against Doctor and Hospital Bills

...as completely and at such low cost as the 5 million people now under the WHITE CROSS PLAN?

INDIVIDUALS AND FAMILIES ARE ELIGIBLE—NO PHYSICAL EXAMINATION REQUIRED
COMPARE THIS PLAN WITH ANY OTHER PLAN IN EXISTENCE

THIS happens every day. A family is getting along fine . . . making ends meet, planning for the future. Then suddenly, an unexpected sickness or accident brings a pile of doctor and hospital bills. Savings that took years to build up are wiped out in weeks. The family is forced to borrow so heavily it will take them quite some time before they can start saving for the future again.

Don't let this tragedy happen to you. Under WHITE CROSS, the famous low-cost plan, you can protect your whole family against doctor and hospital bills for just a few pennies a day!

No wonder over 5 MILLION PEOPLE have turned to WHITE CROSS—making it the fastest-growing health protection plan in existence. Last year alone, Bankers Life & Casualty Company paid out $33 MILLION to its policy holders.

Compare WHITE CROSS point by point with any other plan you have ever heard of. You can get the complete plan or any part of it. (See list below). Then rush coupon at bottom of page for fuller details on cash benefits and WHITE CROSS' low rates for individuals and family groups.

OPERATIONS

Under the WHITE CROSS PLAN, you can get $5.00 to $250.00 for operations . . . for each member of your family . . . for each different sickness or accident.

It is impossible here to list all the operations which the Plan covers. Virtually every known form of surgery is listed . . . from stitching a simple wound (at the doctor's office or in your home) to the most complicated forms of brain surgery. And to allow for unique or new operations, it is provided as follows, "For any operation not specified, the Company will pay the fee provided for any operation of comparable gravity and severity." You see, the widest possible protection at low cost is always the aim under the WHITE CROSS PLAN.

Just a Few of the Operations for Which Payment is Provided Under The Plan

Cutting into abdomen for diagnosis or treatment
Abscess of the brain
Amputations of legs, arms or fingers
Appendix, removal of Brain tumor
Breast removal or removal of cyst or tumor on breast
Kidney removal
Removal of stone or tumor from kidney or urinary tract
Prostate operation
Removal of tube or ovary
Goitre operations
Lung removal
Cutting into chest for diagnosis or treatment
Tumors (cancerous and benign) — removal of Varicose Veins, treatment by cutting or injection
Operations to reduce dislocations of hip, knee, shoulder, jaw, finger, etc.
Removal of shoulder or hip joint or removal of diseased portion of the bone
Mastoid operations
Tonsil removal
Adenoid removal
Sinus operations
Hernia, single or double
Hemorrhoids (Piles)—cutting operation for radical cure
Eye operations for removal of cataracts, etc.
Fractures, simple or compound, to legs, arms, wrist, finger, nose, skull, etc.
Gall Bladder operation
Spine operations
Circumcision
Removal of Uterus
. . . and many more

HOSPITAL ROOM & MEALS

up to $1,500.00 for each different sickness or accident

Under the WHITE CROSS PLAN, you can get from $4 to $15 per day for 100 days for hospital room and meals each time someone in your family goes to the hospital. This is not a yearly allowance but rather the amount which is allowed for each different sickness or accident to each different member of your family. Needless to say, in case of a family accident this could add up to a very large sum . . . a sum which no ordinary family could pay out of its own savings.

And, remember, one person in every 2 families will need hospital care this year.

X-RAYS, DRUGS, CARDIOGRAMS

Hospital benefits do not stop at mere room and meals. Under this famous low-cost plan, you can also get cash for many other hospital expenses for which you might not expect to be covered. You can get paid for operating room charges, anesthetics, X-rays, drugs, dressings. And you are even given an allowance for electrocardiograms for heart examinations as provided in policy.

FIRST AID & OTHER OUT-PATIENT BENEFITS

Under the WHITE CROSS PLAN, you DON'T have to be a bed patient or stay overnight to receive hospitalization benefits. X-rays and laboratory tests as well as medical treatment and operations are all covered, even though you do not remain in the hospital that night. Furthermore, Bankers Life & Casualty Company will pay the cost of emergency treatment (as specified) for any accidents even though no hospital residence is established.

CHILDREN'S AILMENTS

Under the WHITE CROSS PLAN, it is easy to include children in the family's original plan and also to add children as they are born. It is very wise to do this. The cost is very little. And the benefits can be very great. Children need medical care so often for childhood diseases, tonsil and adenoid operations, and what-not. Hospital room and meals cost just as much for a child as for an adult, you know. So do X-rays, laboratory tests, and such things. Yet, these are all covered under the WHITE CROSS PLAN.

AMBULANCE, BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS

If you have had to pay a hospital bill recently, you know that there are many items you did not anticipate . . . items that run up a hospital bill. Under the WHITE CROSS PLAN, every effort is made to cover these items. Not only is there money allowed for ambulance service, iron lung, blood transfusions, oxygen . . . but there is even a cash allowance up to $25 for "any other necessary hospital expense."

POLIO

With new treatment, many patients can look forward to recovery with no crippling after-effects. You can also get WHITE CROSS protection that provides money for this modern treatment, use of iron lung, etc.

DOCTOR VISITS—

even for ordinary sickness

Under the WHITE CROSS PLAN, you get up to $150.00 (depending on the number of doctor visits) for each member of your family and for each different sickness or accident, where the doctor treats you, at your home, his office—or the hospital.

CHILDBIRTH BENEFITS

Under the WHITE CROSS PLAN, you can get (after you have been a member for 9 months) hospital expenses up to 10 times your daily hospital rate for childbirth or any complication of pregnancy.

Leg Crushed—Gets $680.00

"Little did I realize when I took out your Hospital Expense protection . . . that just a little over a month later I would be in an accident . . . My right leg was crushed between two mine cars. Your company to date paid me a total of $680.00 on my claim."—
Peter Zulick, St. Clair, Pa.

FEMALE DISORDERS

WHITE CROSS protection is wide and varied. Under the WHITE CROSS PLAN, you can get cash paid direct to you for treatment of female disorders or urinary ailments (after six months), varicose veins, and other quite common treatments that can run up sizeable doctor bills.

MONEY TO LIVE ON

when you're laid up and can't work

Perhaps you've said this to yourself: "I wish I could be sure of a certain amount of money each month even when I'm laid up and unable to work." This is well worth thinking about. For, after all, at such times even though your earnings do not continue—you still have to meet payments for rent, food, clothing, gas and electricity, time payments on the car, and so on. Very often these bills become a mental burden to the person who is laid up and it makes it hard for him to concentrate on getting well.

WHITE CROSS saves you this worry

Under the WHITE CROSS PLAN, you can get up to $300.00 a month while in the hospital and up to $200.00 a month while you're at home getting well. In cases of extended illness or serious injury, this money often spells the difference between a family saved and a family deep in debt.

Falls on Ice—Collects $620.00

"This will acknowledge the $620.00 recently paid me by your company. I was in the hospital for several weeks due to my having been injured by a fall on the ice. I must say that this $620.00 helped me an awful lot in my time of need."
Gertrude L. Becker, Springfield, Ill.

PROTECTS YOUR WHOLE FAMILY FOR A FEW PENNIES A DAY

Under the WHITE CROSS PLAN — the low-cost plan — you can protect your whole family against doctor and hospital bills for just a few pennies a day. That's for everyone—the children and all.

Although low in cost, the WHITE CROSS PLAN represents good cash benefits and good service. Claims are paid quickly and without any attempt to quibble or "whittle down." This low-cost, quick-pay policy has helped make it the fastest-growing health-protection plan in the entire world.

You May Choose Any Doctor or Hospital

You enjoy the utmost freedom under the WHITE CROSS PLAN. You are not limited to a few doctors or hospitals. Any accredited physician may treat you and you may use any hospital, large or small, and receive full benefits under the plan.

NO RED TAPE

- Money is paid to your hospital, your doctor, or you — as you direct.
- You don't have to join a group or go through red tape.
- No pro-rating—you get the full amount even if claim is covered by Workmen's Compensation or other insurance.
- You don't have to be a bed-patient to collect hospital benefits.
- You can get as little or as much protection as you want.

Collects Three Times In Few Months

"Recently, a pulley snapped, struck my leg, put me in the hospital for a solid month. Your company paid me $465.50. A few months before you paid me $42.00 for a minor illness of my son and $111.00 benefits for a short illness of my wife. We wouldn't be without the White Cross Plan."
Willard G. Wells, Boulder, Colo.

Gets Quick Payment of $835.00

"I wish to extend my sincere thanks to your company for the checks totaling $835.50. It was certainly a quick reply to the claims I sent you. May your company continue to help people in their time of need!"
Junior Day, Forest Lake, Minn.

'My Little Margie' Using Same Old Plot

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, July 13.

CHARLES FARRELL is the Mayor of Palm Springs, Calif., the proprietor of the Racquet Club in that posh oasis, a tennis player of remarkable agility considering his years, a very good host, and a very nice guy. That should be honor enough for one man. But Farrell, refusing to rest on his oars, had to go branching out into television and right there, he and I part company.

JOHN CROSBY

"My Little Margie," in which Farrell is one of the principal malefactors, started out last year as a summer replacement for "I Love Lucy" and, even in that minor league, it was pretty bad. We were all comforted by the reflection that, come the fall, it would disappear.

It didn't, though. The darned thing was unaccountably popular, stayed on through the winter and, bless my soul, if it isn't still in business. The other day I turned it on to see what changes, if any, have been made. There haven't been any.

A YEAR AGO, I WROTE: "Papa plays the part of an aging wolf who sells his line of goods by taking out the lady buyers." Well, when I tuned in a year later, there was Farrell kissing an elderly woman on the hand and making eyes at her in order to land her account. This amatory business venture was, as usual, frustrated by his daughter (Gale Storm) whose own love life is excessively complicated by a young man who can't seem to hang on to a job. It all sounded like the same plot I'd heard two or three times last year.

Farrell has as a boss an apoplectic, elderly guy who leers at all the girls Farrell has to make passes at and, at least once in every show, shouts "You're fired" at Farrell. It's all very frantic, old-fashioned farce and desperately unfunny, at least to me. Of course, "My Little Margie" is not the only unfunny comedy around but it's the only one I know that runs the same unfunny plot over and over again.

SPEAKING OF the same old plots, there are quite a few of the better ones turning up in revivals, which is all right with me. Footlights Theater, for example, came up with a splendid revival of "Life, Liberty and Orrin Dooley" starring Will Rogers Jr., who looks more and more like his father every day. This is a sentimental, tenderly written story about a brash, unlettered young farmer in love with a schoolteacher.

She won't look at him until he gets a little learning into him so he goes to her school, starting in the fifth grade and progressing triumphantly to the eighth. It was full of fresh, sparkling touches of humor and considerably enlivened by Roger's homespun speeches. The same play was seen before on Lux with Jackie Cooper as Orrin Dooley. For my money they can do it a few more times. Good half hour dramas are pretty scarce and when a good one comes along, it ought to be done more than once.

ANOTHER EXCELLENT REVIVAL was that of "The Officer and the Lady" on Four Star Playhouse with Charles Boyer. I first heard Boyer doing this on his radio show a couple of years ago. And he's done it before on television. He's making almost a career of it. "The Officer and the Lady" is a charming story about a Parisian (Boyer) who lives by his wits. He impersonates the officer father of a dying boy who has never seen his father. That's about all there is to it except that Boyer carries it off with a high Gallic charm and grace that probably no one else could match. I imagine this isn't the last we've seen of this one either.

Playing Cards

By Christopher Billopp

PLAYING CARDS are received as Christmas and birthday presents. They are won as prizes at card parties. On rare occasions they are brought out of a clear sky.

Playing cards wear out. After an evening or so of use they lose their sheen. Their edges get ragged. They stick together. They do not shuffle well. Even with the best treatment they cannot be expected to last forever.

In the average household playing cards, however, do not get the best treatment. They will be brought out on rainy days for the amusement of the children when the children are alone.

While the children play with the cards they will eat chocolate fudge, or taffy, or buns or other things that are sticky.

Individual playing cards are misplaced. An ace or a king or a jack or a two-spot will disappear under a divan. It will be seen no more until, weeks later, some industrious cleaner moves the divan and discovers the card.

Considering ordinary wear and tear, to say nothing of occasional disasters, is it any wonder that when guests appear and cards are needed those that are produced bring a blush to the cheeks of the owners and an apology for the fact that there isn't a single decent pack in the house.

EXCURSION BOAT AGROUND

Passengers on the around-Manhattan excursion craft Gotham get an unscheduled thrill as the boat is grounded near the junction of the Harlem and Hudson rivers in the course of its sightseeing run yesterday. William Richard said he ran it into the shore to avoid ramming the New York Central Railroad drawbridge which failed to open as the boat approached.

Powerful Weapon
By Glen R. Shepherd, M.D.

SURGEONS have a new chemical weapon against wounds that won't heal and against blood clots plugging vital arteries in the body. Although not yet completely proved, the results so far indicate this treatment will shorten illnesses involving infected wounds and clots.

The newly purified chemical is trypsin, an enzyme. Enzymes speed up natural chemical reactions in the body. Trypsin's effect involves digesting dead protein, such as in a blood clot.

Trypsin normally is made in the pancreas and released into the intestine for digestion of food. When extracted from animal pancreas and purified, this becomes a powder which keeps well at room temperatures.

For use, this powder is either dusted on the wound or made into a solution for irrigating the wound or for injecting into a vein.

IN A WOUND, it actually digests or dissolves dead tissue that is preventing normal healing. Trypsin completely removes every particle of scab and other dead tissue without hurting any of the healthy live skin or muscle.

Wounds won't heal around a foreign body or dead tissue. Instead, they become infected. Unless all the dead tissue is removed from a wound and the infection stopped, the natural healing processes are delayed or stopped.

The treatment of such wounds has been surgical attempts to cut out the irritating dead tissue and hope that the infection could be controlled enough for the wound to scar in. But no surgeon can get every bit of the dead material out of a wound, especially when it is oozing pus from infection.

The trypsin can do a complete clean-up job of such wounds.

For instance, bedsores, varicose ulcers of the leg, abscesses and carbuncles as well as infected ulcers deeper in the body usually respond to the trypsin treatment, plus necessary surgery.

ANOTHER AND EVEN MORE dramatic use for trypsin in its action on blood clots deep in the body. For instance, a clot may plug up the blood vessel of the retina, causing blindness. Small amounts of trypsin injected into the bloodstream daily for eight days removes the clot and cures the eye trouble.

Dr. Irving Innerfield and Dr. Alfred Angrist of the New York Medical College and Dr. Alfred Schwartz of New York also have used intravenous trypsin in 538 patients having such diseases as acute rheumatoid arthritis, other acute inflammations, clot blockage of arteries, and in blockage of leg veins by infected blood clots.

The trypsin seemed to stop the inflammation, dissolve the clots, and allow natural healing processes in the body to take over.

The New Films
By Myles Standish

ESTHER WILLIAMS, the most celebrated naiad since Daphne, propels her decorative torso all the way across the English Channel in "DANGEROUS WHEN WET," at LOEW'S STATE THEATER. That is the climax, of course, but it takes a long time to get to it. On the way, the film dawdles quite a bit over a romance between Esther and Fernando Lamas, as a wealthy French champagne producer, with a few innocuous but certainly not pungent songs, and a mildly amusing Tom and Jerry underwater sequence with Esther, thrown in for padding. Such expert character comedians as Jack Carson, William Demarest and Charlotte Greenwood are handcuffed by the torpid development.. But Esther in Technicolor and a frilly swim suit is always a gorgeous sight to behold, so at least you won't do your eyes any harm if you see it.

Thhe second feature, "THE GLASS WALL," is a fairly arresting chase melodrama about a stowaway on a displaced persons ship who jumps ship at New York in a desperate attempt to remain in this country and is pursued through some of the seamier sides of the city's night life. It has a nice tension throughout, realism from its night sidewalk shots taken on the scene, and good performances by Vitterio Gassman and Gloria Grahame as a girl down on her luck.

Accent on Curves in Fall Fashions
New York Designers Place Stress on the 'Shape'—Many Lush Fabrics

Post-Dispatch Fashion Writer

NEW YORK, July 13.

THE fall season will bring back curves to fashion, and if it takes stays to hold a figure to the approved shape, style-conscious women will have to accept them.

This is the edict of the New York designers as the semi-annual press showings of the couture group of the New York Dress Institute swing into action. A curvaceous trend is paramount and the result must be flattering no matter how much dieting and how many underpinnings are necessary.

In opening the series of fashion showings today, the designers placed stress upon the "shape" as the news for autumn. Each one has his or her own interpretation of how curves are handled, but all are agreed that a woman's figure must be glorified. Lush fabrics that are easily manipulated by angular seams contribute to the effect, while elegant trimmings and subtly-handled interlinings are also essential to the success of a costume.

If there is any one period of fashion which has served as a model for the late 1953 creations, then it is the period at the turn of the century. The small waistlines, princesse silhouettes, elaborate shoulder trimmings and back-sweeping skirt fullness are noteworthy in the new collections. Contours are firm but seem light, and there is a gentle curving of body coutours rather than an extravagant burst of fullness at hipline or hemline.

Fanciful necklines and interesting shoulder treatments are plentiful. While shoulder pads are not apparent, more fabric is used around the armholes and there are dropped shoulder seems and yokes to accent shoulder width. Fur is used to advantage in decoration of shoulders as well as for the elegant accent on suits and coats. The detachable fur collar or band is a favorite accessory.

Pompadour puffs and multiple bows, tight sleeves contrasting with wide open necklines, scarfs to be draped as the wearer wishes, gallery collars, baby V necklines and bodices that are bare at the back are illustrative of the trends.

The profile is heralded as the season's featured fashion angle. Skirts continue slim for most occasions but there is some type of fullness at the back. This ranges from the deep center pleat released at the knees to a burst of bustle-like drapery sweeping to the hemline. Bodices as well as skirts have some softness of fabric manipulation at the back. Gores and poufs are noteworthy. Many dresses button at the back.

BELTS are less important than they have been for many seasons because the princesse line is a favorite one. A long flow of fabric from a high bosom to the thigh is seen in the "tulip" sheath, the Empire silhouette, and other preferred styles. Suits and coats as well as dresses have the form-fitting emphasis. While many of the coats continue full at the hemline they are cut to curve the figure below deep armholes and through the midriff. Buttons are used to keep coats more closely to the figure at the front.

The jeweled vogue which has appeared this summer on every fabric from denim to chiffon has merely started, judging by the avalanche of glittering trimming on the autumn clothes. Some dresses are solidly jeweled; others have jeweled shoulder straps or jeweled bras. Cut velvet appliques, silk floss embroidery and a blending of jeweled and silk embroidery are among other decorative ideas.

Dark red is a shade highlighted for entire ensembles as well as for accent. Purple tones from pale lilac to royal purple are liked for street clothes as well as for evening dresses. Brown is assuming greater prominence while gray moves into the background. Unusual color combinations are significant. A yellow green, for example, is seen with garnet red. Lilac is allied with green.

Throughout the week, leading designers who are members of the couture group will present their individual collections for fall and winter. In addition, there will be numerous millinery and accessory presentations to give fashion writers from all parts of the country a panoramic view of the modes which women in their cities will be wearing during the coming fall and winter.

How It Started
By Jean Newton

Calling Him a 'Bank Teller.'

TO understand the term "paying teller" for the bank clerk who pays out money on withdrawals, you have to consider the verb, "to tell." It happens that at the same time that tell signified, as it does today, to say, to utter, to make something known, it means, as well, to count!

The Teutonic tongues, whence this word comes to us, illustrate this significance more clearly; for example, the Dutch "tellan" and the German "zahlen" both plainly mean "to count."

The Anglo-Saxon "tellen" derived from "talu," which represented tale or speech and also "number." Thus "tell" on the side of speech was to "mention one by one," so to enumerate—or recount! When Edmund Spenser wrote, "An heap of coin he told," the allusion was to counting coin!

As far back as Geoffrey Chaucer we have "Of which I shall tell all the array"—the "tell" with which we are familiar. However, in the same period which knew "tell" indubitably as "to count," Spencer's contemporary, one William Shakespeare, wrote:

"A secret pilgrimage,
That you today promised to tell me of?"

Thus "to count" and "to communicate" for centuries went hand in hand, and made the teller "one who tells or relates," and "one who numbers" as well. At one time in Britain the term named one of four officers of the Exchequer, appointed to receive funds due to the king and to pay money owed by the king. It survives as the name of the modern bank teller, the officer whom you find behind the little window where you deposit or withdraw the money which he receives or pays out, never failing to count it!

Let's Explore Your Mind
By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

1. SHOULD A MOTHER APPEAL TO HER CHILDREN'S SYMPATHY?
YES ☐ NO ☐

2. DO POOR SPELLERS TEND TO PRONOUNCE WORDS POORLY? YOUR OPINION

7-13
3. SHOULD ALL SCHOOL TEACHERS HAVE HOBBIES?
YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question 1.

NO. According to an eminent psychiatrist a mother is domineering when she says to her young boy or girl: "If you really love me, you'll do as I wish." She gets her way by appealing to the child's sympathy for her, not to common sense. Children of such a mother are likely to become poor marriage risks. They dodge responsibility, let mother select their clothes—even haircuts and hairdos, lest they hurt her feelings. Bad business.

Answer to Question 2.

Probably yes. Psychologists compared good and poor spellers among university students. Nearly all of the latter had poor enunciation, and many of them had poor vision, uncorrected. However, none had poor hearing. Many of their parents, brothers and sisters were also poor spellers. Maybe heredity, maybe environment.

Answer to Question 3.

Yes. Psychologists gave standard tests of "neurotic tendency" to 28 teachers who had "active, outdoor or social" hobbies—sports, fishing, hiking, dancing, etc. Only six were found to be "poorly adjusted," with neurotic tendencies. Of 37 others with "sedentary or solitary hobbies," 18 were "poorly adjusted." Of 28 with "work-type and teaching hobbies"—housework, arithmetic, or special subjects—24 were "poorly adjusted." The introverted ones had sedentary hobbies—which are the wrong kind.

In the early days in Maryland, brick were not ordered to be delivered to the construction site. Instead, because of the almost universal availability of good clay in the state, master brickmakers hired out to make the necessary number of brick at the construction site.

Designing Woman
Draperies at Attention
By Elizabeth Hillyer

TO choose a handsome fabric for draperies, and even to make them expertly, isn't enough. They must stand at attention, heads up with the headings and no slumping of folds.

Choose hooks when you choose the rod, and a good choice is a tall hook which holds each pleat cluster upright. Draperies should cover both the top and the sides of woodwork—attach the rod high and at the extreme edges of the window frame.

To make sure the drapery stands tall enough to hide the window frame, measure from the top of the bracket to the holes in the slide where the hooks go, then measure from the top of the drapery to determine where hooks should be sewed—the measurement from the top of the drapery to the curve of the hook must be equal to or greater than the measurement from the top of the bracket to the holes in the slides.

To make sure the drapery swings backward close to the wall, fasten two hooks at each side of the rod on the brackets. Set the hooks in the slides so there's a neat overlap in the center.

MRS. H. O.—"What color should new carpet be in a room that has soft brown walls, a green rug and sofa, upholstered chairs in red and red draperies? It seems to me that there is enough red and green, and the carpet we're discarding is brown, but what other color will fit in?"

Don't introduce another color into this bright picture. Instead, choose a tweedy mixture that includes brown and green or brown and red with beige and perhaps black. The mixture carries out the color scheme but is restrained in effect, and it should emphasize the brown which is not repeated otherwise except perhaps in furniture woods.

Fix It Yourself

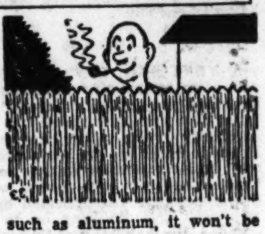
Notes on Fences.



PEOPLE buy fences for a variety of reasons. Some buy fences to protect their house and property from outsiders. Others buy and install fences to protect outsiders from their children and dogs. Others just buy fences to make their homes look more attractive.

Anyway, once you have a fence installed you have something of a problem on your hands because if the fence is not kept looking its best, it's going to spoil the entire appearance of your home.

Now a fence is exposed to the weather 24 hours a day and sometimes it's exposed to a lot of other things as well. That means that in the case of a wood fence the chances are that it will require painting every couple of years and that can be an expensive or time consuming undertaking.

On the other hand, if the fence is made of wood and given a natural finish with a wood preservative stain, it won't require this yearly refinishing.

The same holds true of metal fences. A metal fence made of a corrosive metal or one that depends on a finish to keep it from rusting is going to require a good deal of maintenance to keep it looking its best. On the other hand, if the fence is made of some non-corrosive metal such as aluminum, it won't be subject to rusting.

Of course, the selection of the best fence for you depends on how much you want to pay and what sort of fence will do the best for the job at hand. But when you are out shopping around, be sure to consider the maintenance angle of fences before you put one in the ground.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG U S PAT OFF

Dear Martha:

I AM in love with a married man and in desperate need of advice on how I can get him out of my life. I am always crying over him. Sometimes he acts as though he cares for me and then there are times when he acts as though he can't stand me in his sight. I know that he loves his wife. I am not trying to break up his home. I only ask for a few hours of his time. If he would only call me and ask for a date I would feel better. We have been out together but not in a place where he is known. What should I do, go away where I know I can't see him, or try to find someone else?

HEARTBROKEN.

You'll have to put a stop to this unless you want the terrible responsibility of poisoning a marriage and hurting three lives—including your own. No, you don't want to break up his home, but that is just what you are doing. What right have you to ask even "a few hours of his time?" Both of you are in the wrong, but the fact that you realize it, whether he does or not, is at least a step in the right direction. The next is to put him out of your life. Meet new friends and develop new interests to occupy your mind and your time.

Dear Martha:

I DOUBT IF YOU WILL PRINT this but I wish you would. I saw a boy at the show the other day. The following day I met him at the zoo. We were talking and I think we both liked each other. I haven't seen or heard from him since. He has no phone and neither have I. He has been on my mind day and night. What can I do? It's driving me crazy.

DESPERATE.

Of course, I'll print it, because I think it's important for you to realize that you're basing your attraction for this boy on a terribly flimsy foundation. From what you say, you have seen him only twice, both times by chance. You talked and you think you "liked each other." I know I can't tell you to forget him, because it isn't that easy. But when you stop and think that you know absolutely nothing about this boy, you can see why it seems a little foolish to let yourself moon over him.

IN ANSWER TO Bette: I cannot answer questions of a legal nature, but you can obtain the services of a lawyer through the Lawyers Reference Service, sponsored by the Bar Association of St. Louis. It is located on the ninth floor of the Civil Courts building and hours are from 2 to 4 p.m. For a nominal fee, an attorney will discuss your problem with you and advise you whether you need further legal help.

* * *

IN ANSWER TO Pete: I wish I could help you, but I'm afraid my only advice can be just what you expected me to say: try your best to forget her. From what you say, she treated you in a very shabby manner, and had she seemed concerned or apologetic, you might have been justified in forgiving her and continuing to ask her for dates. However, I can't see much percentage in being interested in someone who treats you in that manner.

Breaking Away

By Angelo Patri

"NO boy of 16 should be out this time of night," a mother declared.

"Well, Grace," her husband observed, "now it's happened, what are we going to do about it?"

"I don't know. I'm puzzled, George. Somehow I feel John is growing away from us. It seems to me he has lost confidence in both of us. He doesn't talk to us the way he used to."

"He talks enough when he wants to have his say."

"Yes, he talks about things in general, but not about his personal affairs. If I ask him a question about himself, he shuts up like a clam."

"Come, come, Grace, you're making a mountain out of a mole hill. Let's go upstairs. We'll see him in the morning."

"WHAT'S THE USE. We couldn't go to sleep worrying about him."

"Why not? He's no child. A boy of 16 ought to be able to take care of himself. If he isn't able to by now—"

"That's just it. He isn't a man and he isn't a child, he's like a stranger in the house."

"Don't get all worked up. We'll feel better in the morning."

"Please wait. I want you to see him tonight. I think you should talk to him. Maybe he'll open up to you."

"At 2 o'clock in the morning? The young scamp."

"He'll be so tired when he gets in. I'll turn down his bed."

"All right, Grace. But I'm so tired, I can hardly keep my eyes open."

"It won't take a second." Mother silently slipped into her son's room. "George," she whispered, on returning, "what do you think? John is in there fast asleep."

"Can you beat it. We worrying and he here all the time."

"I wish I knew what ailed him. He looks so much like the little boy I used to know sleeping there. But when he's awake I don't seem to know him at all, and what's more he doesn't want me to."

IN THE DAYS of childhood children stay close to their mothers. As adolescence approaches they tend to break away. Individuality, the feeling of strong personality, the desire for personal expression and recognition asserts itself. They cease to confide in their parents, to tell about their plans and hopes and actions. Only when they must, do they bow grudgingly to parental demands.

If this is happening in your home, remember it is the way of youth. No matter how you try some quality of this growing child is going to remain hidden from you. You have your own secrets. Be content to allow the child to have his. John was like the rest of his tribe—he had withdrawn somewhat from his parents.

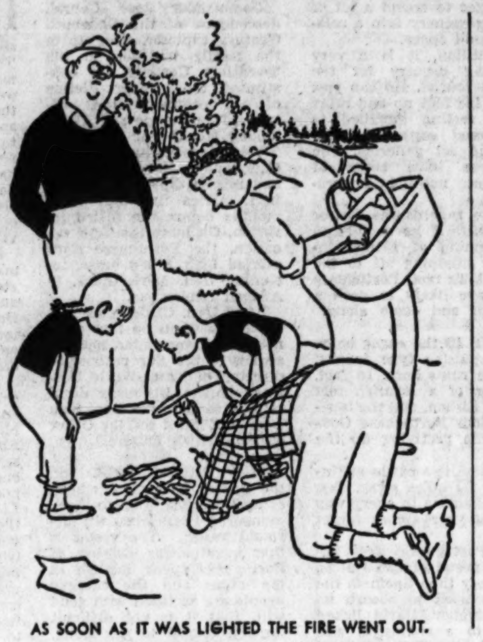
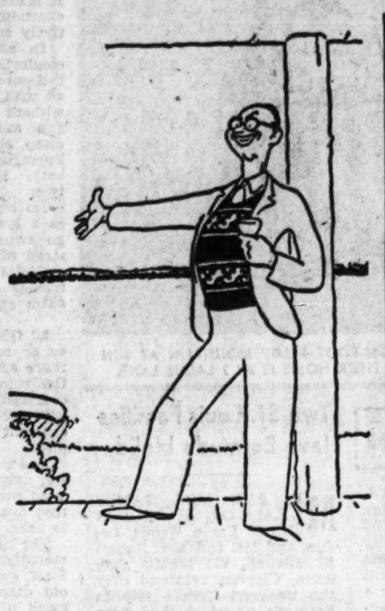
The Camp at Lockjaw

The Joys of a Picnic on the Lake

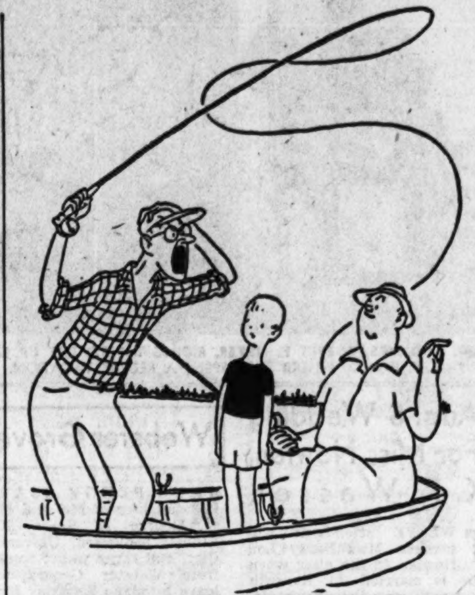
Mr. Snivvely Finally Dines on Olives, and Worries About Broken Glass; Fishing Is Fun, Too



AS SOON AS IT WAS LIGHTED THE FIRE WENT OUT.



"EVER TASTE MUFFLE?" ASKED MR. RAMBLE.



MR. SUNWISE AMAZED RICHARD BY THE QUALITY OF HIS VOCABULARY.

By David McCord

Second in a series from "The Camp at Lockjaw," the story of city-soft Mr. Snivvely's tribulations on vacation with friends in the Maine woods. Illustrations are by Gluyas Williams.

IT was late afternoon. Since four o'clock Mr. Snivvely felt that more was brewing than a pot of tea. Mr. Sunwise emerged from the cabin with a blanket, an old newspaper, a toasting fork, and some kitchen utensils.

"You're not leaving?" asked Mr. Snivvely.

"I just want to put these in the canoe," said Mr. Sunwise, "We're going to cook supper up the lake."

"Don't you think it will rain?" asked Mr. Snivvely.

"No," said Mr. Sunwise. "Why should it?"

"Hello," said Mrs. Sunwise, coming out to get the basket. "Do you know we are going to picnic?"

They got into two canoes and paddled for what seemed to Mr. Snivvely an extraordinarily long time. He pointed out to Mrs. Sunwise, who was sharing his canoe and splashing him from the bow every time she withdrew her paddle, a number of desirable sites for such a project.

None of these places, however, as might be suspected, could compare with the one to which they were going. By the time they arrived at their destination, Richard and Janet were in wading and Mr. Sunwise was shaking together some sticks for a fire.

"I always light a fire with just one match," said Mr. Sunwise a little boastfully, going on with his preparations.

Two minutes later it was discovered that he had forgotten even that one.

"Here," said Mr. Snivvely, "take mine."

"That's splendid," said Mr. Sunwise.

As soon as it was lighted the fire went out.

Mr. Sunwise held out his hand.

But Mr. Snivvery shook his head.

"Why didn't you tell me that was your only match?" cried Mr. Sunwise angrily.

"You said you only needed one," replied Mr. Snivvely.

"What are we going to do?" said Mr. Sunwise.

"When do we eat?" cried little Richard.

"I don't know," said Mr. Sunwise. "We've no matches."

"Got some," said Richard.

"Richard," cried Mrs. Sunwise, "what are you doing with matches? Hasn't Father forbade you to touch them?"

"All right," said Mr. Sunwise. "You give those here."

After the fire was made and Mrs. Sunwise had started to get supper, Mr. Sunwise and Mr. Snivvely took a stroll up the shore.

The smell of burning tomatoes led them back to the fire. They found Mrs. Sunwise scraping the frying pan with leaves and sand.

Polishing the silver?" asked Mr. Snivvely.

"Janet fell in the water," explained Mrs. Sunwise, "and while I ran down to see what happened the tomatoes got burned."

By popular vote it was decided that each person should cook his or her bacon on individual forks cut from alder bushes. Mr Snivvely dropped each of his slices in the fire, where they were done to a crisp before he could scout them out, and then it was difficult to tell the final product from ordinary charcoal.

He was eating his tenth stuffed olive when Mr. Sunwise said that he should remember to be careful.

Mr. Snivvely asked him of what.

Mr. Sunwise said didn't he know that Richard had opened them by smashing in the top and that everybody had to look out for broken glass?

For a long time that evening Mr. Snivvely sat slapping himself by the fire and looking up into the sky.

It was a fine night. The sky was a great olive and the stars were bright particles of glass.

* * *

IT MUST NOT be thought that Lockjaw is a virgin country of forest broken by lakes and inhabited solely by the genus Sunwise, loons, and black flies in season. Far from it.

"Just enough people about to keep us from being lonely," was the way Mr. Sunwise put it.

There were boats and canoes on the lake every forenoon, and sometimes in the afternoon, and almost always in the late evening when the fishing was best. Some people named Pilford and their guests had already appeared at the Sunwise float. There had been introductions, and the horrid intimation of all of them coming over for supper one of these evenings. "One of these evenings" turned out to be that night.

"Lend us a hand," hailed Mr. Pilford cordially, as the visitors' canoe slid alongside. He smiled wanly at Mrs. Pilford, at Mrs. Pilford's tweedy brother named Ramble, and at Mr. and Mrs. Somebody, the apparently seasoned guests who had manned the paddles fore and aft.

"Ever taste muffle?" asked Mr. Ramble, suddenly addressing Mr. Snivvely.

"Moose muffle?"

"The muzzle," explained Mr. Pilford, stroking his brother-in-law's chin. "Very tasty, if you know what I mean."

Mr. Snivvely felt that he knew, shuddered inwardly. He addressed himself to the Pilford guests, who turned out to be Mr. and Mrs. Vigurd or Weygard or something like that.

"You like it up here?" he asked, carefully spacing and accenting each word.

"Like it? Hell, we love it!" Mr. Arvin Vigurd (or Weygard) grinned his love.

"All we're afraid of," continued Arvin with gusto, "is that some of these fools with planes will be moving in on us. You heard that plane today?"

Mr. Snivvely nodded again.

"Doesn't one ever land here?" he asked hopefully.

"Land here? Hell, no. I'd shoot the gas tank full of holes."

"But supposing you had to get out in a hurry—appendix or something: I've still got mine." Mr. Snivvely pointed to where his appendix was or ought to be.

"There's the paper company's plane next lake over."

Mr. Snivvely felt gingerly of the right side of his abdomen. He would have to get out of here at all costs — within 24 hours, if possible. Appendicitis! Peritonitis! If he gave his mind to it, he would have the full symptoms. What were they, by the way?

"But we've all had appendicitis," said Mr. Ramble.

"Come to think of it," added Arvin, "the surgeon who removed mine brought it up in a bottle and caught a damned nice trout with it. Weighed just over three pounds."

"I thought it was three," said Arvin.

"Well, are you ready for supper?" beamed Mrs. Sunwise from the cabin door. "I've got a rare treat for you."

From out of the gathering darkness came the shivery laughter of the loons.

MR. SUNWISE and Richard were digging angleworms on the south side of the cabin.

Mr. Snivvely was looking on.

"They're all small ones," said Mr. Sunwise.

"The younger generation is the first to go," said Mr. Snivvely.

Mr. Sunwise toiled in silence. When Richard estimated that they had dug between 36 and 41 worms, Mr. Sunwise put away his spade and they all went down to the lake. Richard was to come along if he would sit still.

Mr. Snivvely was to have Mr. Sunwise's old bait rod (plenty good enough for a tyro) and Mr. Sunwise would take his best bamboo — a five-and-one-half ounce Sweetheart.

Before the latter was strung up, Mr. Snivvely was invited to "feel the whip of it."

"It's a fine rod," said Mr. Snivvely, who didn't know a reel from a leader box. By comparison, the shorter bait rod felt like a broken umbrella. He said as much.

"What you want," said Mr. Sunwise, "is a hat, a fan, a good cigar, and a lot of patience."

"I have a hat," said Mr. Snivvely, "and I don't smoke cigars. And thanks to Richard's upsetting my tobacco tin, I no longer smoke a pipe."

In this amiable manner they climbed into the rowboat and Mr. Sunwise pulled stubbornly for a spot below the horizon.

"We're going where the fish are," he said. "Where I can use a fly and you can drop in a worm. There's a spring hole deep down, and you just might get a good one if they aren't rising. If they are rising, I'll get him." They came to rest in a cloud of mosquitoes not many yards from land.

"Here," said (slap) Mr. Sunwise.

"Where?" said Mr. (slap) Snivvely.

For answer, Mr. Sunwise pointed down into the water and put his finger to his lips with the implication that a trout might at any moment leap into the boat. Mr. Snivvely and Richard peered over the side, and between them, somehow, the steel landing net fell overboard and sank quietly out of sight.

Mr. Sunwise was furious and said, "We might as well go home as fish without a net." This cheered Mr. Snivvely so much that he swore it was all his fault and not Richard's.

Mr. Sunwise said (slap) he was sorry to have lost his temper and that, after all, it was better (slap) for him to be upset than the boat.

While Mr. Sunwise looped on a brilliant fly and with long, anxious casts proceeded to cover all the vacant water in the vicinity, Mr. Snivvely and Richard covered in the stern and were eaten systematically by mosquitoes.

During the second hour Mr. Snivvely dropped in his twenty-sixth worm and his sunglasses simultaneously. From then on, he was a hard man to deal with.

Toward dusk, when Mr. Snivvely was reduced to one large mosquito bite, he asked Mr. Sunwise what he thought that black speck in the distance could be.

* * *

MR. SUNWISE said he didn't know. Richard thought it was just a long. Neither was interetsed.

"I fancied it might be one of the oars," said Mr. Snivvely. "I haven't seen either of them for some time."

Mr. Sunwise came to like a shot and amazed Richard by the quality of his vocabulary. For the next half-hour they worked their way ashore with all available bare hands. Here they took aboard a few branches and propelled themselves by 8:30 to the first oar. It was then too dark to look for the second.

"It's little events like those today which make the woods life what it is," said Mr. Sunwise in a genial mood that evening. Mr. Snivvely stared at him and dreamed all night with a great deal of pleasure first that a moose ate him and second that he was permanently injured in a taxicab smash.

TOMORROW: Mr. Snivvely learns about ferns.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

ALTHOUGH this writer believes in the general policy of leaving in partner's double of one no-trump on the barest justification, it is only fair to point out that such leave-ins often demand double-dummy defense to pan out.

As it happened, a club opening by West, with East shifting to diamonds, would have led to a four-trick defeat of the contract, but West's leave-in of the double had been predicated on the idea of opening from the long diamond suit, so West stuck to that choice. South won the first trick with the diamond ten, led a heart to dummy, and returned a low spade. Obviously, if East had known the true situation (that West was prepared to run five diamond tricks) he would have hopped up with the spade ace—but how could he know? West might have only four good diamonds, possibly with a heart stopper. If East surrendered his tenace position in spades, he might easily have to settle for a one-trick penalty, whereas a spade duck might hold declarer to three hearts, one spade and one diamond.

After declarer "stole" the spade trick, he ran off three more hearts, and though he could not get the fulfilling trick, the 100-point penalty was very satisfactory from the North-South point of view. East-West not only could have defeated the hand four tricks, but, due to the perfect break of diamonds, they actually could have made a game in no trump on their own account, or failing that, they could at least have rolled up a fair score in diamonds—any of which would have given them a much better match-point result.

Gay Parties For Visitors In the East

By Frances Conant Richards

NEW YORK, July 13.

THE eastern seaboard had a banner weekend over the Fourth of July holidays. The jingling of ice cubes emanated from every striped cabana, high-class sunburns were there for all takers and beach club dances were a must for all members. Perhaps the biggest and nicest party was given in Spring Lake, N.J., by Mr. and Mrs. James Lowell Oakes Jr. (Mary Sue McCulloch), who had a house-warming at Green Gables, their newly acquired house facing the ocean.

About 200 guests went from all over the countryside—some by boat, some by luxurious, air-conditioned automobiles and others by mere small cars and trains.

The party started off with cocktails at the new house and continued across the road at the dinner dance Jim and Suzie Oakes gave at the Bath and Tennis Club. The cocktail party was given, inadvertently, by candlelight. Shortly after 7 o'clock, as guests began to arrive during a crashing electrical storm, all the lights went off. Two broad porches overlooking the lawns and rose gardens accommodated many of the guests, while others went into the candlelighted living rooms to look over the pale-green and coral decor.

At the club, tables of about 14 each were arranged around the dance floor and the guests dined, toasted their host and hostess in champagne, danced until well after midnight and were royally entertained by a singer and a magician imported from New York.

Sue's mother, Mrs. Richard McCulloch, who is spending the summer at the Essex and Sussex Hotel in Spring Lake, sat at one table on the edge of the dance floor, and the hostess's brother, John I. Beggs McCulloch, at another. He, his daughter and three sons are in Spring Lake for July, but in August will be at Bishop's Lodge, Santa Fe, N.M.

Suzie and Jim Oakes's table was made up of the four couples spending the weekend in their house. They included Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Lincoln Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Trout and Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Harper.

Friday night, July 3, marked the official opening of the Bath and Tennis Club for the season. Houseguests and many of the cottage colony who had danced there Thursday night returned for the regular opening dinner dance.

TWENTY MILES up the coast, in the environs of Rumson, N.J., aand the Seabright Beach Club, there was an equal amount of buffets, dinner dancing and house parties. Fine weather drew everyone to the beach for a swim in the surf, a noontime tonic out of thermos bottles and a buffet lunch or picnic on the sand. Saturday night was the date for the big dinner dance at the Rumson Country Club where all the living rooms had been cleared to make room for diner tables.

Margaret and Mort Jenks (Mr. and Mrs. Morton Jenks of Chestnut Hill, Pa.) were among those spotted on the beach then later at the club dance. Margaret Jenks, the former Margaret Mathews, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mathews of Alton, Ill. They and their three children drive up from Chestnut Hill to Rumson each weekend, a matter of about two hours each way. On Aug. 1 Margaret and the children will go to Northeast Harbor, Me., to visit her parents, and Mort Jenks will be there during part of August.

The William King Gardners and Elizabeth Gempp are St. Louis sailors this weekend. The Gardners sailed Saturday on the Flandre and Miss Gempp took off Wednesday noon aboard the Mauretania. Mrs. Gardner and Elizabeth were on the same train coming east, Elizabeth leaving herself just one day in town before sailing and Mrs. Gardner coming on early to give herself several days.

Elizabeth will go first to France, on to Venice to join friends, then sail to Palestine, Beirut, Damascus and Israel. When she returns to Central Europe she will go to Salzburg for the music festival and opera season, then cross over to Scotland for the Edinburgh Festival.

Two St. Louis Families Have Bermuda Holiday

MR. AND MRS. JAMES LEMMON HAMILTON JR., 55 Loren Woods, Ladue, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Mitchell, 721 Middle Polo drive, Clayton, returned over the weekend from a trip to Bermuda on which they were accompanied by their children, Edward Marsh Hamilton, and David, Dulaney and Andrew Mitchell.

The Hamiltons, who left here June 12 to join the Mitchells in New York, stopped en route in Syracuse, N.Y., to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert George Ducharme (Jayne Hamilton), and the Ducharnes' young daughter, Robyne.

Flying to Bermuda, the travelers stayed at Pomander Gate, a guest house near Rocheterre, home of Mrs. Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David M. Rae, and her sister, Mrs. K. M. Shorto. The Raes, who formerly lived in Scotland, have made Bermuda their home for the past six years.

Comforting Country

Portugal Easy on Tourists

By Inez Robb

LISBON, July 13 (INS).

PORTUGAL occupies the hills and valleys that roll down from Spain to the Atlantic Ocean, a more green and gentle land than Spain. It manages to crowd a lot of charming scenery into a relatively small space.

In addition, it is a very comforting country for the foot-sore tourist. He can just sit with his feet up and relax without feeling impelled to run around exploring museums and art galleries. The Portuguese have some of both, but nothing imperative.

No one regards the visitor as a lowlife if he decides to go swimming at Estoril instead of swooping off to the cathedral. In fact, Portuguese friends are likely to grab a swim suit and come along.

IF ONE IS the eager beaver or repulsive type tourist, there are ruins here. In fact, the ruins of a Moorish fort overlook Lisbon, and the tourist-conscious Portuguese Government is prettying up the place.

And there is a castle at Sintra, only 30 miles away, that is so enchanting in every way that even your arches forget to ache.

The Portuguese are immensely proud of two things. First, every time Spain in the old days tried to absorb its small neighbor, David licked Goliath to a standstill, and second, in the Fifteenth and Sixteenth Centuries, Portugal produced the greatest race of navigator-explorers the world has ever known.

This nation is willing to admit that Christopher Columbus was fairly good, but not quite up to their Magellan, De Gama, Cabral, Albuquerque, De Andrade, De Sousa and Fernandes, to name only a few, who opened up vast new worlds for the old world.

Commander Jose Cabral, descendant of the Sixteenth Century explorer, lives up to the family tradition in the Twentieth Century. He constituted the slender lifeline of air communications between free Europe and Africa during World War II.

Via Aero-Portuguesa, the Commander flew American and British diplomatic papers into Africa in the tense months before the Allied invasion. On more than one occasion, the Portuguese flyer carried high Allied brass, including Gen. Mark Clark, to African rendezvous.

"And Gen. Clark never lost his pants when he flew with me," the Commander, now assistant to the European sales director of Trans-World Airlines, laughs. His many decorations include the American Legion of Merit and the Order of the British Empire.

THE PORTUGUESE and the British have always been sympatico. The British have pioneered Portugal as a year-round resort. The result is that a surprising number of Portuguese speak English in the cities and the country people are so filled with good will, that it is not difficult for the tourist to get along, even in sign language.

We Americans have left our mark, too, on Portugal, the great exporter of sardines. At first, the Portuguese canned skinless and boneless sardines only for whimsical American palates. Now, they prefer 'em that way themselves.

My Day

Visit to Theater at Epidaurus

By Eleanor Roosevelt

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia.

IF you will bear with me for just a bit more, I should like to continue with the story of our stopover in Greece. There were so many things we learned there that I am reluctant to close this report until I have given you at least the highlights of our brief visit.

Mrs. Roosevelt

Early one morning I stepped out on my balcony at the Bourdgi Hotel in Corinth and the sea looked beautifully calm, with only two fishing boats in the offing.

I knew it was still very early, so I carefully read our guide which we borrowed from Miss Alison Frantz of the American archeolgoical research group. Curiously enough, one could not buy a good guide book in Athens, so I was grateful for it even though it was several years old. It served us well on this trip. Without, however, having someone who really has worked on the excavations and can tell you all about them, I found the ruins much harder to understand and appreciate, even with the guide book.

AS SOON AS I had finished reading, I got up and dressed. Then I took the first draft of an article I am writing and found the path around our picturesque little hotel. I sat on the wall over the water, with the mountains rising out of the sea opposite me, and corrected my article.

Incidentally, the origin of this little castle which is now a hotel is not such a happy one. It was once a prison and the executioners were so unpopular they lived here as a protection. The poor people who were going to be executed were taken to the mainland where they could go to church and make their last confession, and then were brought back to be executed, so it is known as the island of the executioners.

The cells are now all made into nice little rooms with little circular balconies. We had our breakfast table in what must have been the first security yard as the prisoners were brought in. It now has a few flowers in the center and looks quite gay and cheerful.

AFTER EATING, we started on our way to Epidaurus. There we climbed to the top of the theater, which is one of the most beautifully preserved and perfect that I have seen. It seated 14,000 people, and I was told that if the actors stood on the middle of the stage their voices could be heard without effort up in the very top seats. We visited the museum and then walked some distance around the excavations, but it was difficult to tell from the guide book just what we were seeing. The guide who accompanied us spoke very little French or English, so we were not very successful in getting much information.

We rejoined our car further down the road and drove back through Nauplia to Tiryn. The legend is that the Cyclopes brought the huge stones from a neighboring mountain. Our guide, however, smiled and admitted that slaves had done the work. What didn't the slaves do in those days? They manned the oars of those huge triremes which sailed so many seas. They did all the heavy work on the many, many, many buildings which you now see in ruins.

One can't fail to be surprised, in looking at these ruins, at how thoroughly the destruction was done when the structures must have been so hard to erect.

It's an Idea

By Vera

Wrought iron garden furniture looks very handsome in the kitchen.

Cheese Waffles

Cheese waffles make a hearty lunch or supper dish topped with creamed fish, meat, or vegetables.

Fresh Cookies

Soft cookies will keep fresh and moist in a tightly covered container if you tuck a slice of apple in among the cookies.

Any leftover pie dough around? Roll and cut in squares; fill the squares with a little orange marmalade; moisten the pastry edges with cold water, fold toward the center and pinch together.

When you are buying potatoes for baking, choose those that are well-shaped and of the same size so all the potatoes will cook in about the same length of time.

CHAPTER NINE

IT TOOK Dave a long time to open and unpack the books. He stacked them any way on the shelves. Newton had taken him at his word. When George got that bill he'd send an ambulance and big men with butterfly nets after him.

That night, as he slept, the snow began, and he woke to a leaden sky and the falling whiteness, falling like feathers, light and silent, the ground covered.

He went out before breakfast. The air was cold and pure, and no wind blew.

Exhilarated, he walked to the point of land.

It was a light snow, changing too soon to freezing, rattling rain. The first snow, forerunner, herald, the preface to the long story of the winter.

Walking along the soggy banks, Dave was restless. Indoors the walls closed in, he wanted to push them out and run. Outside there was more space but no less loneliness. He had no wish for human association, yet desired it as a man whom food sickens, may still feel hungry.

He chopped wood, brought it in, scattered crumbs for the birds. He tended his fire. Sometimes, he looked at the books Newton had sent, but nothing held his attention.

Walking out along the village street one day he ran into Hank Dawson, who smote his shoulder, crying: "What are you doing in town, Dave?"

"Oh, errands mainly. Touch of cabin fever perhaps. Anyway, I dropped in at the movies to kill time. How are you?"

"Fine. Now I've got you cornered, come on home with me to supper."

"Thanks, but I couldn't impose. Your wife would kill you."

"Louise? You don't know her, and we have elastic meals. Come on, it'll do you good."

DAVE hesitated. If he accepted, there was the obligation to talk and listen. He was still shaken with remembering. If he returned to camp the film would inexorably continue to unroll.

"Don't you have to let her know?"

"It wasn't over when I left. Don't you have to wait for him?"

"No, he'll show up in his own sweet time. Besides, he's at the age where he hates being fetched, even it means walking, which he hates just a little less. Wait here, I'll get my car, upstreet, pull around, and you follow."

"Hank, weren't you on your way somewhere?"

Synopsis

David Barton, an able young business executive, had been inconsolable since the death of his teen-age son, Tim. Nothing that friends or family did or said seemed to help. He had sought escape in drink, and that having failed him, he was determined now to seek some woodland abode where he might fight out this battle of self alone. It was all very amicably agreed between him and his devoted wife, Emily. She would accept a job that had been offered her, one that would take her to Europe during her husband's absence from home. So we find David Barton now living the hermit life at an abandoned campsite in the eastern sector of our north woods. Here his handful of neighbors welcome him in their hearty rural manner, with the young Rogers boys, Joe and Herb, calling at his cabin, offering to help with chores. Watching them scamper about fills Barton once more with that all-consuming sense of terrible loss and grief. However, he responds to friendship, and soon begins talking of his departed son, Tim, just as though the boy might still be with him.

The Dawson car came along and Dave got his car and followed his host. Presently Dawson turned into a driveway, stopped, got out and waved. "Park anywhere," he said. "Garage is underneath—put her in, if you'd rather."

Dave ran the car into the garage, and he and Hank went to the house. There were shade trees in front and shrubs. Dawson said: "There's more yard out back; the kids play there and I try to grow vegetables."

The house was frame, undistinguished, and in need of paint. Dawson opened the door, and inside, Dave had an impression of sufficient space, some shabbiness, and much warmth, not all of which was due to an oil burner. For Louise Dawson ran downstairs to meet them, a pleasant young woman, with honest blue eyes and silky fair hair. She told Dave she was glad to meet him and he believed her.

"Hank speaks of you so much. I hope you like Irish stew, Mr. Barton."

"Call the guy Dave. Who stands on ceremony over Irish stew? Let me take your coat, fella."

"Didn't Henry come in with you?"

"He's still downtown, far's I know. Kids in bed?"

"I was just getting them ready. I gave them an early supper. Betsy's bouncy now her cold's gone. I think she needs sleep. They're waiting for you, Hank. Perhaps Mr. — that is Dave, would like to come up, too?"

THEY went up. The four-year-old, Sheila, sat in a miniature rocking chair; a battered toy animal hung from one relaxed hand, its owner rocked and made a tuneless humming sound. The baby, Betsy, fat and rosy, tumbled, yawning, in her crib. Now she stood up, holding the bars, beaming at her father, saying: "Daddy."

"Hi, honey," said Hank, tossed her high and caught her. She shrieked with laughter, he transferred her to her mother's arm and Dave moved closer to speak to her. She regarded him with friendly curiosity, a healthy baby, fair and cordial like her mother.

Hank leaned over the rocker, his arms out, "How's my girl?" he asked tenderly.

Sheila had not looked up since their entrance but now she said "Da" and raised her brilliant eyes. Dave, looking down, caught his breath. This was perhaps the most beautiful child he'd ever seen. Hank had described her as pretty as paint. . . .

"Hello, Sheila," Dave said, smiling, but she did not turn toward him nor put her arms out to be taken. Hank's dropped to his side, and now Dave saw how empty the great eyes were, and the exquisite little face so vacant.

Sheila went on rocking; the motion grew violent; she threw the toy aside, screamed, and went on screaming.

Louise put the baby in the crib and took the older child's firm weight in her arms, hiding the distorted face against her breast. "It's all right, darling," she said, and looked at her husband. "She's been so good all day. She's just tired. Suppose you go on down. I'll be right along," she said.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

PACIFIC time is three hours behind eastern time. If it is noon in Toronto or Montreal, the time is 9 o'clock in the morning at Vancouver. In the same way, San Francisco clocks are normally three hours behind those of Philadelphia or New York.

When I speak about that difference, I refer to standard time. During portions of the year, many cities in various parts of the continent are under "daylight saving time," also called "fast time." In England the old name for it is "summer time."

THE WESTERNMOST part of Canada has Yukon time. Standard time in Halifax is five hours ahead of Yukon time. At 5 p.m. in Halifax, it is only noon in Dawson.

Being far to the north, where degrees of longitude are shorter, Alaska has more than its share of time belts. Let us say that the time is noon in Juneau, Alaska; at the same instant, the time is 3 p.m. in western parts of Alaska.

Jet planes have made average speeds of 550 miles an hour, or a bit more, while crossing the Atlantic Ocean. If such a plane left southern Norway on Monday at noon, and made a round-the-world trip at the same speed, it could fly directly westward and keep up with the sun! If all went well, the people of southern Norway would see the pilot again one day later, on Tuesday noon.

CHANGING HIS WATCH, according to time belts, the pilot would have noontime every hour on the hour all the way around the globe!

TIME BELTS IN EUROPE.

There would have to be a change of days, however, during the journey. This would come when the pilot crossed the international date line, which cuts southward through the Pacific Ocean. On the eastern side of the date line, the time would be Monday noon. On the other side, the time would be Tuesday noon, and it would remain Tuesday noon until his return to Norway.

CHUCK NORMAN SPINS

'TIS TRULY SAID—Many a girl has been taken in when she thought she was being taken out.

DISC DATA—Tony Martin and wife Cyd Charisse are on the cover of Cashbox mag this week touting his waxing of "Unfair." . . . Speaking of covers, I counted Marilyn Monroe on five on one newstand the other nite. . . . The addiction for animal sounds on records rears its head again with Dinah Shore's "Blue Canary." . . . Mario Lanza, though dispossessed by MGM, remains in Victor's good graces. They're giving the big push to his latest, "If You Were Mine." . . . Recommended: The Fontane Sisters' two sided melancholia "Play Our Song" and "Falling."

FROM A CORNER TABLE—At Lou Carbone's: "Lou's thinking of running a special—all you can eat for $54.00." . . . At the Sheraton: "We're all out of wild duck, sir. I could get you a tame duck and annoy it, though." . . . At the Circle: "He's the big man around there—he runs the business with an iron head." . . . At Pagliacci's: "I got this black eye for kissing a guy's bride after the ceremony—it was four years after the ceremony."

(Hear Chuck Norman, WIL, 7 to 8 p.m.)
